Wednesday Alert Tests CD Units at Atlantic Beach

Atlantic Beach Civil Defense deputy director Bill Moore sets the stage for a practice CD alert with three telephone calls delivering a code message. CD director Jack Savage looks on.

The fire department went straight to the "fire" on Greenville Avenue and started unreeing the hose. Auxiliary policeman G. K. Willis, right, asks fire truck driver Dick Spears if he can help get the hose in position.

Members of the rescue squad used the beach resuscitator on a victim supplied by the fire department. Squad members include Al Conner, Sherrill Norman and Lenton Lewis.

The Atlantic Beach Civil Defense system got a stern test Wednesday night. CD director Jack Savage and deputy director Bill Moore made three telephone calls and in less than 15 minutes 30 volunteer firemen, policemen and rescue squad workers were at a simulated fire on Greenville Avenue.

The firemen reported directly to the "fire" chief while police and the rescue squad went to the police station. Auxiliary policemen were posted from the junction of the Salter Path and Atlantic Beach roads to the fire to direct traffic.

The rescue squad got the beach resuscitator and other rescue equipment and headed for the fire, where they "rescued" a victim who had been overcome by smoke. They put the resuscitator on him and covered him with blankets, according to the latest recommended practices.

In less than 45 minutes the "fire" was out, the victim was well on the way to recovery and the area was cleared.

The county health department will give Asian flu shots to persons who provide their own vaccine. This decision was made at a special meeting of the health board Wednesday afternoon in the health center, Beaufort.

The board decided that since the State Board of Health has not seen fit to buy Asian flu vaccine, the county health board will not purchase the vaccine.

County health nurses will, however, give shots during regular clinic hours to persons who bring the vaccine with them. Dr. Luther Fulcher, health officer, said that vaccine has been available at drug stores.

Firms, offices or other places where a number of people are employed can buy vaccine, the health officer said, and then have the vaccine administered at the health department clinics.

Sunny Days Bring Out New Hordes of Mosquitoes

Land Dispute Case Non-Suited

Judge W. J. Bone Grants Motion by Defendant Tuesday Afternoon

A non-suit was decreed by Judge Walter J. Bone Tuesday afternoon in the case of the Cozier Container Corp. vs. Mattie King Hancock Davis and others. Tuesday was the second day of the one-week civil term of superior court.

George W. Ball, attorney for the defendant, moved for non-suit in the land dispute, following presentation of evidence by the plaintiff's attorneys, Claud R. Wheatly and J. F. Dancan.

In a conference between the attorneys and the judge prior to the trial, Judge Bone pointed out that in a petition filed by the plaintiff he saw nothing regarding "peaceable possession" of the land in question and according to an examiner's report, he said no recognition was given "oral testimony" relating to the case.

The judge explained that in a suit such as this, where the Cozier Corp. is claiming ownership of land allegedly held by another party, the statute requires that the plaintiff state that he is owner of the land.

The Cozier attorneys maintained that their contention that they have legal title to the land constitutes a statement of possession.

Some more discussion followed and Judge Bone finally said to the attorneys, "You gentlemen don't know any more about this than I do. It's my opinion that if we go through with this trial, it will all be thrown out by the Supreme Court... but I'll go along with you on it."

Presentation of evidence by the Cozier lawyers continued until about 3 p.m. in the afternoon. It was then that the defendant's attorney moved for non-suit, which was granted.

In this same suit a mistrial was declared in the April term of superior court. At that time the trial lasted three days.

The Cozier corporation, which has been ordered to pay costs, has given notice of appeal to the State Supreme Court. Appeal bond was set at $100.

The land in dispute lies in the Back Creek section in both Carteret and Craven Counties.

Members of the jury, who of course did not have to act when the non-suit was granted, were Gordon E. Freeman, R. D. West, L. C. Holland, J. C. Lancaster Jr., Eugene Styron, Albert C. Chappell, Homer Lewis, L. H. Hardy, J. Howard Lewis, E. W. Chappell, A. T. Smith and Paul F. Bowden.

Jaycee Bob McLean reported that next week will be National Bible Week. He showed the club posters and other materials that he planned to distribute.

Joseph Lundy, a prospective member, was the guest of Dr. Barnum.

County, Towns Resume Fogging Operations

Hordes of mosquitoes caused revival of the mosquito spraying program this week.

A. D. Fulford, county sanitarian and supervisor of mosquito control for the county, started a fogging truck in the eastern section of the county Wednesday afternoon. He sent the other county truck out Wednesday night in the western part of the county.

The Beaufort town truck resumed fogging operations Tuesday afternoon and the Morehead City truck went back on the job yesterday.

Spraying ceased during the cold spell last week when heavy northeast winds brought rain and cold.

The weather this week, however, has been warm, bringing the mosquitoes out in heavy clouds during the day. Infestation of mosquitoes has been heavy 20 to 30 miles inland.

