

Funeral Held Yesterday For Drowning Victim

The funeral service for Walter Odell Adams, Broad Creek, who drowned Friday night, was conducted at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Church of God, Broad Creek.

Adams, 18, drowned in Horse Pond, Broad Creek, when a row-boat in which he was riding with several other boys "capsized."

Coast Guardsmen who recovered the body with grappling hooks said that the boys had found the boat sunk along the shore. They pulled it up, dumped the water out and rode across the pond which is about three-quarters of a mile long and half a mile wide.

Return Trip

After they got to the other side, they dumped the water which had leaked in, and started back. It was on the return trip that "the bottom dropped out" and all the boys went into the water.

All but Adams swam to safety. Manley Mason, Broad Creek, reportedly helped one boy ashore and then went back after Adams but could find no trace of him.

The Coast Guard at Fort Macon was called and on the second drag across the pond located Adams' body. The accident occurred about 7:15 p.m. At some points the pond was so deep the grappling hooks didn't touch bottom, Coast Guardsmen said.

Coroner Leslie D. Springle declared the death caused by accidental drowning.

Officiating at the funeral service was the Rev. C. R. Tedder, pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. Alvis Daniel, pastor of the Wildwood Presbyterian Church.

Interment was in Broad Creek Cemetery.

Adams' survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Odell Adams, two sisters, Fay and Sandra, three brothers, C. V., Jesse, and Milton, all of the home, and his paternal grandfather, David Adams.

Tragedy Mars Houseparty At Jernigan Cottage; One Girl Rescued

What was to have been a joyful houseparty at the beach turned to tragedy yesterday afternoon when one member of the group, Virginia Ann Capps, 21, route 3 Red Oak, N. C., drowned, and a second girl, Delores Lamb, 18, was taken to Morehead City Hospital.

Miss Lamb was reported to be doing fine at 2:30 p.m. yesterday. The accident occurred at 1:10 p.m.

Miss Capps was a rising senior at Meredith College and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry E. Capps.

The tragedy occurred about a block east of the Pavilion in front of private cottages. Miss Capps and three other persons were riding a pneumatic raft. They were Miss Lamb, Miss Kathleen McLamb and an unidentified boy.

According to Chief Donald Tilton, Fort Macon Coast Guard Station, a heavy swell swept Miss Lamb off the raft and the boy took her ashore.

Then another swell knocked Miss Capps off and he went to her rescue but she started fighting him and he had to let go.

The Coast Guard was called by residents at the Ragland Cottage. Men from the Coast Guard station went to the scene in their truck, taking a respirator.

A hurried call was also made to the Beaufort Fire Department for their resuscitator and it was taken to the beach by Allen Conway, Joe Long, Gregory Warren, Freddie Snooks, Logan Whitehurst, and Ronnie Smith. They were escorted by a Morehead City police car and a state highway patrolman.

The artificial breathing apparatus was used on both girls but Miss Capps could not be revived. The girls were staying at the R. S. Jernigan cottage.

State Issues Specific Orders on How Towns, Plants Must Stop Pollution

Two-Week Canned Vegetable Diet at Hospital Halted

For two weeks prior to Thursday, the staff and patients at the Morehead City Hospital had been served vegetables of the canned variety only.

This information was revealed by Mrs. Hattie Smithson, dietitian at the hospital, at a special meeting of the hospital board of trustees at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Mrs. Smithson was called before the board when Lockwood Phillips, publisher of THE NEWS-TIMES who attended the meeting, asked the board if serving of fresh vegetables at the hospital had been stopped and canned vegetables served exclusively.

(Proper dietary requirements call for inclusion of fresh vegetables in the diet daily, especially for persons recovering from an illness.)

When Mrs. Smithson appeared, she said that the canned goods had been served for two weeks prior to Thursday. On this past Thursday, she revealed, John L. Crump, a member of the board, came to her and asked her whether canned vegetables were being served.

When she told him they were, she reported that Mr. Crump told her to stop serving the canned goods.

A. B. Roberts, chairman of the board, asked, "Who told you to serve these canned vegetables?" Mrs. Smithson replied, "Mr. Willis." David Willis is administrator of the hospital.

Mr. Willis interrupted, "I did not." He said he told Mrs. Smithson that the canned vegetables in question were to be used before any other canned vegetables were ordered. He said he didn't say that fresh vegetables were to be eliminated from the diet.

Mr. Willis said, "I probably was misunderstood and I wish to say at this time that no one is to blame."

The board presented a written statement to the effect that five hundred dollars worth of canned vegetables had been purchased from Freeman Wholesale Co. at a saving to the hospital of $54.

The goods had been slightly damaged when a water pipe burst at the Freeman Wholesale warehouse, Morehead City, but were reported to be all right for human consumption.

Mr. Phillips commented that it was unfortunate that the "misunderstanding" concerning the serving of the canned vegetables had taken place, adding that in the past the hospital board, as far as he knew, operated efficiently.

During the meeting it was reported that the hospital buys meat and fresh vegetables from El Nelson's Grocery at a cost of approximately $800 a month. Canned goods are purchased from the Freeman firm, in which Mr. Roberts is part-owner.

Meets Thursday

The hospital board of trustees met in regular session Thursday night, but apparently felt moved to comment on the canned goods situation only after an editorial appeared in THE NEWS-TIMES Friday morning. Thus the special Friday afternoon session.

THE NEWS-TIMES on June 7 received a complaint that hospital personnel and patients were being subjected to a canned vegetable

Two Cars Found At Bogue Field

Two Ford convertibles stolen in the Jacksonville area were located at Bogue Field Sunday afternoon.

