R. C. Kirchofer Gets 2-4 Years

Robert C. Kirchofer, president of the bankrupt Kirchofer & Arnold investment firm, is under sentence to serve no less than two years nor more than four in State prison.

He pleaded no contest to charges of embezzlement, false pretense, false sale of securities and larceny of an interest in a negotiable bond before Judge Hamilton Hobgood in Wake Superior court, Raleigh, Friday.

In passing sentence Judge Hobgood said there was no intent on the part of Kirchofer to take any money for personal use and told the 62-year-old defendant, "I have great personal sympathy for you and your family."

Kirchofer and Arnold owned the Morehead City Shipbuilding company, which closed in 1958.

ville was taken to the Newport News shipyard and attached to the bow section of a sister ship that had been torpedoed and the stern section sunk. The "new" ship was called Easo Nashville. I do not know that such feats of skill were performed in any shipyard anywhere except in the United States. The need for ships was very great.

As a native of Carteret County (Cedar Island) I have watched with interest the development of the Port of Morehead.

Will you please, for me, tell Captain Charlie Piner that Capt. Joe Goodwin raises his right hand in honored salute to an old veteran with the sincere wish that he may bring many, many more ships safely across the Bar.

I have been a licensed pilot for Morehead harbor since long before it became a port. Time is running out. Perhaps I will never cross the Bar again. It makes me very sad.

Yours very truly,
Joseph A. Goodwin

Bonnie Blue Sweetheart, drama based on the life of the Confederate spy, Emeline Pigott, was staged Friday and Saturday nights before audiences about half the size of those which witnessed the premier performances last year.

The story was ably portrayed by a dedicated cast headed by Lillian Frances Giddens and Joyce Lewis, who played the roles of the elder and younger Emeline.

Rapid changing of the many stage settings was made possible by the efficient work of Leonard Lewis, Roy Denkins, Thomas Bennett, Don Mason, and several others.

At the conclusion of Friday night's performance, the director, Miss Ruth Peeling, was presented a dozen red roses by the Carteret Community Theatre.

At the close of Saturday night's performance, George W. Dill, who portrayed Governor Morehead, presented a Bonnie Blue Sweetheart doll to Miss Giddens and Mrs. Lewis, on behalf of the theatre.

Assisting Miss Peeling in directing was Miss Hortense Boomer.

Outstanding scenes were the square dance scene, the scene in which Ralph Wade, Bobby Bell, Edgar Swann and Borden Wade sang numbers of Civil War days, the auction scenes and several in which Mrs. Lewis reached enviable dramatic heights.

Following Saturday night's performance, the director presented key chains and pens to adult members of the cast and games to the children as tokens of appreciation for their cooperation.

Members of the cast, in addition to those mentioned, were Leonard Lewis, Abnon Ballou, H. L. Joslyn, H. S. Gibbs Jr., Frank Cassiano, Jack Morgan, Walter Lewis, Glenn Adair.

Theatre Head Quotes Policy

Mrs. Tressa Vickers, president of the Carteret Community theatre, yesterday commented on theatre policy relative to lending of theatre property.

Due to financial drain on the theatre's treasury, the policy was adopted last year prohibiting the lending of theatre costumes or makeup.

Costumes owned personally and individually by theatre members may be lent at the discretion of the owner.

Mrs. Vickers emphasized, however, that theatre personnel are more than willing to share their knowledge, their time, their experience in staging, and any other information such as where to order makeup, theatre equipment, costumes, etc.

Persons wanting help or information along that line are invited to call Mrs. Vickers, PA6-4021; Mrs. Jean Holt, PA6-4658, or Miss Ruth Peeling, PA6-5047.