Lt. Cdr. John MacCormack, Atlantic, told THE NEWS-TIMES Wednesday that people in his section of the county were getting "no relief whatsoever."

"The governor's up north trying to get people to bring industry here," he continued, "I'd like to know what industry wants to come here when we have mosquitoes like this. I, for one, am seriously thinking of selling out and moving!"

Miss Eve Wynne, Morehead City, told THE NEWS-TIMES yesterday that mosquitoes were terrible in the Crab Point section and she wondered why the town had stopped fogging.

Mr. Fulford reported that the county has now received all the money it had been promised by the state, $4,865.69 for spraying operations. This money is the last that will come from the state until July 1, 1958.

Mayor George Dill said that Morehead City stopped its spraying program when it was informed that the town would not get all of the $1,950 it had originally been promised from the state.

He learned yesterday, however, that the total amount will be forthcoming, the balance arriving in May and June.

"As long as we know that the money is eventually coming, we'll continue the spraying as long as needed," the mayor said. Spraying operations cost Morehead City about $22 a day.

Beaufort's mosquito allotment from the state amounts to $1,750.

The defendant, a resident of Beaufort, agreed to pay the plaintiff $735.10 in settlement of damages arising from an auto-bike collision April 6, 1957 on Highway 101.

Phillip Morris, 12, was injured when he was struck while riding a bicycle, by a car driven by Mr. Mason. Phillip and his father sought $1,000 in damages.

Expenses, as set forth by the Morris's in the complaint, included $180.10 in hospital bills, $200 to Dr. John Way, and $105 to Dr. W. L. Rudder. In the settlement, which was made out of court, it was agreed that $100 of the $735.10 should be paid to Hamilton and McNeill, attorneys for the Morris's.

Late in Monday's session of court two divorces were granted, Ethel B. Green vs James H. Green and Gertie Mason vs. Jordan Mason.

On the Monday afternoon jury were Gordon E. Freeman, Paul F. Bowden, A. T. Smith, J. Howard Lewis, E. W. Chappell, J. B. Brooks, B. B. Small, Plymouth Willis, Homer Lewis, J. C. Lancaster Jr. and Milton Scott.

Four Countians Found Guilty

Four Carteret countians who appeared at federal court in New Bern this week were convicted for violation of whiskey laws. They were Willie Harkley Moore, Murphy Dice, Harvey Atkinson and William (Wild Bill) Godette.

Moore, Dice and Atkinson were charged with operating a still and Godette was charged with transporting bootleg whiskey and resisting arrest.

According to Marshall Ayscue, county ABC officer, Moore got an 18-month sentence; Dice got a year and a day, suspended on payment of $250 fine and two years' good behavior; Atkinson drew a year and a day suspended sentence and was fined $150.

Carteret County has been approved by the Farm and Home Administration to receive emergency FHA loans. Such emergency loans allow farmers lower interest rates and longer terms for payment. The emergency condition was based partially on the long dry spell experienced here this summer.

Theatre to Present Performance Of Play Nov. 9 for School Children

The Bishop's Mantle, Carteret Community Theatre play now in rehearsal, will be presented twice on Saturday, Nov. 9.

The first performance, at 2 p.m. in the recreation building, Morehead City, will be a matinee for school children. Admission will be 25 cents.

The second performance at 8 p.m. will also be in the recreation building. Adults will be admitted for $1 and students 50 cents.

Proceeds from the production will be divided between the theatre and the Morehead City Recreation Commission.

Tickets will be placed on sale next week. There will be no tickets for the matinee. School children will pay admission at the door. Kenneth Fischer, president of the theatre, says that students might be especially interested in the play since one of the leading roles is being played by H. L. Joslyn, who for 25 years was principal of the Morehead City School and for the past 10 years has been county superintendent of schools.

Thomas Cordova, a member of the Camp Glenn School faculty, is also in the cast.

Mr. Joslyn plays the part of a church sexton and Mr. Cordova plays the part of a mining engineer, the brother of the rector of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church.

This is the first time that the theatre has planned a matinee especially for school children. Twenty-five dollars royalty must be paid to give the afternoon performance. Miss Lillian Frances Giddens, treasurer of the theatre, points out that the theatre will be pleased if matinee admissions will cover the royalty, since the afternoon performance is being given mainly to interest children in drama as a means of artistic expression.

Adults who cannot come to the evening performance will be admitted to the matinee for the same admission fee to be charged at night.

This is the first play of the current season. Theatre patrons are entitled to attend free, under their patron membership.

In the cast, in addition to Mr. Joslyn and Mr. Cordova, are the Rev. C. Edward Sharp, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Beaufort, Mrs. Sharp, his wife; Glenn Adair, Beaufort; Miss Vivian May, Miss Thelma Memakis, Ronald Harpe, Miss Joyce Willis, Miss Giddens, Miss Elizabeth Lambeth, and Miss Gushide Gunnerson.
