Fisheries Official

Issues License Reminder

All boats, whether private or commercial, equipped with shrimp trawl nets must be licensed, C. G. Holland, assistant commercial fisheries commissioner, reminded shrimpers today.

License fee for boats under 26 feet is 50 cents a foot; over 26 feet, 75 cents a foot.

Failure to secure and prominently display a shrimp trawl net license plate is a misdemeanor subject to a minimum $5 fine, a maximum of 30 days in jail, and seizure of boat and gear.

(Continued from Page One) again it started to roll. From that point until the car came to rest, he said he didn't remember because of a blow on the head.

When he came to, the car was bottom side up and he was the only one in the car. He said he climbed out in search of his friends. He found Riggs at the site of the first roll still conscious.

Next he went to Allen who asked him to check the ignition.

Grossnickle said he went back and checked the car, removing a floor mat which was smoking. He then asked the crowd that had gathered if they would get blankets or a coat to put on his friends. Nobody answered, he said, so he went to a nearby house and borrowed a blanket and a coat.

After covering up Riggs and Allen, Grossnickle said he passed out and remembers only that Patrolman Sykes was there and took him to the hospital for examination.

At the hospital Grossnickle said he asked for a blood test or some other alcoholic test. The physician on duty said that there was no test that he could give.

Henry Holt, Rainbow Inn, told the court that he sold the three men two beers each, and while Grossnickle was out, Riggs and Allen shared Grossnickle's second beer.

Riggs and Allen testified that they had ordered two beers with Grossnickle drinking only one and a part of the second. They had the remainder. They could not confirm the statement made by Grossnickle that another car was approaching on the curve on their side.

Grossnickle's lawyer asked for a warrant amended to reckless driving which Judge Morris granted against the vigorous protest of Wiley Taylor, solicitor. The speeding charge was dropped, also against Mr. Taylor's wishes.

Installation Discussed

Beaufort Rotarians discussed installation of new officers at their meeting Tuesday at the Inlet Inn. Club visitors were Ray Greene, Rotarian from Tallahassee, Fla., and John C. Parkin, Beaufort.

Crippled Children League To Sponsor Speech Clinic

The Carteret County Chapter, North Carolina League for Crippled Children, will again sponsor a speech clinic for children starting Thursday and continuing through June 16.

Classes will be held each day from 9 to 11:30 a.m. in the Recreation Center, Morehead City. The school, under direction of Fred G. Lewis, Morehead City, is for children who have speech impediments.

There is no charge for the school, but parents are responsible for transportation to and from the clinic.

Other than Mr. Lewis, four teachers will be on the clinic staff. They are Miss Catherine Gaskill, Beaufort; Ralph T. Wade, Miss Gertrude Styron and Mrs. Bob Williams, Morehead City.

Teachers selected to do this work have been trained in the special education field, Mr. Lewis said.

Letters from the schools and Mr. Lewis have already been sent to parents of children with speech impediments. Tests, covering articulation and hearing, have been conducted in the school to determine which children need help.

The children will be shown how to reproduce sounds correctly and will spend time on drills in perfecting their speech. Classes are to be divided into four periods of 30 minutes each with a short recess.

At the end of the clinic a report of the child's progress and the clinic's findings will be sent to parents and the school.

Thirty-three have been registered for the clinic so far, said Mr. Lewis.

Charles Davis, Negro, was arrested by Chief of Police M. E. Guy Saturday on a charge of public drunkenness. He pleaded guilty and paid court costs, $21.50.
