More Water Means More Profit

Supplemental irrigation, such as is shown watering a fine field of early cabbage, is evaluated in a booklet recently published by the agricultural development department of Carolina Power & Light Company. Over 500 Carolina farmers who use irrigation were interviewed and their results appraised. The new booklet is available without charge through most farm agents or the CP&L office in Morehead City.

Soil Conservation News

Dry Spell Turns Farmers' Thoughts to Irrigation

By ROY R. BECK

Soil Conservation Service Many Carteret County farmers are seriously considering purchasing and installing irrigation systems on their farms after several dry growing seasons have cut crop yields.

These farmers realize that with high per-acre fixed costs, a supplementary irrigation system insures a good yield even in dry weather.

Roland Salter and Roy Keller of Bettie have pumped water on their truck crops almost continuously this spring. During the past week, they have been watering newly-set sweet potatoes.

Graham Davis of Smyrna is having a drainage ditch cut around a large, newly-cleared field on his farm. Part of this field has a nice stand of lespedeza growing on it.

Elmo Smith of Bogue Sound has seeded crotalaria in all crops on his farm when he laid them in, except an acre of peas. Crotalaria has proven to be the best soil building crop known for sandy soils.

It is also reported by the experimental station to be extremely resistant to nematodes.

John W. Smith of Atlantic has oats and lespedeza and silage corn planted on his new ground fields near Sea Level. This soil has a clay foundation and muck topsoil. Mr. Smith has limed and fertilized, according to soil sample recommendations.

Conservation farmers are increasing their acreage of small grains each year for greater income, better soil building rotations, and greater diversification.

The use of oats in tobacco rotations for disease control is becoming a common practice in Newport township. Growing small grain has several other beneficial effects on a farmer's operation, as reported by C. T. Garner.

These farmers are increasing small grain yields each year by following the recommendations of the extension service and are making small grain a profitable crop here in Carteret County.

Health Officer Warns Users of Power Mowers

The power lawn mower, the latest time-saver available to aid the home handy man, can be the source of many serious accidents if not properly used and maintained. Dr. F. E. Hyde of the Carteret County Health Department warned today.

The health officer pointed out that the power lawn mower is the fastest selling home appliance on the market today and thousands have been brought into North Carolina's homes in the past few months.

He called attention to the two major types of power mowers and pointed out the specific hazards relating to the operation of each.

The reel type mower depends on a sharp cutting edge whereas the rotary type depends on a mulching action of the cutter bar to trim the grass. The rotary type mower is usually provided with a guard, but due to its construction a space must be provided between the blade and the ground. This necessary space makes it possible for stones, sticks, and other debris to be picked up and thrown out with great force.

This clearance space also provides an opportunity for the foot or shoe to enter into the whirling blades and a score of serious cuts have been reported to the Accident Prevention Section of the State Board of Health.

The reel type mower operates at a slower rate of speed and may be equipped with a guard or catcher to prevent the throwing out of stones and sticks. The user should be particularly careful to avoid adjusting the blade while the motor is running.

Other general rules, listed by the health officer include: 1. When powered by an electric ground wire firmly attached to the motor always have a third, or ground wire firmly attached to the framework. In case a defect develops this ground wire will reduce the electric shock hazard. This machine should not be stored or used under wet conditions.

2. When powered by a gasoline motor, never make adjustments or do other repair work unless the ignition wire has been disconnected. If one should spin a reel or cutter bar while the engine is hot there is a possibility of it starting unless it has been properly deactivated.

3. Regardless of the type of machine other precautions are proper guards and covers on all moving parts and do not allow children or other inexperienced persons to tamper with or use the machine.

Dalmation Defends Toy It Steals from Hat Shop

San Diego, Calif. (AP)—Mabel Whittitt's hat shop was spic and span and ready for the first customer. When the door was opened a big Dalmation dog slipped inside, snatched a stuffed poodle from the show window and then made his getaway.

Startled clerks followed him for half a block but quit the chase when the Dalmation had placed the poodle gently beside a tree and turned to defend his fuzzy friend against any attackers.

Highway Accident

Nutley, N. J. (AP)—Peter Scarpelli built a two-family house here 10 years ago in an area that has since become restricted to single-family units. But he wasn't affected until the Garden State Parkway came along and forced Scarpelli to move his house about 300 yards. Now the town says his house can no longer claim exemption from the one-family rule. Scarpelli hopes the courts will see it differently.

Tune Up For Health

FOOT CORRECTION

Your feet are hidden from sight in shoes which often are bought for beauty rather than fit. Most people pay little attention to their feet and then they wonder why they give trouble.

After a day in ill-fitting shoes which impede circulation, it often is real comfort to get home and take those shoes off. A little barefoot walking can help a lot. You can do it at home on the rug, the beach or on country dirt roads.

Toes - Grip Observe good foot posture. Feet should always point straight ahead with the weight on the outer borders.

This week's exercise will help draw blood to the feet and improve circulation.

Toes Grip Stand with feet together, hands on hips.

COUNT 1—Grip with the toes as though picking up an object, turning feet so that you stand on their outer borders.

COUNT 2—Return to starting position. Do counts 1 and 2 sixteen times.

Soil Testing Is Advised by Welch

The farmer who looks ahead generally comes out best in the long run, according to Charles W. Welch, soil testing specialist, N. C. Department of Agriculture. There is a double advantage for farmers to have their soil tested now for Laido-grass pastures, alfalfa, small grains and other fall seeded crops. Lime should be applied ahead of land preparation for best results, and an overload in the Soil Testing Laboratory may cause delays later in the summer, says Welch.

At the present time the Soil Testing Division can give prompt service, getting out reports in seven to 10 days after samples are received. Farmers who want a complete analysis and suggestions for both liming and fertilization should send their samples now. Later it may be necessary to request that farmers send their samples for lime test only, since there is a limit as to the testing that can be done.

For best results from soil tests it is necessary to collect good samples, explains Welch. Information regarding soil tests and instructions for sampling can be obtained from local agricultural agencies or by writing the Soil Testing Division, State Department of Agriculture, Raleigh.

Philosopher Comments On Age, Mentality

New York (AP)—Raymond Duncan, long-haired, toga-wearing American philosopher, says people would be smarter if they lived longer. Arriving on one of his periodic visits from Paris, he commented: "When you get to be 80 like me, you commence to see the light. We die too young. America will be really great when people live to 150."

Walter Goodwin, USCG, to Retire

Walter Goodwin, Sea View Street, Beaufort, will retire from the Coast Guard Thursday. Mr. Goodwin, who enlisted Jan. 8, 1930 at Ocracoke, is now serving at the Atlantic Coast Guard Station where he has been stationed for the past 14 months. He is a boatswain's mate first class.

A native of Cedar Island, he has served at Portsmouth, N. C., at Swansboro, on troop transports during the second world war, in telephone communications and on buoy tenders. He was stationed for four years at Fort Macon where he was a member of the championship surf-boat crew which won the Joseph Daniels trophy several years ago.

Mr. Goodwin's wife is the former Julia Emory of Cedar Island. They have five children.

Mr. Goodwin says he doesn't know what he'll do after Thursday. "Probably go fishing," he speculates.

Peaches Beat Gun

Seneca, Ill. (AP) — Carrying a large revolver, a gunman walked into A. J. Wick's store and said: "This is a stickup!" Whicks, 60, dropped to the floor behind the counter and picked up a can of peaches. As the would-be bandit turned to leave, Whicks hurled the can of peaches and the man ran in panic.
