

Brooms Fail to Arrive For Lions' Weekend Sale

The annual Morehead City Lions Club Broom Sale, which was scheduled this past weekend, had to be postponed because the brooms did not arrive from the Guilford Industries for the Blind. That organization contacted the Morehead City Lions Club and informed them that their delivery schedule was delayed due to damage to their plant during Hurricane Hazel. As soon as the brooms arrive in Morehead City the Lions expect to begin street sales.

North Carolinians to Vote On Five Amendments Nov. 2

Raleigh — North Carolinians will vote Nov. 2 on five proposed amendments to the State Constitution.

The first one would authorize the General Assembly to provide for recalling retired supreme court justices to fill temporary vacancies caused by illness or other emergencies.

The second would authorize the General Assembly to create a board of paroles and confer upon it the authority to grant, revoke and terminate paroles which is now exercised by the governor.

The third would limit to one,

the number of state senators from any one county.

The fourth would reduce from four months to 30 days, the time a voter must reside in a precinct before becoming eligible to vote.

The fifth would permit the governor, in filling a vacancy in the executive or judicial departments, to appoint a person to serve the balance of the unexpired term if that term is to expire on the first day of January after the next general election.

Under existing statutes retired supreme court justices become emergency superior court justices and may be called on to hold terms of superior court. There is no existing authority to recall them for duty on the supreme court.

The amendment creating a parole board would terminate the governor's power of granting, terminating and revoking paroles after July 1, 1955.

Under present laws, it is impossible for one county to have two or more senators. The effect of the proposed amendment would be to prevent any one county from having more than one senator in the General Assembly at any given time, whether the county alone composes a senatorial district or whether it is combined with other counties in such a district.

In making appointments according to existing statutes, the governor's appointee to fill a vacancy can hold office under the appointment only until the next regular election. At this next regular election, any person seeking the office in question must run for election for the period of time between the election and the end of the term to which the person vacating the office was originally elected, and must also run for a regular term to commence at a regular term of short term.

Retirement Hobby

White Stone, Va. (AP)—When Capt. Ocran Humphreys retired he couldn't forget the ships on which he had spent his life. Five years ago, at the age of 90, he began building models of the ships which meant so much to him. They now fill many glass cases in his home.

Ship Arrival Was Better Than Circus

By JERRY SCHUMACHER

Well, it was just like a big circus come to town. The beautiful luxury liner, M/S Stockholm arrived at Morehead City Sunday morning. Half the town got up to see her dock, and then missed church to stay and wave goodbye. What a hustle and bustle getting the passengers aboard and the visitors off the ship the last minute, from the looks of the stacks of luggage piled up in the port terminal warehouse every single passenger must have brought at least ten bags each.

It seemed to me that every passenger had from one to a half dozen cameras. Now since I am going along as photographer, I couldn't help but wonder who can I sell my pictures to?

This ship looks pretty much like any other ship from the outside, but dear reader, right there the resemblance stops and backs up a little. Inside she is a palace of fine wood paneling, blond maple. Wood carvings that are superb, paintings, murals, chromium and crystal.

There seem to be five people to do every little job. Everybody wears a uniform, can't tell a general from a private around here, doesn't matter anyway, they are all so polite and gracious.

I'm getting along great, everyone says I look like a Swede so I've learned to say Skol and then keep my big mouth shut from there on and everything works out fine.

The food in the beautiful dining room is great. However as in most foreign deals who can understand the menu? So they are real smart because right at the top so that anyone can understand it says sirloin steak, chef salad and french fries. Most everyone says, "Waiter give me this here" and points to the top of the page. Not me. So I say, "Waiter, this is all Greek, excuse me, this is all Swedish to me, would you order for me? If you ever come to Morehead City I will personally order you a seafood dinner that they never heard of in your country."

Well it worked fine. This lad now had a job to do. He was going to show me that he knows good Swedish food, and how to serve same. Well, kids, I got fed, don't know yet what I ate but it was some kind of good.

P.S. This system is still working, and if it doesn't break down, I am going to gain 50 lb. this week.

My room steward is a handsome lad named Carlson and since I told him that I would mention his name in this column, well I have been waited on hand and foot. Guess he thinks maybe I'm Walter Winchell.

Sunday afternoon at 3 we had lifeboat drill. Funny and serious. Funny because the Swedish life jackets remind me of a burlesque comedian dressed like a woman with balloons stuffed under his dress in front, only you have these Jane Russell effects both in front and in the back. It's hilarious, but then when the Captain explains what you have to do in case of an emergency the hilarity ceases. Here you are out to sea. Millions of miles of it, so the lifeboat drill has a sobering effect on every passenger.

I think the first thing every passenger does is to look out the porthole in their state room, but have discovered after a hundred trips that the view is rather limited; the only difference between waves is some are big and some are bigger.

When we discussed this cruise several months ago it was agreed that I would have a large cabin for a darkroom and a cubby hole somewhere to sleep. Now here I am alone in my cabin that sleeps four and my darkroom was designed as a hall closet for a midget. Life is all backwards.

Have been up all night getting this darkroom together. It seems that the ship's electric system is 220 DC and my photographic equipment is all 110 AC. If your TV is fouled up for the next few days, it's all my fault. They have part of the radar, wireless, and what-not set up in this darkroom all to make it possible for me to make a few pictures.

The ship's engineer and chief electrician ain't going to forget yours truly for some years to come.

It's now 6:30. And am I hungry! So all you have to do is push the button and there is old faithful Carlson looking like I just got him out of bed, which I did, and here comes wonderful coffee and Swedish pastry, fresh and hot. Oh Lordy, it's good. The dining room doesn't open till 8 a.m. but Carlson went into the bowels of this monster and came back with a breakfast fitten for two kings. Please pass the word to Bernard Leary to cancel those two pair of britches I ordered. They ain't going to fit no how.

Day after tomorrow will tell you about what happened in Havana. Hope it's as lively as Bourbon St. New Orleans.

Power Company Holds Up Work on Telephones

Keene, N. H. (AP)—"How soon will you get it fixed on Portland Street?"

The call didn't sound unusual to the power company operator during a recent storm.

"We're right up there working on it," was the reply, as he made ready to record the call. "Who's calling please?"

"This is the telephone company," said the voice.

"Oh," said the operator, making conversation, "have you got a lot of trouble too?"

"Well things aren't so good right now," replied the voice. "You see our garage doors are electrically operated and we can't get our trucks out."

Congressman Barden emphasized the opportunity offered young men who choose this four-year course which leads to a bachelor of science degree in engineering and a commission as a career officer in America's oldest seagoing service.

"There are no appointments or geographical quotas for entrance to the Coast Guard Academy," he said. "I urge all qualified young men who are interested in a worthwhile profession to write for details and applications as soon as possible to Coast Guard Headquarters in Washington, D. C. Applications must be postmarked on or before January 15th."

Candidates for the next examination for the Coast Guard Academy must be single, must have reached their seventeenth but not their twenty-second birthdays by July 1, 1955 and must be in excellent physical condition.

Like to Paint

Arlington, Va. (AP) — The height of the murals and the prints of bare feet were the clues to the persons who did several thousand dollars worth of damage to the almost complete addition to a new building. An 8-year-old girl and a 6-year-old boy admitted they painted the murals because they "liked to paint."
