

Army Recruiter Speaks to Pupils

Army recruiting sergeant, Bill Haynes, spoke to the students of Beaufort High School during a special assembly arranged by B. R. Tarkington, principal, recently.

The topic of Sergeant Haynes' talk was "Preparation Through Education," stressing the necessity of students remaining in school and receiving the highest degree of education possible.

The necessity of higher-educated personnel in all walks of life was stressed. Due to the rapid advancement in industry and also military development, more and higher educated people are needed, he said.

Sergeant Haynes told of the opportunities available to graduating students in the U. S. Army where they could receive further education and training experience. This was directed to those who are unable to see the opportunity of going to college and furthering their education there. Stay in School, has been the by-word of the Army for the past few years when they realized that educated personnel were needed as a nucleus or backbone for the finest and best trained Army in the world. Sergeant Haynes stated "We have the equipment, you have to furnish the brains, train it to reward you in the future."

Sergeant Haynes is making a tour of the high schools in this area at this time to familiarize the graduating students of the opportunities available in the Army and urging the other students to complete their education to the highest standards possible.

Paint Plant Manager Proves Country Location

Nowata, Okla. (AP)—The New York businessman who called the manager of a paint plant by long-distance telephone was given a quick geography lesson.

He asked Ken Keating where the plant was located. "It's out in the country near Nowata, Okla.," replied Keating. "And brother, if you don't think it's out in the country you should be here now. There's a cow looking in the window at me."

Charlotte Coliseum Has Trouble with Glass Doors

Charlotte, N. C. (AP)—The only trouble with the plate glass doors in Charlotte's new Coliseum is that a lot of people don't see 'em, that is.

A great many persons walking briskly through the ground floor lobbies have whammed into the transparent full-length doors.

At least four of the doors have been shattered—with no serious damage to the unwary pedestrians. City Manager Henry A. Yancey is considering installing flashing red lights or luminous tape to protect both parties from the collisions.

Fulcher, Mrs. Marjorie Gooding, and Mrs. Neva Dail attended the sub-district meeting of the WSCS at Williston last Tuesday.

A large number of our young folks attended the MYF sub-district meeting at Harlowe last Monday night.

The prayer group met at the church last week. We will meet next time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ray West.

Natural gas is now the sixth largest U. S. industry, says the National Geographic Society.
