

Fishermen, Picnickers Are To Stay Out of Bogue Field

Cherry Point — An urgent warning to Tar Heel fishermen, oystermen, small boat enthusiasts, hunters and picnickers to stay clear of the Marine Corps Operational Landing field at Bogue, N. C., and the adjacent restricted area, came this week from the commander, Marine Corps Air Base, Cherry Point.

Portions of Bogue Field will be used for day and night bombing and rocket firing, effective immediately.

Anyone entering the barbed wire enclosed, plainly posted and well marked out of bounds military area will be in great personal danger, as well as being liable to federal prosecution for trespassing.

In addition to the above precautions, all entrances to the field have been securely closed and all roads leading into the danger area have been blocked off. Although the field itself has long been a restricted area, it is known that many persons have been using adjacent areas for picnicking and hunting, as well as the shore line for launching and landing boats.

It is in the public interest of preventing harm coming to anyone that this week's warning and appeal for cooperation from all hands has been widely distributed by Marine corps authorities here at Cherry Point.

The restricted and danger area extends south from Highway 24 along the west shore of Goose Creek, around Shelly Point and along the shore line of Taylor Bay, around Guthrie Point and along the east shoreline of the inlet there to where the creek joins the western barbed wire boundary of Bogue field, and along this barbed wire boundary back to Route 24.

Postoffices in all adjacent communities are being asked to post public notices of the area to be avoided along with plainly marked aerial photos and reproduced sections of navigational charts and survey charts of the area.

Marine authorities emphasized that motorists using Highway 24 are in no danger from the impact area. The same applies to craft using the inside channel of the inland waterway, as long as they stay in the clearly defined channel.

Entitled "Soybean Production in North Carolina," the bulletin will give soybean producers of this area information on liming, fertilization, planting, weeding, harvesting, and pest control practices.

Mr. Williams points out that soybean growers following recommended practices in the bulletin have produced two to three times the state's average yield of soybeans.

Defendant Pleads Guilty To Two Charges Tuesday

Albert C. Charles of Cherry Point Tuesday in County Recorder's Court was sentenced to three months on the roads after pleading guilty to charges of drunk driving and destroying state property.

The sentence was suspended providing Charles pays $145 and costs of court. Charles absolved a companion, Norris R. Allen, 21, also of Cherry Point, of aiding and abetting in the destruction of state property.

Allen was also charged with public drunkenness. Found guilty, he was ordered to pay costs of court. Charles paid $100 fine on the drunk driving charge.

Both men were placed under arrest by Sheriff Hugh Salter June 7 after being notified by Daniel Jones, Fort Macon State Park supervisor, that a car had crashed the gate at the swimming area.

Mr. Jones told the court that he heard the crash and went to the area and found a 1946 Ford with a smashed headlight leaving the parking area.

He jotted down the license number and radioed the sheriff. Sheriff Salter said that he in turn notified Morehead City police to be on the lookout for the car.

Morehead City officers stopped Charles and Allen on U. S. Highway 70 as they came north off the beach road.

They were detained until the arrival of Sheriff Salter and Deputies Marshall Ayscue, Ormsby Mann, and Bobby Bell.

Mr. Jones said the damage to the gate was $45. Charles told the court that Allen had nothing to do with smashing the gate.

Judge Lambert R. Morris, in passing judgment, told Charles that the $45 was to be paid to the Fort Macon State Park.
