Newport Couple Attends Meeting At Myrtle Beach

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence A. Garner, Newport, attended a directors' conference of the North Carolina Production Credit Associations at Myrtle Beach, S. C., recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Garner were accompanied to the conference by Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Davis of New Bern. Mr. Davis is secretary-treasurer of the New Bern association, and Mr. Garner is a director.

This was the 21st annual conference of North Carolina Production Credit Association officers and directors. According to reports given at the meeting, farmers from the Third Farm Credit District comprised of the states of North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, and Florida have nearly $22,000,000 invested in the capital and reserves of the Production Credit Associations with farmer-member net worth increasing by more than $2,000,000 last year.

One of the speakers for the conference was Marshall H. Edwards of Florida, member of the Federal Farm Credit board, who described in detail the Farm Credit Act of 1953, and the operation of the Credit board.

J. William Fanning of Athens, Ga., director of services of the Continuing Education center of the University of Georgia, also spoke and said that high production of crop and livestock is a "must" as farmers are facing more competition and more commercialization.

Approximately 175 officers and directors from the 27 associations in North Carolina attended the two-day conference.

Hours Set for Visits To Hatteras Light

Buxton, June 21 — Cape Hatteras, America's tallest lighthouse and the tallest structure of its kind in the world made of brick, is now open two hours daily from Friday through Tuesday, it was announced here today by Gus Hultman, chief ranger of the National Seashore Recreational Area.

On duty at the base of the tower during visiting hours are national park rangers assigned to duty on Hatteras Island section of the National Seashore Park. Visiting hours on Friday, Saturday, Sunday, Monday and Tuesday are from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m.

Since the lighthouse is an active beacon to warn mariners of the dangerous waters of nearby Diamond Shoals the Coast Guard maintains watchmen inside the tower and at its summit where the great lighting apparatus is in operation.

His wife Lucy. He received his early education in Steubenville. At the age of 18 he took up the study of law which along with politics he followed most of his lifetime. He accepted the religion of his mother — Methodist — in early life but later turned Episcopalian. History often refers to him as a Quaker but he failed to adopt the religion of his long line of Quaker ancestry.

Appointed in 1862 by President Lincoln as Secretary of War, Stanton resigned following Lincoln's death but was induced by President Johnson to continue. On the nomination of President Grant he was appointed judge of the Supreme Court but he died four days after his appointment.

A shadow cast over the life of Edwin M. Stanton. Otto Eisenschiml in his book "Why was Lincoln Murdered?" sifting evidence of the murder... concludes that a high official in the Cabinet was the master mind behind Lincoln's death. The man, so Eisenschiml charges throughout, was Edwin McMaster Stanton, Secretary of War, who took his own life a few years later.

Leaders Featured Salads During Month of June

By MARTHA BARNETT Home Agent

During the month of June, home demonstration foods and nutrition leaders were responsible for demonstration on "salads" in thirteen home demonstration clubs. Mrs. W. G. Simpson of Russells Creek Club is the county foods and nutrition leader.

In two clubs, Williston and Newport, a leader helped a 4-H girl work up and give this demonstration. Leaders were trained by the home agent in a meeting during May.

According to leaders, salads should look good and taste good. Some of the rules given by them in their discussion are:

- Eye appeal: (1) Crisp, cool salad greens give it that "alive" look. (2) Drain foods well—leaky salads drown interest. (3) Keep it simple — well arranged but not too "fussed over" looking. (4) Cut foods in "just right" size pieces—not too large to handle easily—not so small you don't know what they are. (5) Keep fresh fruits bright in color — dip in tart fruit juice or water with a little vinegar added. (6) Toss foods lightly together so they hold their shape. (7) Serve it on an attractive dish — platter, bowl, or individual salad plate.

For taste appeal (1) Choose flavors that go well together. (2) Use foods not repeated elsewhere in the meal. (3) A heavy meal calls for a light vegetable or fruit salad — a rich salad goes with a light meal. (4) Use a salad to fill in the foods needed to complete a good meal.

