Cat Finds Home In Birdhouse

New York (AP) — Maybe next time Thomas Tindall, 15, of Fort Wadsworth, Staten Island, will build a birdhouse with a smaller hole.

Tommy built his birdhouse, nailed it up in apple tree in his back yard 14 feet from the ground, then hopefully waited.

Three weeks went by and nothing happened. Then he found the birdhouse had a tenant—a cat!

Tabby now wanders off but always comes back. "It seems very contented," said Tommy's mother, Mrs. Frank C. Tindall, ruefully. "I guess it will make its home up there."

Paintings of Aged Nurse Are Finally Recognized

Lincoln, Ill. (AP)—Sister Louise Meintz, 93-year-old retired nurse of Deaconess Hospital, has painted pictures all her life.

Like Grandma Moses, she's only late getting recognized. The Lincoln Public Library displayed her paintings of a bright landscape of blues and greens, showing two white colonial homes bordering on a quiet lake. She calls it "George Washington's Birthplace."

Child is Organist

Montello, Wis. (AP)—The Trinity Methodist Church of Montello has a new organist who is only 10 years old. Gladys Grundman plays for services on alternate Sundays.

She began piano lessons when she was 6 years old and added study of the organ last year.

children of Wire Grass spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lee Brown. Jimmy Graham, USN, has returned to duty after a visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Graham.

Methodists Will Observe Laymen's Sunday Oct. 17

By W. W. REID

Laymen speaking from every Methodist pulpit on Sunday, Oct. 17, is a goal for Laymen's Sunday this year, says Robert G. Mayfield, of Chicago, head of the denomination's Board of Lay Activities. This is an annual event in Methodist churches. "Every day we are confronted with situations as individual persons and as citizens of the community and nation that require a decision for right or wrong," says Mr. Mayfield.

"We want laymen, speaking from every Methodist pulpit, to throw out such a challenge that their fellowmen will be stirred to make every decision in keeping with Christian principles." "A Time for Decision" is the topic of the day's lay sermons.

More than 1,000 church and lay leaders of the rural life movement in America will meet in Salina, Kan., Oct. 26 to 28, to find out why rural churches are declining in numbers and influence — and to find ways to stop this trend.

Occasion for the meeting, will be the National Convocation on the Church in Town and Country, eleventh of an annual series sponsored by the National Council of Churches through its Department of Town and County Church.

"While the rural areas are losing proportionately in population to the urban, the church in the country is today actually responsible for more persons than ever," says Don F. Pielstick, department director. "Rural population is on the increase, though at a slower pace than in the cities—and yet there are steadily fewer churches to minister to country people. Thus there is no excuse for any let-up in our responsibility to the rural church. We need to give it a new vitality that will truly qualify it to lead in the spiritual life of rural communities."

A major goal of this year's convocation will be to study the causes of the loss in numbers of churches — a decline that is in sharp contrast to an unprecedented church building boom in cities and suburbs.

C&D Director Suggests Study Of Water Supply

Raleigh — A recommendation for a comprehensive study of the entire state's water resources is now before the State Advisory Budget Commission.

The proposal was laid before the budgeteers by Director Ben E. Douglas of the Department of Conservation and Development as the group met here to hear state department and institutional requests for funds for the 1955-57 biennium.

The study would cost $250,000 and the C&D director proposed it be made by the Department of Conservation and Development's Division of Water Resources, Inlets, and Coastal Waterways under the direction of its chief engineer, B. C. Snow.

With respect to what he termed "the serious water problems faced by North Carolina," Douglas issued the following statement after his appearance before the budget group:

"Last year a thousand communities faced a water shortage. Today 220 tons of fresh water are required daily for each inhabitant of the United States.

"Our water problem has grown more serious daily—by 1975 it is estimated the demand will double. With North Carolina developing industrially, with the municipalities demanding more and more water which is necessary to sustain growth, with the farmers realizing the need for additional irrigation, I feel that as Director of Conservation and Development I would not be doing my full duty if I did not recommend that positive steps be taken to conserve our water supply."

In proposing the study be made by the department's water resources, inlets and coastal waterways division, Douglas said he was doing so "to the end that a water code that will be equitable and just may be written which will protect our water resources for future generations."

Deserts cover about a third of the land area of the earth.
