Welfare Agency Seeks More State Administrative Aid

(Editor's Note: The following is based on an interview with Miss Georgie Hughes, county welfare superintendent.)

Like everything else, welfare costs are increasing.

Not only are living costs increasing on the "receiving end"—where those in need of financial assistance are, but costs are rising at the other end, where there are the people who handle the welfare program.

These are known as "administrative costs". This includes salaries of the welfare staff, their supplies and equipment, office maintenance, office rent, mileage and other incidental costs connected with running a welfare department.

Dr. Ellen Winston, state welfare commissioner, has called these rising administrative costs to the attention of the legislature. The state now pays 7.4 per cent of the administrative costs of a welfare department. This is the lowest percentage the state pays for the administration of any state program.

For example, in Carteret County, annual administrative costs total $38,717. Of that, the state pays only 7.4 per cent and the federal government approximately 28 per cent.

Dr. Winston has requested that the state increase its share to 15 per cent, to compare more favorably with costs borne by the state in health and education.

With such an increase on the state's part, would the cost to the individual county decrease? Miss Georgie Hughes, head of the county welfare department says that perhaps it would, then again perhaps it wouldn't. Nothing has been proposed as to whether the increase would account for costs now borne by the counties or whether it would be used to raise salaries and/or hire more welfare workers.

"All welfare departments have a difficult time finding people they can employ and retain as employees. New college graduates are not going into social work. As difficult as it is to get teachers, a college graduate prefers teaching, usually, to social work," Miss Hughes says.

Generally, social workers work 12 months of the year and teachers nine. It is not absolutely necessary that a teacher have a car, but a social worker must have a car for her work, and a new teacher can earn in nine months approximately the same as a new social worker.

Miss Hughes explains, too, that raises are slow in welfare work, adding that raises are automatic for teachers.

Even though the bearing of 15 per cent of administrative costs by the state would be fairer, Carteret's welfare superintendent points out that more than 15 per cent of a welfare worker's time is spent on getting up reports for other state agencies and doing work that has nothing to do with local problems.

That's one of the reasons why Dr. Winston is seeking at least 15 per cent sharing by the state on administrative costs.

Register of Deeds Records 53 Land Deals This Month

(Editor's Note: In recording real estate transfers, the law does not require that the amount paid for the property be stated in the deed. A token amount, such as $10 or $100, may be stipulated.)

Attached to each deed, however, must be United States documentary stamps, the value of the stamps based on the price paid for the property.

Property which changes hands for less than $101 requires no stamp, according to Odell Merrill, register of deeds. Property which brings a price between $101 and $500 must bear a stamp valued at 35 cents. From $501 to $1,000, the stamps affixed to the deed total $1.10, and thereafter for each additional $500 paid for the property the stamp value goes up 55 cents.

From the value of the stamps placed on a deed an estimation of the price paid for the property can be determined. In the transfers listed below, the seller is listed first, the buyer second, and finally, the value of the stamp affixed to the deed.

Lions Hear Talk By Cliff Edwards

Cliff Edwards, Morehead City, spoke on water conditioning last Thursday night at the meeting of the Lions Club in the Hotel Fort Macon.

Included in his talk were demonstrations on how effective such conditioning could be. To illustrate this point, Mr. Edwards showed members of the club how one drop of soap would make suds in water that had been conditioned while untreated water required eight drops of soap.

Mr. Edwards, who is in the water conditioning business, told the group that he analyzes the water in a home before installing his equipment because there are different kinds of water that require special treatment.

During the business session, Lions discussed their rest room project at the municipal park.
