State Offers Free Game Food Seeds

Raleigh-More than 4,000 tenpound bags of wildlife food seeds are available to landowners who The Morehead City post has also received a special letter of com-Hazel, farm game specialist with the North Carolina Wildlife Resources Commission, stated that the bags of annual seeds would be sent to landowners without charge as long as the supply lasts.

For most of the state the mixture consists of 2 pounds of combine milo, 2 pounds of millet, 2 pounds of cow peas, 21/2 pounds of soybeans, and 1½ pounds of an-nual lespedeza. For the mountain counties, half the bag consists of the above mixture and the other half is buckwheat, with a quarter-pound of sunflower seed added.

The mixture has been developed by farm game experts to provide means of establishing food patches for wildlife. The Wildlife Commission's long range program for habitat improvement is based on the planting of perennial plants such as shrub lespedeza

Present planting stocks of these perennials do not bear until the second year, although new strains are being developed that will bear seed the first year, Mr. Hazel said. He stated that the annual seed mixture would provide excellent food for part of the winter months of the first year while the perennials are reaching maturity.

Hazel pointed out that the ar al seed mixture will plant two eighth-acre plots. He said that it ould be more desirable for the game to plant two small patches rather than one large one. The patches should be located near good cover, and will require one bag of 68-6 or 4-64 fertilizer.

Applications for the free bags of seed mixture can be from the district wildlife biologists, county agents, Soil Conser vation Service agents, and from the county wildlife protectors. Planting instructions come with the bags of seed.

March 1 is the deadline for applications for shrub lespedeza, said. The entire crop of multiflora rose seedlings, totaling almost a million plants, has been applied for, but there are approximately five-million shrub lespedeza seed-lings still available. Well over a million lespedeza plants have al-ready ben distributed this winter from the Commission's wildlife foods nursery at Chapel Hill.
