

Dick, Al Jolliff Acquire Pyrofax Franchise Here

Dick and Al Jolliff, sons of the Rev. and Mrs. J. M. Jolliff, have acquired the franchise to distribute Pyrofax bottled gas in this area. They are conducting the business under the name of Port City Gas Co. and have established offices, merchandise display rooms and storage facilities in the building formerly used as a restaurant at Copeland's Motor Court on Highway 70 west of Morehead City.

Pyrofax gas was the first bottled gas distributed in Carteret County. That initial service was started in 1929.

Dick and Al passed nine of their boyhood years at Newport where their father was pastor of the Newport Methodist Church.

Dick was graduated from Gatesville High School, served two and a half years in the Navy during the war, and then returned to Morehead City.

He married the former Miss Erma Lawrence of Bettie. They have two children and live at 1400 Bridges St., Morehead City.

For the last year and a half he was employed by Leonard's Metal Shop and prior to that as an aircraft metalmith at Cherry Point.

Al married the former Miss Barbara Brandie of Asheville. They have four children and presently are living in Raleigh where Mr. Jolliff served as branch manager of the U. S. Department of Commerce.

Al was graduated from South Mills High School and from Columbus University, Washington, D. C., where he majored in accounting and business law.

Prior to the war he served in the Coast Guard and during the war in the Navy. At one time he held the highest civilian post in the inspection department at Cherry Point.

Both of them have issued an invitation to all Pyrofax customers to call on them at their Port City Gas Co. offices.

W. S. King School Observes American Education Week

Thirty members of the ninth grade citizenship class conducted the program the first two days of "American Education Week" observances. They brought out the responsibilities which are involved in the theme "Schools—Your Investments in America."

The values they emphasized were civic, personal, and economic. They concluded that these values and benefits are obtained in "Character Building," "Learning the Fundamentals," and through classroom instruction given by both teacher and pupil participation in their daily activities.

All of these values through democratic participation will help them to become and to endeavor to be a worthwhile citizen in any community of which they are a part.

Conclusions drawn were making environmental adjustment: having a wholesome place in which to live. Another angle influencing one's mental health is being a happy person, which accounts for good behavior. Then the physical side was approached, looking and feeling one's best.

The spiritual adjustment was brought out in drawing the conclusions, doing unto others as I would have them do to me. Finally developing a personality of getting along with other people. Last, how can we earn a living where ever we live?

The other days we enjoyed the discussions presented by our faculty of W. S. King School. The final day of our week's program was "Veteran's Day." The Rev. William Horton and Mr. J. R. Thompson, veterans of World War II, gave us some very good pointers on "Character Building," and "Your Investment in a Strong Nation."

The Rev. Mr. Lusan of St. Stephen's AME Zion Church visited both our school and Queen St. High School of Beaufort. A few other visitors also visited our school.

We have other areas which are enlightening our students such as our guidance groups, and functioning student councils are ever alert to help themselves and others, to help keep under control our student body and their problems.

In our home economics department actual participation in "Child Care," proper dress and good manners are stressed daily. Others develop into the best typists as they pursue the courses in typing. Development in physical education is stressed through athletics, basketball, volley ball, baseball, and other games.

Visit our school sometime. We welcome you.

In the same year the society also received a letter from a John Ward of the same address in Charlotte, who said he was related to Stocks and wanted to meet him. There was no further contact.
