Robert Lee Humber Will Give Annual Report Here

Shipbuilding Firm Adds to Its Line For Year '59

Morehead City Shipbuilding Corp., in its December newsletter, announces the addition of two new boats to its building line—a yacht and a head boat, each of which can be rebuilt as fishing boats, since they will have standard trawler hulls.

Also to be turned out by the firm, located at the east end of Bridges Street, Morehead City, is a new "modern and efficient shrimp trawler... which will give the owner greater return on his money."

The shipbuilding company looks forward to 1959 with optimism. The newsletter comments, "The signs of the times are favorable. Slowly, but steadily, seafood is becoming a more important part of the diet of the average American. Our national population is on the increase and per capita income is high. We are not predicting a boom... but the future does look bright."

The shipbuilding corporation reports that when it was delivering more than two trawlers a week for over a year, remodeling of the yard and designing of new and better boats "was always difficult and sometimes impossible."

"But now these things are being accomplished," the newsletter reports. "Work on a number of trawler refinements, new models and new boats is well under way."

During Helene, 80 feet of the trawler shed, as well as the wet storage docks, various shops and office buildings were damaged. Although the catastrophe took its toll, it expedited remodeling of the shipyard, according to R. C. Kirchofer, president.

Relative to the shrimp industry, for which Morehead City Shipbuilding has been turning out Hatteras trawlers, the firm says, "The future of the shrimp industry—all the way from the building of the processed product—is brighter today than it has been for many months, or even years. Both the total catch and the catch-per-boat is on the increase. The demand for shrimp is strong; and the prices on the whole are good."

Robert Lee Humber, Greenville, founder of the World Federation movement, will make his annual report on World Federation at 3 p.m. Monday in the recreation room of the First Baptist Church, Beaufort.

Charter members of the group and the public are invited to the meeting.

The World Federation movement was organized in December 1940 at Davis Island, Carteret County. The first state to endorse it was North Carolina. Fifteen other states followed suit and seven more have endorsed it in principle.

Mr. Humber, nephew of Charles Webb Davis, Beaufort, for his World Federation work, is the recipient of several awards including the World Government News medal in 1948 and the American War Dead peace prize for the greatest single contribution toward peace by any individual.

Mr. Humber is president of the North Carolina Art Commission and Art Society. He is state senator-elect of Pitt County.

Members of Mr. Humber's family will accompany him here for his annual address.

Plea for Peace By President

President Eisenhower has added his voice to that of countless other Americans in praying for a peaceful Christmas season and a New Year lightened by understanding and cooperation.

Before lighting the national Christmas tree near the White House Tuesday night, the President said, "I again give my solemn word that the people of the United States do not want war and will always welcome and accept serious and honest proposals to negotiate international differences."

Mr. Eisenhower continued, "The Christmas message of peace on earth, good will toward men is not an ideal of Christianity alone nor limited to Americans and people of the free world.

"It is matched in yearning in the inmost thoughts of all peoples. It is a universal, driving spark that lights the soul of mankind."

Immediately after the president delivered his Christmas message, he pushed the button that set aglow a towering Christmas tree from a mountain forest near Libby, Montana.

Golden, driving over a fire hose. The state elected not to try Don W. Dunkle, charged with running a stop sign, and Julian Taylor, charged with assault.

Arthur Days waived a preliminary hearing and his bond was set at $500. He was charged with perjury. Sheriff Hugh Salter had Days picked up when he found evidence that the man might have lied in a superior court trial concerning a bad check case.

Number of Continued Cases Drops to 29 Last Thursday

The number of cases continued in county recorder's court dropped to 29 last week. This is almost 100 less than were continued a month or so back.

Of the cases tried, two ended with defendants getting jail terms. Sonny Bridgers, who broke away from the custody of a prison camp official, had a year added to the two-year term he was already scheduled to serve for theft.

John Noe, convicted of his second public drunkenness offense within six months, was sentenced to six months on the roads. Judge Lambert Morris suggested that Noe get medical attention at the prison camp.

Raymond T. Graham was fined $110 and costs for speeding 110 mph. Ralph D. Andrews Jr. was fined $100 plus costs for careless and reckless driving.

Lillian Chadwick and Viola Debrux were each fined $25 plus costs for possession of non-taxpaid whiskey.

Five defendants paid fines of $10 plus court costs. They follow: B. F. Willis, larceny; Julius A. Nelson Jr., improper use of dealers plates; William F. McMahon, speeding and driving on the wrong side of the road; Austin C. Beach, speeding; and Edgar Willis, drunk and disorderly.

Those who paid costs follow: David T. Daigle, Paul W. Dillion, James E. Tucker, Marjorie Feurer and Marion A. Taylor, speeding; Jesse B. Heath and Ronald A. Rollson, running a stop sign; Myrtle L. Stark, careless and reckless driving and driving without a license; and Bill Oglesby, public drunkenness.

Those who paid one-half costs follow: Alvin Willis and Edwin Guthrie, violation of fishing laws; S. K. Hedgecock, and Hector G. Gai Jr., speeding; and George T.

Should you get your copy as early as Wednesday afternoon, announcements about Christmas Eve events will mean that you can still attend, if you wish, even though the story may read as though the event already happened.

This may be slightly confusing, but it's the only way we could do it and still keep in step with our regular publication schedule.

Commissioner Reports Dates on Oystering

Fight Results In Jail Terms For Marines

New dates for oystering on state-owned beds were announced this week by C. G. Holland, commercial fisheries commissioner.

The Point of Marsh area in Carteret County, opened Monday, Dec. 15, was closed Wednesday, Dec. 24. It had been planned originally to leave it open until Jan. 3.

Commissioner Holland said that oystering operations were greater than anticipated. Tremendous catches were made and as a result practically all of the marketable oysters have been caught.

Back Bay will close Jan. 1. TONGING operations only are permitted there. Rose Bay, Mouse Harbor and Jones Bay are still open.

Commissioner Holland terms the current oyster season "the best in years". He attributes the good catches to the state's diligent oyster planting program. "We've gotten a lot of compliments on it from the oystermen," he said.

On the first day Point of Marsh area was opened 18 boats averaged 21 tubs per boat. Price per tub was $2.75. On the same day in Deep Bay, Hyde County, boats took 25 tubs per boat and the oysterman got $3 to $3.25 per tub.

Both Point of Marsh and Deep Bay were planted two years ago. They are open to dredges.

The fisheries commissioner said the planting program will continue next year, starting about March 1. Both shells and spat will be planted. Young spat mature to marketable size in two to three years.

Point of Marsh has proved to be a good-producing area in spite of the fact that many oysters there were killed by the nor'easter in October. Some oyster beds were hit worse than others, the commissioner said.

Scallop catches are very good in Bogue Sound where dredging for the delicacy is permitted this year. Scallop fishermen are getting $2.50 to $3 per gallon (shucked).

Scallops may be taken by rake or scoop in Core Sound, but catches there are light, Commissioner Holland reports.

The shrimp season during the past year wasn't anything to shout about. Catches picked up in October and November.

Concluding his comments, Commissioner Holland said, "Our department wishes all commercial fishermen a prosperous New Year and a very Merry Christmas."
