From the Terrace Opens Today at Morehead City

By O. J. MORROW Theatre Manager

From the Terrace, produced and directed by Mark Robson, from John O'Hara's best selling novel and starring Paul Newman, and Joanne Woodward, with Ina Balin and Myrna Loy, opens today at the Morehead theatre.

As a study in depth of the conflict and interplay of human emotions, O'Hara's monumental literary work becomes one of the most important pictures to reach the screen in 1960.

The film is a noteworthy and commendable performance on all counts. Paul Newman and Joanne Woodward, the star-studded husband-wife team turn in a magnificent job as the ill-fated married couple in the film. Ina Balin, a relative newcomer to the screen, is featured as the third leg of the romantic triangle. Myrna Loy is excellent as Newman's dipsomaniac mother.

Robson's screen version of From the Terrace tells a significant segment of the O'Hara novel. It takes the central character Alfred Eaton (Paul Newman) from the time of his return home from the war, through the storm of his marriage to Mary St. John (Joanne Woodward), to his promising career as a young Wall Street financier, and to his eventual dramatic renunciation of all his worldly assets in a "for love or money" decision to leave his wife and go away to enduring love with Natalie Benzinger (Ina Balin).
