

Part II

Conservationists Report on 1954

By C. L. DAVIS

(Note: This is part two of a three-part series reporting on conservation activities in the Lower Neuse Soil Conservation District in 1954. The district covers Carteret, Craven, Jones, Onslow, and Pamlico Counties.)

Land use adjustment and the application of conservation practices that tend to conserve water and soil moved ahead to new heights in 1954. More than 1,500 acres of cropland were converted to grass; with some 500 acres going to woodland and wildlife during the year.

In an effort to conserve, protect and improve cropland some 12,000 additional acres received improved vegetative practices; such as cover crops, conservation crop rotations and crop residue utilization. Then too, there were some 200 acres of grass-based rotation started to serve as an example of the benefits that accrue to the land and farmer through increased protection and improvement resulting in stepped-up production.

Contour farming in this traditional "straight-row" coastal plain section continued its forward move with some 1,000 additional acres contoured, bringing the total to more than 6,000 acres protected in this manner. This practice though difficult to get farmers to apply is a valuable one for the sloping areas of the district.

The construction of 8 additional miles of terracing in 1954 brought the total to date to more than 60 miles combined with some 100 acres of vegetative protected waterways. Thus this practice is giving additional protection to many acres of sloping lands with a moderate erosion problem.

The planting of some 250 acres of legumes and grasses on critical areas, subject to severe erosion brought the total to date to more than 1,500 acres. Not only are these acres conserving water and are adequately protected, but are yielding some 3,000 tons of hay annually for needed livestock roughage.

Putting on Water
During the recent drought our farmers learned that it is not enough to conserve water for many crops but water must be added to maintain or increase production. Ten additional farmers provided facilities for storing and distributing water and purchased sprinkler irrigation systems and applied water to some 300 acres of crop and pasture lands.

This go-forward year brings the total to date of 20 some farmers applying additional water through the use of sprinkler irrigation systems and water measures to more than 1,000 acres of crop and pasture lands.

To provide the necessary supply of water for irrigation and livestock watering more than 36 ponds were constructed during the year, representing an all time high for this practice. Both research and farmer experience point to the value of irrigation, especially on certain crops.

Removing Water
In spite of the need for conserving and adding water on many acres the problem of removing excess water from a large area of land is still with us. Much of the Lower Neuse District is flat, needing excess surface and ground water removed. This excess water must be removed from the surface and root zone area of the soil if economical production from adapted crops are to be had.

More than 7,000 additional acres of crop and pasture lands had drainage systems installed to remove excess water thus rendering the soil more favorable for increased production. To date some 50,000 acres have been adequately drained. The drainage systems installed during the year includes some 105 miles of open drains and more than one hundred and fifty thousand feet of closed drains (tile).

Putting it another way, if all the open drains installed by the Lower Neuse District cooperators were constructed in a continuous line it would extend from the east end of Congressional District No. 3, in Pamlico County, to the west in Sampson County. Both of these type drain systems continues to increase annually with 1954 being the all time high.

Service and aided with the federal cost-sharing of the ACP.

Group drainage enterprise went forward in 1954 with some 50 groups of farmers pooling their resources and constructed 32 miles of open (ditch) drains. To date more than 200 group drainage jobs have been accomplished, involving some 200 miles of open ditch drains constructed.

A survey and determination of conservation needs in the watershed protection and flood prevention approach to complete soil and water conservation was made during the year. This study reveals that 15 watersheds embracing some 265,500 acres needed to be worked as a unit to fully utilize the soil and water resources of the district.

There is an adequate supply of either farmer owned or privately owned contracting equipment available in the district to carry on a normal work load of soil and water conservation practices. There are two tile trenching machines, 12 drag lines, and 10 bulldozers available to do construction work in the district. (To be Continued)

District Federation Will Meet April 13 in Onslow

By MARTHA BARNETT
Home Agent

On April 13 the 20th District Home Demonstration Federation meeting will be held in Onslow County, Jacksonville, at the USO Building beginning at 10 a.m.

The morning session will feature a speaker on "Security Through National Defense."

Lunch will be served to the group. Price of the lunch is $1. After lunch women will tour a part of the Marine Base at Camp Lejeune. Officers for 1955-56 will be installed during the day.