A recipe for one of the most popular salads used in June demonstrations is given here:

- Frozen Fruit Salad
1/2 cup mayonnaise
2 cups chopped canned fruit (Pears, pineapple, peaches or any other combination)
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1/2 cup sliced fresh strawberries or maraschino cherries
1 cup cream, whipped
1/3 cup sugar
Mix the mayonnaise and lemon juice with the chopped fruits. Add sugar to the whipped cream and

Veterans Service Officer Clarifies Law on GI's

C. L. Beam, county veterans service officer, Beaufort, announces that, contrary to rumors, Public Law 550 provides vocational readjustment and restores lost educational opportunities to certain persons who served in the armed forces on or after June 27, 1950.

He said that several persons have called his office in the past few days wanting to know about continuation of educational benefits under Public Law 550 after Aug. 20, 1954.

He said although the law states that the President or the Congress can set a date for discontinuing the benefits, neither has done so.

He said the rumor stemmed from the fact that the truce was signed in Korea, Aug. 20, 1952. He pointed out that a peace agreement has not yet been signed in the Korean war.

Mr. Beam also commented that June 22 was the tenth anniversary of the GI Bill.

He said that in North Carolina 42,454 ex-servicemen have attended colleges and universities; 31,575 obtained education and training below the college level; 60,389 took on-the-job training, and 60,848 took on-farm training, under the GI Bill.

Total funds expended in North Carolina for education and training of ex-servicemen in the 10 year period has amounted to $457 million.

about him. He married Abigail Macy (Mace) in 1744. To this couple were born seven children, four boys and three girls, before his death in 1799, and a girl posthumous the next year, given the name Ann. Two daughters had married before their father's death, Elizabeth Scott and Sarah Williams. The other children were Henry, David, Benjamin, Avis and the posthumous child Ann.

Made Will in 1798

From the terms of his will under date of 1798, Benjamin Stanton must have been a man of considerable means. He made liberal provision in the division of his estate for each of his children, even the unborn one.

George C. Gorham in a Stanton biography states: "In 1787, Benjamin Stanton wanted to manumit his slaves that he had inherited, but was forbidden by laws of the state of North Carolina. Therefore in his will he said: 'All the poor black people that ever belonged to me be entirely free whenever the law of the land will allow; until such time, my executive I leave as guardian to protect them and see that they be not deprived of their rights or in any way molested.'

During the year 1800, following the settlement of the estate, Abigail Stanton with her family, with exception of the two married daughters, joined a large delegation of Friends headed for the Northwest Territory. The oldest of the six children who accompanied her was 16 years of age. Abigail and her six children were granted certificates from the Core Sound Monthly Meeting to the Monthly Meeting at Westland or Redstone, Pa. Later the family moved on to Steubenville, Ohio, where they became permanently located.

Abigail is described as a broad-shouldered, vigorous woman, well able to handle the affairs of her family. She worked for the advancement of temperance as well as being a strong abolitionist.

It is from this town along the Ohio River that the story of the life of Edwin M. Stanton begins. David Stanton who became the father of Edwin, took up the study of medicine, the profession he followed in Steubenville until his death on Dec. 30, 1827, following a stroke of apoplexy.

He married Lucy Norman of a Virginia family who was a Methodist. This caused her husband to be ousted from the Society of Friends for marrying out of unity.

He later became a member of the Church to which his wife belonged. Dr. David must not have adhered to the somber dress of his forefathers, for Fletcher Pratt in his biography of Edwin says: "Dr. David Stanton was fond of shabby coats (slender and sloping away from the abdomen) and silk-napped hats." He was not only an abolitionist but urged that native medical herbs be planted and native medical supplies be used in place of those from slave sections, so that "love of liberty and our American practice may be coincident."

Edwin M. Stanton, born Dec. 19, 1814, was the oldest of four children born to Dr. Stanton and
