My Camera and I Visit The Garden, Calvary

By THE REV. JOHN BUNN

This is a picture story on Calvary and the Garden Tomb. The Garden Tomb is a rectangular cave, artificially excavated in the face of a solid rock hill. Directly in the center of the picture can be seen the tomb door. By looking carefully just below the door at what appears to be a rock ledge, the rock-hewn channel in which the stone door was rolled, can be seen.

If we enter the tomb door, the sight which we see is where Christ lay after crucifixion (above). Notice the sloping floor of the coffin bottom with the foot niche carved from living rock.

Running along the center of the picture, one can observe a rock cut channel. Into this channel a long flat stone slab was set to make a side for the coffin. Another slab was then placed over the top to completely close the sepulchre.

Just east of the Garden Tomb area, a distance of about 50 yards is Golgotha or Calvary where Christ was crucified. In the right center of the picture you can see the two caves in the rock which appear as eyes and between them the rock ridge which resembles a nose.

This reminds us of Mark 15:22 which says, "And they bring him unto the place Golgotha... the place of a skull." At the extreme right top corner of the picture one can see the place of crucifixion, where Christ along with the two thieves was crucified.

Official Extends Season for Taking Scallops, Crabs

The season for taking scallops and crabs in pots has been extended. C. G. Holland, fisheries commissioner, announced yesterday. Commissioner Holland also reported that certain designated trawlers made trial runs for spotted shrimp last night.

The crab pot season will not close until Saturday, May 5. The scallop season will continue through Thursday, May 31. Both seasons usually close May 1, which would be today.

Commissioner Holland said extension on these seasons has been granted for the same reason the shad and herring seasons were lengthened — bad weather. Shad and herring may be taken until next Thursday, May 10.

High winds and cold weather have kept the crab catch down and fishermen can't go after scallops in rough weather. So to give the fishermen a bit more time to take advantage of these fisheries, state officials decided to keep the season open a bit longer.

Commissioner Holland said that five privately-owned trawlers made trial drags last night for the spotted shrimp, a species which can be taken only at night. The trawlers made the test runs in Core Sound, Pamlico Sound and the Neuse River.

Commissioner Holland says results of the test runs will be announced some time this week. He doubted seriously that shrimp of commercial size would be found since seasons are running about 10 days late.

Should shrimp of marketable size be taken, the catches will be turned over to the fisheries commissioner.

When it is determined that the shrimp are ready to be taken, shrimping in inland waters will be permitted. In past years the season has opened about the middle of May.

Judge Luther Hamilton Keynotes Cooperation

Clayton Fulcher Jr., Atlantic, was re-elected president of the Sea Level Chamber of Commerce at the organization's annual banquet Saturday night at the Atlantic School cafeteria.

Other officers elected were Samuel Leffers, Straits, vice-president; Lester Gaskill, Sea Level, treasurer, and Joe Mason, Atlantic, secretary.

The election of the officers followed a talk by Judge Luther Hamilton, Morehead City, and a barbecue dinner.

Judge Hamilton, a native of Atlantic, told the chamber members that they must set a goal of accomplishment and in achieving their goal they must stick together.

He said, "It will take a great deal of patience, time, perseverance and determination to help our varied Down East communities, but by sticking together there is no goal that cannot be accomplished."

The judge reminisced about the old days of his boyhood in Atlantic, stating that there was no evidence of prosperity and progress then as there is now.

As he termed it, "We didn't have good roads, a good school, and our only mode of transportation was by boat."

He reminded the audience that the first high school in the county was established at Atlantic and that in 1912-1913 Atlantic, with a population of 700 people, had 24 boys and girls attending college.

Referring to THE NEWS-TIMES as the "London Times," Judge Hamilton said that he thought the county newspaper was a fine publication, and that he would use the topic announced there for his talk.

He spoke then on the potentials and possibilities of eastern Carteret County, remarking that the

Full-Time FHA Office Opens

Carteret County again has a permanent Farmers Home Administration office. Miss Lorraine Willis, Beaufort, employed on a temporary basis several months ago, has been employed on a full-time basis. I. M. Robbins, FHA supervisor, announces.

The FHA office is located in room 210, Beaufort postoffice. All files pertaining to FHA borrowers in this county have now been transferred from New Bern to Beaufort. The permanent FHA office here was disestablished a number of years ago.

Applications for all types of services may be made in the Beaufort office. Mr. Robbins said, "FHA is engaged in extending supervised credit. It makes farm-ownership loans for the purchase, enlargement, and development of family-type farms; emergency loans in designated areas; production and subsistence loans for the operation of family-type farms; and soil and water conservation loans.

"Whatever the purpose for which FHA assistance may be needed, applications may be made at any time of the year. On the basis of experience, it is expected," says the supervisor, "that in the near future most of those who apply are likely to be interested in soil and water conservation loans.

"These, as the name implies, are adapted to a variety of uses. But in this area loans of this type have been used more frequently for the establishment of irrigating systems and for the improvement of farm drainage than for any of the other purposes for which FHA is permitted to advance them."

Until a short time after the hurricanes in 1955, the FHA was not represented in this county by full-time personnel. The agency served the county from its New Bern office, and a part time office at Beaufort.

Mr. Robbins reports that many emergency loans were made following the severe and widespread losses experienced by farmers last year. In addition, loans of other types, have increased in number, he said.

Tanker Limp Back to Port Again Sunday

The S.S. Seathunder, a truly hardluck vessel which has been in and out of the Morehead City port since April 21, made its second unsuccessful attempt to leave here Sunday morning.

In the Sunday attempt, the ship, a T-2 tanker, reached the sea buoy when the power suddenly failed. She was towed back to Morehead City by the tug, Manie, late yesterday.

On Saturday, April 21, the Seathunder was headed from Baltimore to Venezuela when one of her engines broke down and she limped into Morehead.

On Tuesday, April 24, she left Morehead City after repairs were made and got about 87 miles away when an explosion in her boiler room caused her to return. She was back in Morehead again Wednesday afternoon.

The ship will head to Norfolk next time. The Seathunder has no cargo aboard. Her agent here is Morehead City Shipping Co.

Barn Containing Cypress Lumber Burns at Smyrna

In spite of excellent performance by the Beaufort Rural Fire Department's new pumper, firemen were unable to save a barn at Smyrna Thursday night. Down East firemen also answered the alarm.

The barn, containing 5,000 feet of cypress lumber, was owned by Mrs. D. B. Wade, Smyrna. It is not known how the fire started.

The pumper on the rural truck, which enabled firemen to get water from the creek, was recently purchased with funds collected during the membership drive.

The fire had a good headstart by the time it was discovered and the firemen called. The fire-fighters spent three and a half hours at the scene, putting the blaze out and making sure it didn't flare up again.

The firemen were pleased with their new pump's performance and felt sure it could have been the deciding factor in saving the property, had they been able to get to the fire before it made so much headway.
