Another shipment of polio vaccine is expected to arrive at the County Health Department, Beaufort, next week.

Dr. Luther Fulcher, health officer, announces that this county has been allotted 531 doses.

This will be the second shipment under the federal government's purchase program. The first, received Oct. 11, was 621 doses.

More will be allotted this county as the vaccine becomes available.

Prior to Oct. 11 two shipments, paid for by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis were administered in this county.

The first inoculation was given to 1,179 first and second graders last April. The second shipment from the National Foundation was administered to 810 of the 1,179 in August. Special clinics were set up by the health department and parents were requested to bring their children to the clinics for the second inoculation.

The number receiving it fell off because children were not as easy to reach as during April when they were in school.

The National Foundation, when its inoculation program was set up last April informed health authorities that it would finance only the first two inoculations.

Government Helps
To assure further distribution of the vaccine the federal government appropriated $30 million to be distributed among the 48 states for purchase of vaccine.

The first of Carteret's federal lot came in October and the second is the one due next week.

Miss Ruth Peeling, chairman of the Carteret Chapter for Infantile Paralysis, said the 531 doses will not meet the demand and therefore those who can afford to do so. Unless this is done, children of less fortunate families will have to do without the vaccine.

$4 a Shot
Most doctors are charging $4 for each polio shot administered.

Under the federal program, the allotment is 30 per cent to health departments and 70 per cent to drug stores. Doctors obtain their vaccine through the drug stores. Carteret drug stores have the vaccine on hand.

Change Considered
The North Carolina Poliomyelitis Vaccine Advisory committee at a recent meeting considered changing the 30-70 distribution allotment, but "on recommendation of the medical members of the committee decided to continue the 30-70 percent allotments."

This information was released this week from Dr. Fred T. Ford, director of the division of epidemiology, State Board of Health.

The committee authorized the State Board of Health, however, to purchase, in addition to its 30 per cent, all surplus vaccine available through commercial channels.

This means that Carteret can apply for more than its 531-dose allotment, but only with the approval of the local medical society, which is comprised of Carteret doctors.

Dr. Fulcher said that after the vaccine arrives next week, see VACCINE, Page 6

Surplus Foods To be Given Out Next Thursday

This Will be Last Time For Project to Aid Storm-Stricken Folks

For the last time surplus federal foods will be distributed to hurricane-stricken families in the county this month. The distribution will take place next Thursday, Feb. 16, at the recreation building, Morehead City.

The recreation building is located between 15th and 16th Streets on Evans.

Miss Georgie Hughes, chairman of the county welfare department, expressed thanks this week to personnel of the State Commercial Fisheries Division, Camp Glenn for helping unload the food from the trucks last month.

Delivery to Ocracoke
At the request of Hyde County, a state patrol boat also delivered 4,000 pounds of food to Ocracoke in January. The food came in with the Carteret shipment.

It is estimated that between 450 and 460 families will be given commodities this month.

Miss Hughes said that this will absolutely be the last distribution unless another group or agency wishes to take over the work. Hours of voluntary work required for the January distribution totaled 313, plus 100 hours of work by the regularly-employed welfare staff.

'Needs Are Met'
"We can't afford to continue that," she said, "and I believe now that the need has been met."

She also emphasized that the method by which persons are approved for receiving food is more liberal than the regular welfare department requirements.

The fact that a family has received food under this program would not qualify them for regular welfare funds. Approval for receiving food under the relief program comes through a committee in the applicant's home community as well as through the welfare department.

The same commodities will be distributed this month as in the past — butter, cheese, powdered milk, dried beans, flour and shortening.

State Employees Asked to Serve In Civil Defense

Gov. Luther Hodges this week has requested members of all state agencies to volunteer their services to the Civil Defense director.

Persons are needed, he said, to man posts of the Ground Observer Corps.

Miss Ruth Peeling, county Civil Defense director, said that there is no Ground Observer Corps in this county at present. The county is not without airplane spotters, however. State highway bridge tenders have been assigned this job by State Highway officials and Coast Guard stations have been established as Ground Observer posts.

Planes spotted here are reported to the Durham Air Filter Center. State Civil Defense officials are pleased with the fine job bridge tenders are doing.

Miss Peeling said more ground observer posts can be established in this county if persons can be found to man them. Individuals who have volunteered their services to Civil Defense in this county are Seibert Morris and Mrs. Laura Quigley, Morehead City; Bill Willis, Mrs. Danforth Hill, and Herbert Lewis, all of Beaufort.

Relatives of Morehead Woman Hacked to Death

James B. Askew, New Bern, brother of Mrs. D. H. Mansfield, Morehead City, and Mr. Askew's wife were murdered Sunday in California. The bodies are being returned to Comfort, N. C., for burial.

Police say Mr. and Mrs. Askew were hacked to death by Donald Wyciskala, Bismarck, N. D., who was driving the Askews from Seattle, Wash., to Los Angeles.

Wyciskala was working in Seattle when he decided to visit his wife and infant daughter in Griffin, Ga. He answered an advertisement placed by the Askews who wanted someone to drive them to Los Angeles.

The killings took place near McFarland, Calif.

Wyciskala told the FBI that he "got tired of the guy nagging me" about his driving and picked up a hatchet that was on the floor of the car and hit Askew in the head. He then drove off the road and hit Mrs. Askew, "because she was screaming."

He took $250 from Askew, drove the car over the victims and hitchhiked to Bakersfield, Calif., where he hired a cab for $45 to take him to Los Angeles.

He traveled by plane to Fort Worth, Texas, and then rode the bus to New Orleans, where he was arrested.

Survivors, besides Mrs. Mansfield, are two sisters, Mrs. Cynthia Godwin, New Bern, and Mrs. Milton Croom, Kinston, and two brothers, Milton and John Askew, both merchants in New Bern.
