

More Than 200 Attend Open House at Duke

Dr. Paul Gross Gives Dedication Address Saturday Afternoon

More than 200 attended the Duke open house and dedication ceremony Saturday afternoon at the marine lab on Pivers Island. A new $30,000 research lab was formally dedicated at 5:30 p.m. by Dr. Paul Gross, vice-president in education, Duke University.

Prior to the dedication service, guests viewed exhibits in the two research laboratories and the classroom lab. Students showed the type of work they are doing, explaining their projects with drawings and live exhibits, as well as verbal explanation.

The dedication program was opened with an address of welcome by Dr. C. G. Bookhout, director of the lab. He introduced special guests, Dr. H. B. Goodrich, program director of the National Science Foundation; Charles E. Jordan, Dr. Herbert J. Herring, A. S. Brower, and Dr. Walter Nielson, all of Duke; Earle W. Webb and George R. Wallace, both of Morehead City, trustees of the university.

Dr. Gross spoke of the place of research laboratories in educational life and economic life. Remarking that people are frequently prone to underrate the importance of the biological sciences, the speaker referred to the marine research laboratories as a new venture in the development of biological science.

In such a place as the Duke marine station, the student is able to get a view barred from him in the confines of a university laboratory.

Dr. Gross commented on the different concept of the laboratory scientist which was given birth during the second world war. During that time the scientist was called upon to use his abilities in the

Gloucester Club Helps With Mosquito Control

By MARTHA BARNETT Home Agent

At the regular July meeting of Gloucester Club, members decided to assist with mosquito control in their community. Mr. Murray Pigott plans to spray ditches and other places which might breed mosquitoes.

Home Demonstration Club members will contact the 45 families of Gloucester community and ask for a $2 contribution. This $2 will be used to buy an adaptor for truck or tractor to be used in spraying. This is part of the effort to control mosquitoes in eastern Carteret County.

Plans to buy a picnic table and clean up a lot near Pigott's store were discussed. Miss Josie Stovett was appointed to buy the table. Table and picnic grounds will be available to people in Gloucester community and also to visitors.

Plans were also made for a county fair booth on "Good Literature Vs. Bad." This is Gloucester's first fair booth. All members were invited to make suggestions and contributions.

According to Extension Horticultural Specialist, now is the time to root scuppernongs and other varieties of Muscadine grapes. Rooting is done by a method known as layering. Layering is done by bending a cane down and burying it in laboratory in the interest of national defense.

The speaker said the worth of the Duke laboratory has been shown in the research which has been completed by students and expressed the hope that such effective research will continue, contributing to the general science of biology.

He expressed regret that Dr. A. S. Pearce, Duke faculty member largely responsible for the marine station, could not be present.

Following the program a shrimp supper was served by the water at the boat house.

Steps Proceed For Annexation

Complying with legal requirements, an ad is now being run in THE NEWS-TIMES regarding annexation of property into the town of Atlantic Beach.

The property lies on either side of the new bridge, the portion to the east being known as Sound View Isles. The property to the west lies north of the Salter Path Road and extends to the Ocean Ridge-Atlantic Beach boundary line. Both are bounded on the north by Bogue Sound.

A meeting will be held by the Atlantic Beach Town Board August 21 at 10 a.m. at the Ocean King Hotel to consider the adoption of the ordinance annexing the territory described in the notice.

If 15 per cent of the registered voters of that area do not sign a petition against the annexation by the end of the four weeks, no election will be necessary and the board will make the annexation.

If a petition is signed by 15 per cent of the voters of that area, an election will be necessary and it will take a majority vote either to defeat or approve the annexation.

ture course unless a building is available.

Mr. Joslyn said he told Mr. Elliott the Smyrna PTA has been working for three years to raise money for the vo-ag program and he felt the state could not "let them down" if there is enough money available to pay a vocational-agriculture instructor.

Mr. Elliott asked if Mr. Joslyn would promise him that a building would be put up at the first opportunity.

Mr. Joslyn replied that he couldn't make such a promise because he may not always be around to fulfill it.

Mr. Elliott then agreed to the room-under-the-stage plan, saying that he had known Mr. Joslyn a long time and valued his opinion on school matters.

Mr. Joslyn said he was pleased to be able to report that Smyrna has the money available to equip a vo-ag shop. Purchases of machinery will be made by the vo-ag instructor in consultation with state vocational educators.

The $5,400 will not provide a lot of equipment but it will be enough, he declared.

He added too that Smyrna's good fortune is illustrative of the fact that people who get out and help themselves frequently are able to get help from other sources sooner than if they just sat back and make demands.

Beauty Speaks At FHA Meeting

In welcoming delegates yesterday to the Farm Home Administration meeting at the Ocean King Hotel, Atlantic Beach, Miss Betty Jo Ring, "Miss North Carolina," said, "You parents shouldn't be afraid to allow your daughters to enter this pageant. After you enter, you find out just how wonderful the people of North Carolina are."

The 24-year-old school teacher from Lexington also said, "The contest isn't based completely on beauty and the figure. Talent, poise and personality play a great part in the selection. The contest is conducted strictly according to the best ethical standards. And being a part of the contest is an education in itself."

Miss Ring told the group that she was very happy and proud to be chosen "Miss North Carolina" and that she was extremely pleased that she had been invited to welcome the FHA delegates.

Anybody Know E. Y.?

The Newport Fire Department is looking for E. Y. Taylor. Seems as if someone by that name called up at midnight the other night to report a woods fire that was "pretty bad." Normally these calls are referred to the forestry service or county fire warden. Since houses were endangered the department answered.

The blaze, located near Highway 70 west of Newport was quickly extinguished. All fire calls must have a report and E. Y. is needed to complete the report — but no one by that name gets mail on a rural route.

Any information would be appreciated, says Fire Chief Leon Mann Jr.

South Koreans Defend Islet Against Japanese

Seoul (AP) — A stony outcropping in the Japan Sea which admittedly is not normally habitable will be defended against "trespassing" of Japanese fishermen by a 20-man Korean garrison force, according to South Korean police.

The islet—Tokto to the Koreans, Takeshima to the Japanese — is in the center of a fishing area. Both Japan and Korea claim the islet which lacks drinking water among other things.

The clam-shucking contest originally scheduled did not take place because Mr. Eubanks said enough clam shuckers could not be contacted to make the event worthwhile.

Approximately 500 attended the event.

Contest judges were Grover Munden, and P. H. Geer Jr., both of Morehead City, and Miss Ruth Peeling, Beaufort. Mr. Geer substituted for Horace Loftin Jr., Beaufort.
