Horace Loftin Conducts Quiz

Horace Loftin, Beaufort, conducted a quiz program at the meeting of the Rotary Club Tuesday night at the Inlet Inn, Beaufort.

Mr. Loftin asked 10 questions covering current events as reported by Sunday's New York Times for the week ending Saturday, July 10.

Mr. Loftin said, "Apparently the Rotarians failed to read the newspapers last week. None of them scored a passing grade of 70."

He said he conducted the quiz in an effort to create a greater interest in today's happenings on the part of the Rotarians.

In stressing the need for such knowledge, Mr. Loftin quoted David Lowe, "I believe that ignorance is the enemy of Democracy, therefore education in current affairs is the most urgent public need so that a citizen may be informed and grow responsible. I am for using all persuasion and pressure short of fracturing his skull to teach him about the matters concerning his life or death."

Her owner and master, according to Coast Guard officials, is Jacques DeWolfe of Westport, Conn.

After clearance by immigrations and customs officials from Wilmington, she will continue her trip north. The Rima was flying her quarantine flag as she entered the Morehead City channel to notify the Coast Guard that she had been okayed at other ports and that this was her first port in this country.

riding surf mats when we noticed this man and woman bobbing up and down in the surf. At first it appeared they were riding the waves the same as we were, but then we noticed that when the woman went down and came up again she was struggling and screaming for help.

"Jim (Traver) was about 15 yards away and I was about 25 yards away. We started swimming toward them and by the time we reached them they were both under the water and the woman was unconscious. We had to dive under them and when we did somehow the woman got a hold on my arm and they both came down on top of us.

"The water was about 12 feet deep and the undertow was terrific. When we reached them we were about 15 feet off shore and when we finally got them and started pulling them back to shore we were about 25 yards out.

"It was pretty rough having to fight the undertow and the breakers too. We finally got them to shore and the waves threw us on to the beach. If it had been 10 yards further we never would have made it. When we hit the beach we took them to the aid station where they received first aid."

The couple have recovered.
