Leaf Varieties

R. M. Williams, county farm agent, calls tobacco farmers' attention to a tobacco variety demonstration on the farm of Julian Weeks in the Bogue Sound section on Highway 24.

Mr. Weeks is setting out new varieties, Coker No. 139 and 140, as well as Dixie Bright 101, Virgin-ia Gold, Oxford 1-181 and Golden

The agent points out further that good results in controlling weeds and grass in plant beds and nematodes have been obtained by staff NCO Club, Goldsboro, and wase of methyl bromide.

"A good many county tobacco growers are fumigating their plant beds as well as treating their fields to control nematode disease," Mr. Williams commented.

They believe diet has something with it. Minks in swamps feed on frogs, crayfish, birds and all kinds of animals - a diet that makes for fine furs.

Minks are just as cagey as the otter. Their skins are only as wide as a man's hand and it must take as many as 75 to make a woman's coat — "no wonder the coats cost so much," the men agree.

The bottom dropped out of the raccoon skin market when raccoon coats of the twenties went out. It's got to be a mighty fine coon skin these days to bring as much as $2.50. Muskrat and fox skins don't bring very much either.
Mr. Conner and his son and Mr.

Taylor learn quite a lot about the wild critters as they work their three-mile trap line.

One time they came upon a tree which had just about been torn to pieces by a wildcat. They examined the tree trunk which had a hollow
