Chalk Dust

Our debating club is becoming one of the most outstanding clubs in school March 16, although only organized three months, a debate was held against the New Bern debating club, with Linda Salter and Allen Autry traveling to New Bern and Jackie Wheatley and Frank Potter staying in Beaufort. The two New Bern debaters that came here were John Riley Ross and Albert Salem Jr.

The subject of debate was "That governmental subsidies should be granted according to need to high school graduates who qualify for additional training."

Although New Bern won both debates our freshmen debaters showed up mighty fine against New Bern's senior debating club. This is due not only to the members of the club, but also to Mrs. Shuey and Mrs. Roba Lee King, who are sponsors. The judges of the debate were Rev. Sharp, Mrs. U. E. Swann and Mrs. Lockwood Phillips. The time-keepers were Jim Thomas for New Bern, and Paul Hill for Beaufort.

This debate was a great experience and we bet that before long our debating club will be one of the best in this section of the state.

Last Monday the seniors were very fortunate to have Mr. Edward F. Gray, who lives in New Bern, to discuss with us the many problems of social security. He expressed the point that more and more jobs are requiring social security and that it is up to us to make laws and keep up with the laws that change and make social security better.

A movie was also shown on just how social security works. We appreciate so much Mr. Gray's visit and hope that he will be able to visit our school more often.

The meeting of the Beaufort senior 4-H club was called to order by the president, Barbara Taylor. After the devotional, the girls had a demonstration on Dairy Foods, and the boys were shown slides on soil conservation.

The meeting was adjourned with the 4-H club pledge.

The seniors are still busy with that senior play and we're warning you ahead of time that you'd better come prepared to laugh your head off! Here are a few descriptions of the characters: Addison Kincaid, played by Jerry Willis, is a wealthy banker and father in the play. He is a very demanding man and is easily angered; Felice Kincaid, Addison's wife, played by Peggy Williams, is very troubled by some past secret and makes every one feel sorry for her; Clarice Morton, played by Joyce Chadwick, is Felice's beautiful young daughter by a previous marriage. Her love life is very modern and she makes you want everything to work out perfectly; Merry Jones, a maid at the Kincaids', is played by Barbara Davis.

Duncan-Carter

Merry is undoubtedly the dumbest and wittiest maid that ever was. She will have tears streaming down your cheeks from laughter. Marvin Kemp, Addison's private secretary, is played by Jimmy Owens. Marvin is one of the most efficient secretaries that Addison ever had.

Clark Benton, a young newspaperman, in love with Clarice, is played by Kenneth Swain. It doesn't take Clark long to bring everything under control; Sheriff Caspar Sharpe, who has a high opinion of himself, is played by Jimmy Potter.

The sheriff's action and dry wit will have you rolling in the aisle; Valentine Pyne, who is looking for a husband, is played by Sylvia Harrell. Bless Valentine's heart—won't she ever find a husband? Dora Jepson, who has suffered a severe loss, is played by Bonnie Brinson. Many tears will Dora shed before this play is over; last but not least is Clara Holloway, a housekeeper, played by Kay Prytherch. Clara, a strong headed woman, takes complete charge of the Kincaid household. Remember Murder with Orchids. April 13th should be an important date to all!

The FTA held its regular meeting recently at activity period. The meeting was opened by a devotion, given by Irma Cannon. Kenneth Swain and Jerri Bodford had a very nice program. Irma Cannon was elected by proclamation to be our representative to compete for the FTA scholarship.

California had about 13 1/2 million people at the end of 1955.
