Sheriff Captures Escape Artist After Long Chase

Claude Wade Will Be Tried in Next Term of Court

Woman Defendant Given Two Days to Get Out of Morehead City

Johnny Ray Waddell, 22, was in the hands of police again this week but they wonder just how long it will last.

Waddell was captured by Sheriff Hugh Salter after a wild chase Tuesday night. Waddell, whose home is at Newport, has made nine breaks from prisons and prison camps.

As a result of Tuesday night's race between Waddell's 1951 Plymouth and the sheriff's car, Waddell now faces charges of speeding, failing to stop at the sound of a siren, failing to stop at a red light, and assault with an automobile causing the sheriff's car to wreck.

With Waddell Tuesday night when the sheriff and Deputy Bobby Bell pounced on his trail, was J. D. Arnold. Arnold just got out of the prison camp at Troy last Sunday after serving a year for stealing hogs.

Officers learned that the Plymouth Waddell was driving was owned by Alfred Rogers Hopkins, Harlowe. Hopkins has been charged with hiding Waddell ever since his recent escape from a prison camp at Ahoskie.

The long arm of the law started to encircle Waddell at about 9 o'clock Tuesday. The sheriff and his deputy were getting gasoline at the Shell station at the intersection of Live Oak and Mulberry Street, Beaufort, when they were attracted by a car whose driver kept glancing back at them as he waited for the light to change.

Claude Wade was bound over to Superior Court without bond Monday when probable cause was found on a charge of breaking and entering with the intent to commit a felony. Wade appeared before Judge Herbert O. Phillips in Morehead City Recorder's Court Monday. Wade was apprehended in a rooming house in Morehead City the latter part of last week.

Mary Wyatt was given two days in which to leave the county or else she will have to serve a two-year term in Women's Prison. She was found guilty of cohabiting with Tollie Davis.

Davis, co-defendant in the case, was fined $100 and costs and given a two-year suspended sentence on the roads with the provision that he stay on good behavior for five years.

Charlie Perry Dyess was fined $150 and costs for careless and reckless driving. He was given a suspended 30-day roads sentence with the provision that he stay on good behavior for six months.

Anthony W. Haussler was fined $100 and costs for driving while under the influence. He was ordered not to drive a car on the streets or highways of the state for 12 months.

Pays $50, Costs

Edward D. Boyington was fined $50 and costs and ordered to reimburse an injured party $20 for damages. He must remain on good behavior for six months. Boyington was found guilty of malicious damage to personal property and public drunkenness.

Thomas Lee Shelton was fined $50 and costs and given a suspended 30-day roads sentence with the provision that he stay on good behavior for six months. He was found guilty of careless and reckless driving.

Donald Campbell Little was fined $25 and costs for running a stop sign. He was given a suspended 30-day roads sentence with the provision that he satisfy a court judgment of June 27 and that he stay on his good behavior for 12 months. The court noted that this was his third offense.

Mrs. Dolores Jean Greenwald and Robert Lee Hill each were fined $10 and costs for failing to yield the right-of-way.

Costs were assessed in the following cases: Leonard West, public drunkenness; Elijah Fulcher, frivolous and malicious prosecution, (a charge of disturbing the peace was dropped); Lesler Lee Ward, running stop sign; Joseph Earl Willis, careless and reckless driving, and Paul Koreto and John Stanley Quinn, speeding.

Clifford McLeod, charged with no operator's license and driving while under the influence, forfeited his bond and a warrant was issued.

Cases against the following were continued: Cpl. John Redmond, David Freeman Range, Betty Billings, Harvey Lewis, George West Thompson III, Earl Swindell, Ernest Andrew Guthrie, Hubert Edgar Dall, Erwin Gary Morris.

The charge of failing to stop at a red light against Nathaniel Lane was dropped when a motion for non-suit was granted.

Decided to Check

"We decided we'd better check," said the sheriff and so they started out after the car. Waddell took off like a jet. Sirens screamed and the whole east end of Beaufort rocked with the chase—from Live Oak to Broad, down Broad to Pollock, Pollock to Ann, Ann to Queen Street, Queen to Front, east on Front to the T-junction at Lennoxville, then west on the Lennoxville Road to the intersection of 70, out 70 to the Merrimon Road.

Unless Waddell cut across the Laurel Road, he was cornered, because the only thing at the end of either Highway 70 or the Merrimon Road is water. So the sheriff radioed to State Highway Patrolman W. J. Smith who sped to the Laurel Road to cut Waddell off if he attempted to turn there to get into his familiar tramping grounds, Newport.

