Cream Sauces Add Zest to Food

By BUTH CURRENT
State Home Demonstration Agent

Meat loaf, casseroles, and creamed dishes — Try using creamed soups in meat loaf — cream of tomato, mushroom, or celery. There are other creamed soups on the market that will add zest to meat loaf. I'll leave the experimenting up to you and your imagination.

You'll find casseroles are a snap to prepare when you use the new method with condensed soup as the sauce. Foods that add interest and flavor to casseroles are chopped nuts (chestnuts, Brazil nuts, walnuts, almonds), chopped green pepper, strips of pimento, sliced olives. For good casserole toppings use: crumbled crackers, crisp cereals, or crushed potato chips.

Old favorites such as creamed ham and chicken a la king, are becoming more and more a regular part of our menus. These creamed main dishes appeal to the whole family. And they're so easy — often all the makings are right on the kitchen shelf.

Serve creamed main dishes over biscuits, toast, Chinese noodles, rice or noodles, corn bread, waffles, vegetables such as asparagus, green beans, or potatoes.

Cream sauces the modern way — For many years cream sauces (sometimes called white sauce) have added a company touch to family meals. These are hot sauces made of thickened milk or cream. They garnish, extend, or bind together the foods with which they are served. There's a speedy new way of preparing cream sauces by using condensed cream soup. Stir soup well in saucepan. Slowly mix in milk. Simmer about 2 minutes.

Add tiny cubes of jellied cranberry sauce to a grapefruit aspic. Delicious with roast meat or baked or broiled fish.

Change It with Seasons

The winter side of this reversible coverlet is a cozy green but spring and fall see it as a handsome Yarmouth print (above) in unglazed chintz in shades of green, pink, rose, turquoise. Pale pink walls, soft green flooring and white furniture lend an all-year-round airiness to a small room. Available ready-made or do it yourself.
