

Atlantic Pirates Suffer 5th Straight Loss at Camp Lejeune

After five games the Atlantic Pirates are still without a basketball win, their latest defeat coming at the hands of Camp Lejeune high school Tuesday night 57-46.

The game was played in the spacious fieldhouse at the Marine Corps installation.

Atlantic, playing without the services of their scoring ace Roger Harris, trailed the Devil Pups throughout the contest with the three-point deficit at the end of the initial period being the closest they got to the lead of the independent school.

The Devil Pups ran an 11-8 lead at the end of the first quarter to a margin of 11 at halftime as they left the floor ahead at 28-17. After being outscored 17-13 in the third quarter, the Pirates outscored the Devil Pups 16-12 in the final period but the rally was not enough to overtake the Camp Lejeune quintet.

Sharpshooter Bobby Nelson grabbed high point honors for the game by dumping in a total of 22 points. Next high for the Pirates was Ray Tallent with 12 points and Carroll Floyd with five. Chapman, with 13 and Landrigan with 12 were the big guns in the Devil Pup attack.

At the free throw line the Pirates were ice-cold as they made good on only 15 of 47 attempts for a shooting average of only 31 per cent. Camp Lejeune meanwhile was scoring at an average of 54.5 per cent on 12 of 22 charity shot attempts.

The Pirate girls' team found themselves coming out on the short end of the score also in their game as the Devil Pup girls staved off a last second rally to preserve a one-point lead and win the game 48-47. With only four seconds remaining in the contest, Atlantic got possession of the ball but a bad pass lost it again before the visitors could get a shot off.

Atlantic displayed a well-balanced scoring attack with Bonnie Brickhouse and Linda Taylor each getting 16 points while Brenda Salter scored nine and Annis Willis had six. Brenda Salter doubled as a guard in the contest and along with Jean Bell and Jency Mason turned in an outstanding performance in the back court.

Willis Couple Will Stand Trial In April on Carnal Knowledge Count

Judge L. R. Morris found no probable cause in three counts of kidnaping Tuesday against Louis Ed and Mary Willis in county recorder's court. The couple will stand trial in superior court in April on charges of forcing Negro teen-age youths to submit to intimate relations with Mrs. Willis.

Willis and his wife, who live at Tusk, were arrested last Friday after the youths told police how the pair would lure them into a car and then go to the Crab Point area and force the boys to submit to the acts.

The warrants against the two originally read abduction, but this was amended in court Tuesday by the state to read kidnaping.

A 14-year-old youth of Morehead City was the first witness called by the state. He told the court that on the night of Oct. 28 he was standing on the sidewalk in the block where he lives, talking to two other Negro youths when the Willises drove up and summoned him to the car.

He related that he and the other boys went over to the car and Willis asked them if any of them could show him and his wife the way to the Crab Point road. He added that Willis offered him a dollar if he would show them the way.

The boy testified that while he was talking to the couple, Willis ordered him to get in the car. The boy added that the man had something in his hand when he ordered him into the car and that he (the youth) assumed it to be a knife. He later admitted, under cross-examination, that the object in Willis' hand could have been anything, but that he assumed it to be a weapon.

The 14-year-old told the court that he got in the car with the pair and sat in the front seat between the man and woman. He said that he showed Willis, who was driving, the way to the Crab Point Road but added that when they reached the road, Willis did not stop but continued past the golf course and then pulled off on a side road. He wasn't sure just where the side road was located.

The youth reiterated how Mr. Willis stopped the car, turned off the lights and told him to get in the back seat. The boy said that he got in the back seat as he was told and sat by the window on the side opposite the driver's side. The witness said that Willis reached over the front seat and tried to unfasten the belt on my pants and told me to take my clothes off."

Then, according to the youth, Willis offered the boy a drink of whiskey. The boy said that he refused the drink, but that both Mr. Willis and his wife had one. Mrs. Willis then got into the back seat of the car and "started messing with me," the youth related. He then told the court how the woman pulled up her dress and lay on the seat while both she and her husband encouraged the boy to have relations with her. When asked if he did so, the youth replied that he did.

The boy told the court that afterwards, Willis drove around in the car for awhile and then returned him to his home. He said that both the man and the woman cautioned him not to tell anyone what had happened, asked him his address and told him that they would be back again sometime.

The witness said that he saw the couple two more times after the initial incident. He saw them once, parked in their car in front of the Morehead City drug store, and again on the night of Dec. 1 when the couple once again propositioned him.

He testified that after the second proposition, which he refused, he told his parents of the ordeal because Mr. Willis had offered him $15 to go with them.

Under cross-examination by C.

R. Wheatly, attorney for the defense, it was revealed that the boy got into the Willis automobile on his own and made no effort to resist the couple's proposition that he accompany them in the car. He also testified that he accepted the dollar offered to him by the Willises and spent it. The defense contended that no fraudulent representation or inveigling was used to lure the youth into the car.

The second witness called by the state was James Williams, 16, of Morehead City, who was expected to corroborate the 14-year-old's testimony. Mr. Wheatly challenged Williams as a witness, saying that testimony he might have regarding the incident could have bearing on the charges against the Willises as stated in the warrant. Judge Morris agreed and Williams was excused as a witness.

The state then called a 13-year-old colored boy to the stand who was the prosecuting witness in the warrant charging the couple with felonious kidnaping at knife-point with the intent to do bodily harm.

The boy told the court substantially the same story as told by the 14-year-old with the exception that while he was standing by the car talking to Mr. and Mrs. Willis he said that Willis opened the car door, grabbed him by the arm, thrust a knife in his side and ordered him to get into the car.

The boy said that the couple took him to Cherry Point where they forced him to have relations with the woman.

The 13-year-old said that he cried out for help when Willis grabbed him, but Willis put his hand over his mouth and hit him in the face. The next two witnesses called were a 12-year-old boy and an 11-year-old boy. The two told how Mr. and Mrs. Willis had offered them a dollar to show them how to get to the Crab Point road. They said that they got in the car and directed the two to Crab Point road but added that Willis kept on driving after they reached the road.

They testified that when Willis stopped the car, they had a chance to get out of the vehicle so they did, and then ran to a nearby house for help. The house where they sought sanctuary was identified as the home of George Ross.

At this point Judge Morris handed down his decision of no probable cause on the kidnaping counts. The defendants asked for a trial by jury on charges of carnal knowledge of the youths and the case was bound over to the April 4 term of superior court.

Willis was placed under $1,500 bond for his appearance in the high court and bond for his wife was set at $500.
