Capt. Ray Coats Boats Island's First Marlin

By NORWOOD YOUNG

The proudest man on Harkers Island these days is 21-year-old Capt. Ray Coats. Sunday, H. D. Jordan Jr., of Richmond, Va., boated a 375-pound blue marlin while fishing aboard Capt. Ray's Blue Marlin. It was the first billfish for captain Coats, and the first marlin ever boated by an island charter.

Incidentally, the island boys had good catches of kings, dolphin and amberjack over the weekend, including Capt. Jimmy Harker's Shell Point, Capt. Benny Brooks' Mal-Ben, and Capt. Davis' Three Sisters.

Small boats did alright on blues and spanish mackerel at Cape Lookout. At Marshallberg, Capt. Neal Jones' Down Easter and Capt. Myron Harris' Offshore hit the kings and dolphin also.

On the waterfront at Morehead City, sea-going weather has made a big improvement in offshore catches. Capt. Jack Lewis' Bunny Too reported in Sunday with 32 kings, 10 dolphin, 3 albacore and an amberjack. Capt. George Chapman's Sea Fox boated 22 kings, 7 dolphin, 3 amberjack and 2 albacore.

Monday, Capt. Sam Ballou's Sam-N-Dan had 39 kings, 11 amberjack and 10 dolphin; while Capt. Bobby Ballou's Dolphin IV docked with 36 kings, 10 dolphin and 10 amberjack. The headboat Carolina Queen had "the biggest snapper catch of the season" and the Danco reported a record catch of grouper, red snapper, large sea bass, porgies and sailer's choice.

Small boat fishing in the sound here is improving. Flounder are moving in. H. H. Fish, of Raleigh, and T. C. Eure boated eight Monday. L. T. Smith's causeway camp reports I. A. Wadsworth and party, of Kinston RFD, caught a few nice sheepshead and good-sized hogfish.

Atlantic reported rough surf and muddy water at Drum Inlet through the weekend, with slow fishing. In Core Sound, however, six miles north of the inlet, E. C. McLawhorn, William Derzize, Marvin Raltrins and E. C. Cullum, all of Havelock, listed in their catch two cobia weighing about 35 pounds each.

Brakes on a car being driven west on Bridges street by Howard Cain of Havelock failed as he was approaching another west-bound car being driven by Leo Dale McIntosh, 2202 Bay St., Morehead City.

Cain's car, a 1954 Plymouth, clipped the rear of McIntosh's 1959 Ford as the cars slowed at the intersection of 16th and Bridges. To avoid hitting other cars, Cain pulled his car up on the curb in front of the Morehead City Garment Co. where it came to a stop.

Morehead Tug Frees Ringgold

Scheduled to leave Morehead City port when the weather permits is a 180-foot decommissioned Army transport, the Ringgold, which ran aground about a mile and a half north of the Core creek bridge on the inland waterway Thursday.

The Ringgold was being towed by the tug, Anna, when it went aground. Efforts to free it by use of Coast Guard vessels failed. The craft would swing back and forth, sometimes blocking the waterway.

She was finally freed at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday by the Carteret Towing Co. tug, A. T. Piner, out of Morehead City.

The Ringgold is on its way from Camden, N. J., to Miami, Fla., to meet its owner, Rod Pickard. There it will be converted and according to chief engineer Michael Koddur of the tug Anna, the ship will go from Miami to Ecuador where it will be used as a cargo ship.

Harry C. Harvey, captain of the tug, said Tuesday afternoon they would tow the ship to Miami via the ocean because "it draws 11 1/2 feet of water and the inland waterway is only 12 feet deep in some places."
