Four Clubs Plan Booths For County Fair Oct. 4-9

By MARTHA BARNETT
Home Agent

Bettie, Gloucester, Russell's Creek and Merrimon Clubs are planning booths for the County Fair, Oct. 4-9. Bettie will have a "Home Sewing Center," Gloucester plans an exhibit on "Good Reading" Merrimon will feature "Vitamin A Foods."

Mrs. John Kelly of Newport Home Demonstration Clubs plans to work with Newport Senior 4-H Club on a home beautification booth. Members of this club will be responsible for the booth. Morehead City 4-H Club will also have a booth.

Mrs. Mary Olive Thomas, Jones County Home Agent, will judge the women's exhibits and assist in judging all educational booths. Mrs. Thomas will use a score sheet for judging all conserved products. If anyone would like a copy of this score sheet to review before entering products in the fair, a copy may be obtained in the home agent's office.

Fair managers are hoping to have the largest number of fair exhibits and the best booths ever this year.

On Monday, Sept. 27, crafts leaders met in the home agent's office for an all-day leader training school on making "Pine Needle Baskets." The school was under the direction of Miss Rose Ellwood Bryan, specialist, State College, Raleigh. Crafts leaders will show other club members how to make these baskets at the November Home Demonstration Club meetings.

Making pine needle baskets is a good hobby for people in Carteret County, since pine needles are plentiful. Many attractive and useful articles may be made in leisure hours for gifts and home use.

The Home Demonstration Curb Market at 13th and Evans Streets, will be open during the winter months from 8 a.m. until 11 a.m. each Wednesday and Saturday, instead of 7:30 a.m. until 12 noon. The curb market features fresh fruits, vegetables and meats.

New Type Ink Ousts Blotter

Janesville, Wis. (AP) — Galen Saylor, known hereabouts as "Dr. Ink," is the inventor of a quick-drying permanent type ink. It has practically eliminated the blotter.

It's not unusual for him to be routed from his bed or have his morning interrupted by frantic telephone calls from a mother whose child drank a bottle of ink.

Saylor's answer is: "Don't worry, give your child a glass of milk and forget it; if you're really worried, have the child's stomach pumped."

He says: "Ink would be a good mouth wash if you didn't mind a colored tongue. The mold inhibitor in it is a good antiseptic—its iron content is more helpful than harmful, and there's nothing else in ink to do damage."

Saylor also receives frantic pleas from women who have spilled ink on a new dress and want to know, immediately, how to remove the stuff without harming the fabric.

That is Saylor's newest problem: a permanent ink that is washable, an ink that remains forever on paper but can be washed easily from all other materials. He figures that's enough to keep him busy for quite a while.

Pigeon Boosts Peanut Business

Huntington, W. Va. (AP) — F. H. Cash is uncertain whether his pigeon friend helps his gasoline business, but he says "I do sell a lot of peanuts."

The pigeon is easily identified because it has only seven toes. Pigeons normally have eight.

For the past 18 months, the peanut vending machine at Cash's station has been a free lunch counter. The pigeon discovered the source from some nuts that dropped from the machine, and Cash encouraged return trips by supplying some when there were none on the ground.

Later, customers contributed their pennies to feed him. Cash estimates peanut receipts have gone up 10 to 15 cents a

Prices Outdated
Boonville, Mo. (AP) — Tom turkeys 5 cents a pound, hens 4 1/2 cents. Roosters $1.50 a dozen, ducks $1.75 a dozen. Those prices were advertised in Der Central Missourian, a German language newspaper which turned up here recently. The date was June 11, 1891.

day — still hardly "big business." But it may do better. A mate used to accompany the pigeon but has been missing recently. Cash suspects she's nesting and that soon there may be more mouths to feed.
