the year they are caught. Gathering of statistical information will enable publication of a monthly bulletin. This bulletin will be given to the dealers...

He said that the two men collecting these figures in this state will work out a method so that there will be as little burden as possible on the man from whom the statistics are obtained.

Voluntary cooperation, on the part of the men handling the fish at shore points, was emphasized. Unless every dealer provides the necessary figures, the record will be of little value.

He stressed the fact that the figures are not used for taxation purposes. There is a law imposing a $10,000 fine on any statistician who supplies the figures to anyone other than fish and wildlife employees.

New Guinea was so named because early explorers thought the natives resembled those of Guinea in Africa.

that the state better look immediately toward conserving its fishery resources. He said fishing is the worst it has been in 50 years.

Dr. Harold Taylor, New York, who has written extensively on marine fisheries, commented that people aren't aware of the importance of having basic facts compiled over a period of years.

Brief remarks were made by Representative Yarborough of Cumberland County, a member of the House commercial fisheries committee.

Dr. Winslow said, "You never know when you're doing better if you can't count. Keeping these figures will show, at last, just where the fishing industry stands."

C. Gehrmann Holland, commercial fisheries commissioner, told the fishermen he appreciated their stopping work to come to the meeting.

Ivey Gaskill, Harkers Island, said the fire started at 10:10 a.m. and was brought under control at 12:15 p.m.

Mr. Canipe placed his total loss at $125,000, with $60,000 of this amount being the value of the building. Contents lost in the fire included $20,000 worth of materials.

John D. Wilde, owner of the building which housed the five and ten said his building, partially insured, was valued at $50,000.

Six automobiles were destroyed inside the Canipe building. Three cars and a truck outside were destroyed by a collapsing wall.

Two County Fire Departments Help Fight $250,000 Blaze at Havelock

Fire trucks from Morehead City, Newport, and New Bern went to the assistance of the Cherry Point fire department Friday morning when a fire broke out in an automobile agency in Havelock.

The flames leaped across a 25 foot alley to destroy a three-story building which housed the Eastern 5 and 10 owned by Paul Branch of Morehead City.

The Canipe Buick Co. was completely destroyed. Estimated damage caused by the inferno was $250,000.

The blaze started from an acetylene torch being operated by Elijah Richards, an employee at the company.

Firemen saved the nearby Davis Market by pouring water on it for over two and a half hours, and Romulus Davis, owner, thanked the firemen from Morehead City and Newport for their assistance in saving his building.

As late as midnight Friday spectators were lined up on Highway to see the remains of the holocaust.

Field May Yield Money: Son-in-Law Knows Why

Jerseyville, Ill. (AP) — If any greenbacks come up in Otto Kraushaar's wheat field next spring or fall, his son-in-law, Robert Dunham, will know why.

Dunham plowed $100 of his own cash into the field when his purse worked its way out of his pants from the jolting of the tractor during fall plowing.