Bogue Field is federal property. The assistant provost marshal at Camp Lejeune, Major Pearsall, and deputies of Onslow County, notified Deputy Sheriff Bobby Bell of Carteret that the stolen cars had been found at the air field.

Deputy Bell went to the field, located in this county, to assist the officers.

One of the cars was stripped of its tires and the other had marking tape over the chrome in preparation for painting.

Lejeune officers said the cars were stolen by a Camp Lejeune Marine who was reported to be spending the weekend in Maine, using for transportation a 1956 Ford he had just stolen from a Jacksonville lot. The Ford had three miles on it when taken.

The identity of the thief was not revealed. Officers were lying in wait for him when he returned from his weekend jaunt.

Tropical Storm Reported East of West Palm Beach

A weather report at 12:30 p.m. yesterday afternoon reported that there were heavy squalls 500 miles east of West Palm Beach with winds 40-45 miles per hour.

Planes and ships in the area have been requested to keep watch on the squalls in case the winds increase in intensity, creating the first tropical storm of the season.

Squalls were reported moving in a westward direction.

The State Stream Sanitation Committee has issued a report outlining the specific manner in which the towns of Morehead City, Beaufort, Swansboro and several industrial plants shall comply with the pollution abatement law.

Unless compliance steps are taken, the towns and plants concerned could end up in court.

The State Stream Sanitation Committee is seeking voluntary cooperation in stopping pollution. If that doesn't work, the law under which the committee was created allows the town, or person responsible for the pollution, two hearings.

The hearings take place before the committee. If, after the second hearing, the committee believes steps are not being taken to stop pollution, court action will be taken.

In this area, the committee points out that pollution prevents full use of certain waters for shellfish cultivation, recreation and commercial fishing.

The law not only requires the committee to eliminate present pollution but prevent new pollution.

Permits Needed

As of June 1, no changes may be made in use of waters of the White Oak River Basin (in which Carteret is located) without first obtaining a permit from the State Stream Sanitation Committee.

What measures must the towns and plants take to comply with the committee's orders?

Beaufort (sewage is deposited in Town and Taylor Creeks)—"Steps should be taken immediately to obtain the services of a competent engineering firm to study the problem and develop plans and specifications for such treatment facilities (sewage disposal plant) as may be necessary."

All plans, specifications and reports should be submitted to the State Stream and Sanitation Committee for review and upon approval the town should proceed as rapidly as possible with construction of the works.

Beaufort Fisheries, Inc.—"The company should provide adequate facilities for treating all sewage and for the removal of grease, settleable solids and floating materials in the waste waters prior to discharging them to the receiving waters (Taylor's Creek). A study should be made to determine the most acceptable methods to be used for reducing the amount and eliminating objectionable materials in the plant wastes."

"This should be done as soon as possible and the study report and plans for correcting the conditions should be submitted to the State Stream Sanitation Committee and upon approval, should be put into effect promptly."

Quinn Menhaden Fisheries, Inc.—(Report similar to the one on Beaufort Fisheries except that the words "put into effect, promptly"

Water Projects Pass Another Hurdle at Capital

Carteret Projects Okayed Include Waterway From Beaufort; Core Creek

A Public Works appropriations bill, which includes over two and a half million dollars for rivers and harbors projects in North Carolina was passed by the Senate last week.

The measure went to a joint conference committee at which any difference between the Senate and House bills are reconciled. None of the Tar Heel projects are thought to be in jeopardy since most of them were included in the original House bill.

The bill includes funds for five Tar Heel construction projects as follows:

Wilmington Harbor—$1,543,000; Oregon Inlet, $575,000; Far Creek at Englehard—$179,000; a link with Inland Waterway from Beaufort Harbor to Pamlico Sound—$117,000; and Rollison Channel—$55,000.

A total of $8,600 was approved for four flood control studies on the following streams: Core Creek, Neuse River, Northeast Cape Fear River, and Waccamaw River.

The bill also includes an appropriation of $25,000 for completion of a study on the proposed Wilkesboro Reservoir.

Rep. Herbert Bonner of the first congressional district, North Carolina, on Saturday hailed as "good news" the approval of the Oregon Inlet project.

He said, "Larger vessels will be able to use the waterway, now so shoally that it is unsafe at times for even small craft to pass from sea to sound."

The project consists of dredging a 14-foot channel through the inlet to Pamlico Sound.

Arlie Daniels Wins Honor

Arlie Daniels, 55, Cedar Island, Father of the Year for 1956, is shown being congratulated by Mayor George Dill of Morehead City, right, as members of his family look on.

Mr. Daniels, a firm believer in being a good neighbor, has six children of his own as well as two "practically" adopted servicemen, Maj. T. R. Boutwell and M/Sgt. Roy Slade.

Mr. Daniels said that the two servicemen were visitors in the Cedar Island area, and came to know the Daniels home as their own.

He has spent all of his life in the Cedar Island area, and except for a little carpentry and steamboating, he has been a fisherman most of his life. At present he works on one of Clayton Fulcher's boats out of Atlantic.

He well remembers the night of the birth of his youngest son, Neil, at his home on Sept. 15, 1933.

"It was at the height of the hurricane of '33," he said, "and all of the bottom part of the two-story house we lived in was washed out. Water rose to within three steps of the second-story landing and there was at least 5 feet of water in the house. Not only was Neil coming into the world but Frank, the eldest son, came down with blood poisoning.

"Frank was taken to Beaufort Emergency Hospital after the waters receded and had to stay there for 25 days."