In the vicinity of South River, just beyond Fighting Bridge (so named because two men, it is told, fought there to the death) Waddell slammed his brakes on and spun around several times in the middle of the road, ending up with his car pointing toward the oncoming sheriff's car.

Hits Ditch

Rather than hit head-on, the sheriff turned into a ditch. Waddell and Arnold both jumped out of their car. Arnold took off but Waddell surrendered.

By that time Patrolman Smith appeared on the scene. A wrecker was called to get the sheriff's car out of the ditch and he drove it back into Beaufort. Waddell was taken to jail at New Bern and the Sheriff.

Bingo Stand Closures in Dare Focus Legal Spotlight on Other Beaches

Since bingo stands at Dare County beaches have been closed by court action, the legal spotlight has focused on bingo at beaches all along the coast, including Atlantic Beach.

One bingo stand operates there and owners yesterday said they hope no citizen will take action to close it.

This was based on a statement by Wiley Taylor Jr., county solicitor, who remarked this week that if anyone comes to him to swear out papers for closing the bingo stand, he'll do it.

Mayor A. B. Cooper, Atlantic Beach, remarked, "My goodness, people have to have something to do at the beach. Two ladies told me the other day they wished there would be more here to do. It's a nice, quiet beach. We have amusements for the children and young folks, but older people enjoy games like bingo."

Dare County bingo stands were closed this month when two women, backed by a church group, charged the stand operators with gambling. A 1949 act, purportedly legalizing bingo at Nags Head, has been declared void on the basis that it grants special privileges to special groups.

No special act has passed legalizing bingo in this county, therefore Solicitor Taylor says its against the law.

In New Hanover County, bingo stands operate at Carolina and Wrightville Beach under the same

Medical Society Will Entertain Second District

Members of the Carteret County Medical Society will be host to the second district, North Carolina Medical Society, here in September.

Planned in conjunction with the meeting is a heart symposium conducted by the Heart Association. The symposium will consist of sessions for the public and for doctors.

The society met at the Morehead City Hospital where the hospital was host at supper. Dr. Theodore Salter, Beaufort, presided and appointed committees for the September district session.

Water System Chlorinated

Newport's water system was equipped with chlorination apparatus over the weekend. The town has also sent to the state a contract assuring the state that Newport will assume one-third of the cost for obtaining the right-of-way south of Newport for the new highway.

Theatre Chooses Fall Production

See How They Run, a comedy in three acts, will be the Carteret Community Theatre's fall production.

The play was chosen at the theatre meeting Wednesday night at the civic center, Morehead City. Reports on plays studied by the reading committee were made by Mrs. Shelby Freeman.

As soon as the copies of the play arrive, they will be available at Hamilton's Inc., Morehead City, where persons interested in trying out may read the play.

Tressa Royal Vickers will be the director. She calls the play "the funniest thing I have read in years."

Two civic organizations have asked to sponsor the production, but no decision has been made on the sponsor as yet.

Morehead City town board will meet Thursday night, July 21.

51 Attend Clinic At Hospital

Volunteer Workers Ask For Books, Puzzles, Toys for Children

Fifty-one persons, including 24 new patients, attended the orthopedic clinic Saturday in the Morehead City Hospital annex. Dr. R. N. Wrenn served as orthopedist in the absence of Dr. Lenox Baker, who was on vacation.

Volunteer workers at the clinic have issued an appeal for books, puzzles and toys to amuse children 2 through 12 years of age. Coloring books, crayons, the better type comic book and children's magazines will be accepted.

Persons who wish to donate such items should call Mrs. Alvah Hamilton Jr., 6-4109 or Mrs. W. L. Brady, 6-4606. Volunteer workers at the clinic Saturday were Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. J. D. Holt, Mrs. W. C. Carlton and Miss Lib Lambeth.

Members of the staff, in addition to Dr. Wrenn, were Miss Lily Fentress of the Crippled Children's Division, State Board of Health; H. A. Hendrix, rehabilitation program, Greenville; Mrs. J. D. Weeks, physical therapist; Miss J. E. Longacre, nutritionist, and Mrs. Leota Hammer and Mrs. G. T. Spivey of the county health department.

The next clinic will be Saturday, Aug. 13, from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.

New Officer Directs Program

Theodore Phillips, new educational vice-president of the Carteret Toastmasters Club directed the program Wednesday at the 7 a.m. meeting in the Hotel Fort Macon.

Two-minute impromptu speakers were Dr. Warden Woodard, Dr. Russell Outlaw, Dan Walker and Jasper Bell. Their subjects were pictures which had been published in newspapers recently, from which the descriptive matter had been removed.

