Death Penalty

ing down the cheeks of hardened, veteran officers who too often see the ravaged bodies of victims of child molesters.

There can be no doubt of the sincerity of many of those who deplore capital punishment. A realistic approach to the problem, however, demands that they weigh the right of innocent persons to live their lives free from fear of bestial killers against statistical arguments which boast of how few murderers kill again after "rehabilitation" and release.

No one, unless he can probe the mind of every potential killer, can say with any authority whatsoever that capital punishment is not a deterrent. As one police officer has asked, how can these "authorities" possibly know how many people are not on death row because of the deterrent effect of executions?

Maudlin viewers of the death penalty call the most wanton slayer a "child of God" who should not be executed regardless of how heinous his crime may be because "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him." (Genesis 1:27) Was not this small, blonde 6-year-old girl a child of God?

She was choked, beaten, and raped by a sex fiend whose pregnant wife reportedly helped him lure the innocent child into his car and who sat and watched the assault on the screaming youngster. And when he completed his inhuman deed, the wife, herself bringing a life into the world, allegedly killed the child with several savage blows with a tire iron.

The husband has been sentenced to death. Words and words and words may be written, but no plea in favor of the death penalty can be more horribly eloquent than the sight of the battered, sexually assaulted body of this child, truly a "child of God."

The proponents of "rehabilitation" for all murderers quote those portions of the Bible which they believe support their lavender-and-old-lace world where evil is neither recognized nor allowed. But the Bible clearly reveals that enforcement of moral justice is nothing new to our age.

In fact, in referring to man as the "image of God," the Old Testament, so freely quoted by opponents of the death penalty, also states, "Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed; for in the image of God made he man." (Genesis 9:6) There are many passages in the Old Testament which refer to capital punishment being necessary to enforce the laws of society.

Since the Old Testament was written about and to a nation while the New Testament was written to individuals and to a nonpolitical body known as the Church, there is a difference in emphasis and approach. Certainly, however, the moral laws of the Old Testament remain with us today.

Misguided do-gooders frequently quote the Sixth Commandment, "Thou shalt not kill," to prove that capital punishment is wrong. This Commandment in the 20th chapter, verse 13, of Exodus has also been interpreted to mean: "Thou shalt do no murder."

Then the 21st chapter, verse 12, says, "He that smiteth a man, so that he die, shall be surely put to death." We can no more change the application to our society of this basic moral law in the Old Testament than we can change the meaning of Leviticus 19:18: "thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself," which Jesus quoted in the New Testament.

"To love thy neighbor" is to protect him; capital punishment acts as at least one wall to afford "God's children" protection.

Very truly yours,
John Edgar Hoover

Mother Again Expresses Thanks

By ELLEN MASON

A total of $213.25 has been given Mrs. and Mrs. William Godette of Adams Creek, who were placed under financial strain when their son, Therman, was stricken with lockjaw May 11 and another son, Daniel, was killed by a car May 14. The money was donated by NEWS-TIMES readers and others after a fund was established to help the family. Therman is still a patient at Morehead City hospital.

Mrs. Godette was given a check for $18 yesterday. She again expressed her gratefulness to "everyone who has been so kind. I sure do thank you all for your help," she said.

Some of the money was used to pay for the hospitalization of her 15-year-old son, Dennis, who was treated for an infected finger at Morehead City hospital last week. Mrs. Godette said she was keeping the rest to settle Therman's hospital bill when he is discharged.

The family will receive some help from the Craven county welfare department, but that will not cover the entire bill. Therman continues to improve slowly and is now able to lift his hand in recognition of persons who stop at the door and speak to him. He is not allowed to have visitors, but some member of his family is with him at all times.

Mr. Godette left yesterday for Washington, where he is employed as a carpenter, to help finish a house, according to his wife. He was called home when his son was killed. None of the children is working at present, since those old enough to work are in school.

There will be two graduates in the Godette family this week. Levi, 18, who is the oldest child, graduated with the senior class at Queen Street high school in Beaufort last night. Fourteen-year-old Hazel will graduate from the eighth grade at Godette school, Harlowe, and will enter high school in the fall.

Mayflower was designed to test the combat readiness of surgical and evacuation hospitals, medical clearing companies, wheeled and aerial ambulance units and Seventh Army medical support units.

In order to add realism to the training, make-up men prepared "patients" to simulate burns, traumatic amputations and other battle-field injuries. During the exercise, 1,000 "patients" were evacuated more than 150 miles from the point where they received their "injuries."

Garner is assigned as a medical specialist in the 546th Medical Company, which is regularly located in Karlsruhe. He entered the Army last September, completed basic training at Fort Jackson, S. C., and arrived overseas last March.

The 18-year-old soldier is a 1960 graduate of Newport high school.

Swansboro Hopes To Organize Town Choral Group

Organization of a community choral group for the Swansboro area is under way. Some planning and small scale activity have been carried on in the past, but it is hoped that with the summer season approaching, a lot more people will show their interest in singing.

A meeting of those interested in forming a community choral group is scheduled for Monday, June 5, at 7:30 p.m. If this organizational meeting is successful, the choral group will meet every Monday night thereafter in the Swansboro elementary school.

The group will be under the direction of Leslie Edmonds and Dee Solomon. Edmonds is the band director for the Swansboro school, and Solomon is minister of music of the First Baptist church of Swansboro.
