Ocracoke is getting back to normal following recent hurricanes. A visit from District Highway Engineer Sprull to make a study of the damaged road at Ocracoke has resulted in plans to begin repair work this week. Local labor is being solicited for the job. Whether this is to be permanent or temporary repair work remains to be seen. Since Hurricane Hazel, the road has collapsed in several places where the sea tide undermined it. In many such places bridge work or culverts should be installed. In addition some attempt needs to be made to fill in the shoulders so that future storms do not wash deep gullies along the sides of the road. Commissioner Winslow has said he expects to visit Ocracoke personally sometime in November. Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Ballance announce the birth of a son, Oct. 19, at Morehead City Hospital. The baby's name is Kenneth Harold Ballance. Mrs. I. W. O'Neal is in serious condition following a stroke of paralysis last week. Her sons, Earl and Horatio, were sent for and have been here for the past week. Mrs. Earl O'Neal and daughter are also here. Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Overton and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Slade of Norfolk visited Mr. and Mrs. William P. Garrish last weekend, and while here enjoyed some successful fishing with Capt. Benjamin E. Spencer. Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Garrish have returned from East Carolina College, Greenville, where their son, Danny Garrish, is recuperating from a recent appendicitis operation. The Rev. Robert L. Vickery Jr. preached his last sermon Sunday at Ocracoke Methodist Church. He plans to complete his theological training and is leaving this week for the conference in Raleigh. T. W. Howard will be delegate to the conference for the Methodist Church here. Carlson O'Neal is home from the Marine Hospital and recuperating here from a recent major operation. Harry F. O'Neal left recently to work in Philadelphia. Floyd Fulcher is visiting his mother, Mrs. Helen Fulcher. James T. Williams visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J.

Williams, recently, and enjoyed some good fishing while here. Mrs. David S. Tolson and daughter, Hettie, are in Morehead City. Hettie was to undergo a tonsil operation. Mrs. Mae Willis Sadler of Fairfield visited Ocracoke relatives recently.