Every rural family should have a garden and conserve an equivalent of 100 quarts of food per person in the family. The following plan is recommended:

23-25 quarts per person in the family of green, yellow, fruit and vegetables; 23-25 quarts per person in the family of vitamin C Rich Foods; 100 lb. per person of potatoes; 23-25 quarts per person of other vegetables; 23-25 quarts per person of fruits and fruit juices; 15 quarts of jams, jellies, and brined food (if desired).

This may be conserved by any approved method, including canning and freezing. Large amounts of canned food are still being used.

Food conservation according to the above plan is a measure for health, economy, and convenience. Good health depends upon eating the proper food 365 days of the year. Records show that families who produce and conserve their own food supply eat better than those who do not. Regardless of income many families do without if it isn't convenient. Statistics show that one person out of five does not eat a balanced diet.

North Carolina farm income is about 45 in the nation. According to the 1955 outlook we do not expect an increase at any early date. Our present goal seems to be to maintain our present income and standards. Incomes could be increased by producing and conserving food.

Miss S. Virginia Wilson, Nutritionist, North Carolina State College, estimates that income from 1-acre per person in the family can be worth $1,751 to the average family.

Now is the time to plant a garden, check canning equipment, and provide adequate storage space and make a food conservation plan.

At several of our poultry schools this year Professor R. S. Dearstyne, head, Poultry Department, N. C. State College, gave a 12-point program on the prevention of poultry diseases:

1. Secure healthy, vigorous chicks.
2. Place chicks in houses that have been thoroughly cleaned and disinfected.
3. Use cleaned and disinfected equipment.
4. Feed a balanced ration.
5. Provide the proper amount of feed, water, and floor space for the number, age and size of your birds.
6. Provide adequate ventilation.
7. Do not allow visitors in poultry house.
8. Do not permit used feed bags or dirty chicken coops to be brought on the premises.
9. Require that trucks entering the premises be free from droppings and other debris.
10. Place manure where no chickens will range and where it cannot be tracked into chicken house.
11. Properly dispose of dead birds either by burning, burying deeply, or by placing them in a disposal pit. This is required by law.
12. Keep all animals such as dogs, cats, rats, birds, etc., out of the chicken houses.

move excess water thus rendering the soil more favorable for increased production. To date some 50,000 acres have been adequately drained. The drainage systems installed during the year includes some 105 miles of open drains and more than one hundred and fifty thousand feet of closed drains (tile).

Texaco Dealers Attend Sales Promotion Dinner

J. Morton Davis, Morehead City, Texaco distributor for Carteret, Craven and part of Onslow County, presided at his 16th annual spring dealer meeting at the Blue Ribbon Club Thursday night.

Presented to Dewey Hardesty, Beaufort RFD, during the meeting, was a 10-year dealer award. The presentation was made by G. C. Holcomb, New Bern zone manager.

Mr. Davis commented that the Texas Company has more than 9,000 dealers who have been with the firm 10 years and 3,000 who have been with Texaco more than 20 years.

The dinner was preceded with a cocktail hour. Following dinner, Mr. Davis described the company's overall advertising program for 1955 and gave a summary of the progress of New Sky Chief (with petrox) gasoline sales.

Brief remarks were made by Mr. Holcomb, Tom Gardner, zone sales representative, New Bern; Walter Williams, state manager, Greensboro; W. A. Wright with the B. F. Goodrich Co., Charlotte; and A. V. Cowell, distributor at Jacksonville. The meeting ended with a 30-minute technicolor film featuring leading Hollywood stars. The movie was titled, "Be Competitive."

She Gets Shock of Life From Self-Service Slot

Anville, Pa. (AP) — Miss Barbara M. Grosky of Anville, suffered a chilling experience while trying to get ice from a self-service dispensing machine.

Instead of ice coming down the chute when she deposited her quarter, a cold hand appeared and beckoned to her.

Miss Grosky, a bit unnerved, ran to a nearby service station where keys for the machine were kept and then watched a service attendant open the ice-dispenser.

Inside was Ralph W. Hopple of Anville, who was repairing the big machine when its door swung shut, trapping him.
