Married in Newport Church

Mrs. Harley Franklin Garner

In a double ring ceremony Saturday afternoon at five o'clock at St. James Methodist Church, Newport, Miss Nancy Anne Atkinson of Beaufort became the bride of Harley Franklin Garner of Newport.

The Rev. Ralph Fleming, pastor, officiated. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. George Mizesko of Morehead City, organist, and Mrs. William H. Willis of Beaufort, soloist. Vocal selections were Always and The Lord's Prayer.

The vows were spoken before a background of white gladioli and palm leaves. Branched candelabra held lighted cathedral tapers.

The bride was given in marriage by her step-father, L. R. Thigpen of Beaufort. She wore a gown of hand-clipped chintilly lace and illusion over antique taffeta.

The fitted bodice was designed with a bateau neckline outlined in flower appliques and long fitted sleeves pointed over the hands. The voluminous floor length skirt had a draped effect in back and was caught up with an antique taffeta bow.

Her fingertip veil of imported illusion fell from a cap of lace, enlustered with seed pearls and sequins. She carried a white purple-throated orchid on a white prayer book, showered with satin ribbons.

Miss Libba Gould of Newport was maid of honor. She wore a tea length gown of deep bronze slipper satin. The bodice featured a rounded neckline in front with deep scoop-in back and bracelet length sleeves.

The skirt was accented with a crushed sash, which tied in the back to give a bustle effect. She wore a satin bandeau, to which was attached a tailored bow embroidered with pearls, with face veil.

She wore matching mitts of satin trimmed in tulle, and satin shoes and carried a nosegay of yellow carnations tied with yellow streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Theresa Bellamah and Miss Julia Smith, both of Beaufort. They wore gowns of greenstone green designed like that of the maid of honor. They also wore bandeaux with bows and face veils, matching mitts and shoes and carried nosegays of yellow carnations.

C. T. Garner, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Tommy Garner and Ray Garner, brothers of the bridegroom, and Robert Garner, all of Newport.

PTA Hears Talk By Health Nurse

Health was the subject of the talk by Mrs. G. T. Spivey, public health nurse at the meeting of the Queen Street PTA Monday night in Beaufort.

Mrs. Spivey stressed the importance of parents' giving children a good start in life, especially first graders. Parents should know and understand, she said, the needs of the children, and safeguard the home against communicable diseases through preventive measures.

Mrs. Spivey urged parents to set the right example for children. "Through the PTA," she said, "we can help the community to become health conscious. We are obligated to help our neighbors because a communicable disease in the home of an uninformed neighbor may cause death of a loved one."

Good News About

By David Warrick, 4-H Advisor

Gordon Beeton Jr., State College freshman, is in the spotlight of honor again for his outstanding 4-H work and achievements. Gordon is among the nine boys and nine girls in North Carolina who have been selected to be interviewed for a trip to the National 4-H Club Conference in Washington, D. C., April 23-29.

From the group to be interviewed two boys and two girl delegates will be selected to represent the North Carolina 4-H Clubs in the conference. The final selection of delegates will be based on the 4-Hers' personal qualities such as appearance, poise, ability to meet people, knowledge of 4-H and personality.

The interview will be Feb. 5 on the State College campus.

The 4-H County Council met Saturday morning in Beaufort with the 4-H clubs in practically all the schools being represented. The nominating committee for new officers met prior to the regular meeting and made a list of candidates for the different offices.

The list of candidates was submitted to the entire council and the following people were elected to office: president, Linda McDonald; vice-president, Gordon Slaughter; secretary, Doris Phillips; reporter, Barbara Hill; treasurer, David Merrill; talent leaders, Ann Beeton and Ruth Bailey; song leaders, Judy Carlton and Gail Goodwin.

Mrs. Bill McDonald gave a talk, from a 4-H adult leader's viewpoint, on what 4-H has to offer and what it can do for boys and girls, their parents, and the community as a whole.

As a parent of a 4-H'er, Mrs. McDonald says that the teaching and learning situation has a two-way affect. You learn from your 4-H'er as well as teach. Concluding the meeting, the president, Linda McDonald, took the names of members who volunteered for the different committees in the 4-H County Council.
