Third Plant Bed Control Set Up

The third plant bed disease control demonstration has been established on the farm of Otis Godwin, Stella, R. M. Williams, county agent, has announced.

Other demonstrations are on the farms of John B. Kelly, Newport, and Elmore Smith, Bogue Sound Road.

Mr. Williams says weather conditions have been ideal for spread of blue mold and warns farmers to start treating their beds immediately.

The anthracnose disease has not been reported as yet, he added, but will most likely be present in beds again this year. The same treatments that prevent blue mold will also prevent anthracnose.

In each of the three demonstrations a new fungicide material is being tried out. The common name of the material is Maneb and is sold under the trade name of Manzate, Manzate 75, and Dithane M 22.

This material is recommended to do an effective job of controlling plant bed diseases, said Mr. Williams. Its cost is approximately one half that of Fomate which has been widely used by growers for the past several years, he added.

Mr. Kelly is using Manzate dust and 10 per cent Dithane Z-78 dust. Mr. Smith is using 15 per cent Fomate, and 2 per cent Manzate dust; and Mr. Godwin is using 10 per cent Parzate dust and 2 per cent Dithane M 22.

In all three demonstrations a check flat will be left in the center of the demonstration to show the effectiveness of the different treatments.