Gerald Hill was topic master and presided over that part of the session. Ted Davis presented the educational speech on "Creating the Correct Climate."

Five-minute prepared speakers were Mr. Walker on "Vocal Varieties;" Dr. Woodard on "Safety;" and Charles Summerlin on "The Need for Consolidation of the Beaufort-Morehead Schools."

Individual critics were Theodore Phillips, Frank Cassiano, and Gerald Hill. Master Critic was J. P. Harris Jr.

President P. H. Geer Jr. presided and C. T. Lewis was toastmaster of the morning.

Mr. Harris is the toastmaster of the day for the July 27 meeting.

Power Outage Changed To Tomorrow at 4 A.M.

The power outage scheduled for 4 o'clock Wednesday morning was not carried out because of rainy weather.

George Stovall, manager of Carolina Power and Light Co., said that the outage has been rescheduled for 4 a.m. tomorrow (Saturday). It will affect the Morehead City area only.

The power must be cut in order to change taps on transformers so that voltage can be raised.

Officer Reports On Convention

Thomas H. Potter, president, reported on the recent Jaycee convention at Atlanta when the Beaufort Jaycees met Monday night at the Inlet Inn.

A radio was given away at the North Carolina convention booth by Mr. Potter. Theme of the booth was "Variety Vacationland."

Wiley Taylor Jr. gave a report on the club's athletic activities. The president said a committee would be appointed to assist in the athletic program.

Charles Chappell reported that receipts in staging the beauty pageant were $453 and expenses were $448, leaving a net profit of $5.

Mr. Potter took Miss Piner and her friend, Joyce Chadwick, to Wilmington Wednesday afternoon. Mr. Potter will be her chauffeur in the parade Saturday. Dick Parker of Parker Motors is giving the Jaycees a Thunderbird to use in the parade.

John Duncan reported on the Jaycee picnic at Wiley Taylor's camp July 6. The board of directors will meet tonight at Frank Langdale's home.

Ralph Albarus was named program chairman for the meeting July 25.

Beaufort Abolishes Recorder's Court, Will Split Case Costs with County

Scenes Like This Lure Visitors

Typical of Ocracoke's rugged beauty is this scene photographed by Aycock Brown of Ocracoke and Morehead. In the background is Ocracoke light house. In the shelter of the wind-molded cedar are myrtle bushes and yaupon, growing down to the water's edge. Driftwood blankets the shore.

7-Year-Old Morehead Boy Seriously Stung by Jelly Fish

Seven-year-old David Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Smith, 1303 Evans St., Morehead City, was severely stung by a Portuguese man-of-war, a jelly-type fish, in the ocean at Fort Macon Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith were also stung by the acid-like secretions from the fish when they attempted to get it off their son. All were treated at the Morehead City Hospital.

Mrs. Smith said that the fish got on David under one arm and then slithered across his back and under the other arm. Mr. Smith got poisoned when he tried to pull the fish off. It was finally removed by rubbing David with sand.

The life guards at the beach told the Smiths to go to the hospital immediately. In holding David, some of the acid got on his mother. "It burned like fire, worse than anything I've ever experienced," she said.

Seized with Cramps

All three were seized with cramps and Mr. Smith said he was terribly frightened for a moment when he couldn't get his breath. Mrs. Smith, who is a trained nurse, said that she later learned that the sting of the fish can cause death through respiratory failure.

At the hospital shots were given to relieve the cramps and David was discharged in several hours, but he was in mild shock until Tuesday noon.

Mrs. Smith, who has learned the hard way, says the following steps should be taken, if anyone is attacked by the poisonous jelly fish:

1. Remove the creature by rubbing with sand
2. Immediately wash in a 28 per cent ammonia solution
3. Get under shower and soap off ammonia and sand and then treat again with ammonia
4. Get to hospital as soon as possible.

Attacks Frequent

Up to the time that the Smiths tangled with the man-of-war, 12 persons were reported attacked this summer by the jelly fish which looks like a blob of red jelly and has long tentacles extending from the underside.

The fish float with the currents and are reportedly worse along local beaches when the wind has been blowing steadily for a long time from the southwest. Being a tropical species, they are carried shoreward from the warmer waters of the Gulf Stream.

It has also been reported recently that several persons have been stung by stingarees. The incidents occurred on inland waters. Stingarees are flat fish which burrow in sand under the water. If suddenly disturbed they give a violent lash with their barbed "tail," inflicting a serious wound.

Judge Earl Mason Takes 'Extended Vacation'

Beaufort Recorder's Court ceased to be when the Beaufort Town Board passed a resolution of abolition at the July meeting Monday night.

Law permitting dissolution of the court was passed in the recent legislature. The same law also allows re-establishment of the court at any time.

By resolution Monday morning, the county board of commissioners agreed to try in County Recorder's Court all criminal cases arising within the Beaufort town limits. Costs levied in each case are to be divided between the county and Beaufort after taxes and other reductions are made.

Started in 1952

Beaufort's Recorder's Court opened Oct. 23, 1952. It came into existence in a storm of controversy and has died the same way. Operation of the court was called to a halt when it was found during the past few months that operating expenses were eating into the general fund. In other words, the court was not paying its way.

Gene Smith, court solicitor and town attorney, expressed the opinion recently when the court's existence was in question, that if the town gave up the court it was "abrogating one of its sacred duties and obligations."

On March 17, 1953 the Beaufort town board met in special session and Mr. Smith presented a bill proposed for introduction on the 1953 general assembly. The bill, he said then, would allow the town board to eliminate "the unnecessary expense of the court."

According to the account of the meeting in THE NEWS-TIMES of March 20, 1953, Mr. Smith said then that the Beaufort court was losing money. But Dan Walker, town clerk, said then "the court was holding its own."

The bill proposed at that time was drawn by Mr. Smith and Claud Wheatly Jr., and called for the same financial arrangement with the county as approved this past Monday. The town board in 1953 refused to go along with the proposal at that time.

Chamber Officer Lists Committees For Current Year

President Clayton Fulcher Jr. of the Sea Level Chamber of Commerce has appointed chairmen of committees for 1955-56.

David Yeomans is chairman of the membership committee, Percy Davis, chairman, advertising, and Cecil Morris, chairman, highways and waterways.

Members of these committees are as follows:

Membership, Earl Day, Nadene Harris, Julian Gaskill, Dan Hamilton, George Salter, Charles Piner, Headen G. Willis, Leoden Gillikin, Elwood Willis, Sam Leffers, Murray Piggot, Arthur Mason, Stanley Wahab, and Ronald E. Mason.

Advertising, Mrs. Clayton Fulcher Jr., Sterling Dixon, M. H. Taylor, Jim Harker, Dan Walker, and J. R. Valentine.

Highways and waterways, Clayton Fulcher Jr., T. B. Smith, and W. H. Potter.

The mosquito control committee has a representative in each of the 18 down east communities, and they will continue with local control measures, President Fulcher said.

The program of work for the 1955-56 year will include increasing the membership of the organization and publication of a monthly bulletin.

The chamber plans to back all approved channel and inlet projects, and to continue work for completion of the All Seashore Highway.

The chamber will work for better bridges and good maintenance of all local highways, roads and streets.

Plans also include keeping down east Carteret before the public with photos, editorials, radio and television publicity, and to put out an attractive, illustrated folder advertising all the advantages offered in eastern Carteret.

Other officers, besides the president, are Mrs. R. S. Wahab and J. B. Harker, vice-presidents; Lester Gaskill, treasurer; and J. A. DuBois, manager.

Tucson Choir Will Give Concert

Eight members of the 26-member Community Concerts executive committee and board of directors decided at a recent meeting to book the Tucson Arizona Boys Chorus as the feature concert for the 1955-56 season.

The meeting was held at the home of the secretary, Mrs. W. J. Ippock. Also present was Josh Baldwin, Community Concerts representative from New York.

The Community Concerts drive will be conducted the week of Oct. 17. Cost of the boys choir is $1,100. Raised last year was a total of $1,400.

After the campaign, the executive committee and directors will meet to choose artists for the other two concerts.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. James Rumley, president; Mrs. Ippock, Mrs. G. W. Duncan, general chairman; Mrs. Edward Arrington, Mrs. Claud Wheatly, Mrs. W. L. Woodard, Mrs. Robert L. Rose, and Miss Elizabeth Lambeth, Morehead City.

Car and Milk Truck Tangle

A 1954 Plymouth and a 1952 Dodge truck collided at 6:45 Wednesday morning three miles east of Newport on Highway 70. No one was injured.

The Dodge, owned by Maola Milk Co., New Bern, was driven by William Mack Porter, 108 N. 15th St., Morehead City. The car was driven by Robert Guy Register, route 2 New Bern.

According to State Highway Patrolman R. H. Brown, the truck had signaled to make a left turn and the car attempted to pass. The car struck the truck in the rear.

Patrolman Brown said it was raining at the time of the accident. No charges were filed.

Damage to the car was estimated at $150 and to the truck $25.
