

Mullet Bucket Kickoff Set for 8

New Fisheries Regulations Appear in Today's Paper

Appearing in the second section of today's paper are the revised fisheries regulations recently adopted by the Board of Conservation and Development.

The regulations will become effective Friday, Nov. 24. They will appear soon in booklet form, according to C. G. Holland, commercial fisheries commissioner.

The regulations have been re-codified and put in language the average person can understand, according to the attorney general's office, which handled the codification.

The new regulations were explained to fisheries law enforcement officers at the school conducted for the officers in September.

Regulations which do not appear in today's paper, but were in the former fisheries regulation book have not been changed. They remain as they are.

Bond Rally Set For 7:30 Monday

An out-of-county speaker will explain all 10 state bond issues at a rally at Newport school Monday night at 7:30.

Garland Scruggs, Morehead City, said yesterday that the speaker had not yet been obtained, but would probably be one of the men who made the European industry-hunting tour with Gov. Luther Hodges.

The bond issues will be put before the people Tuesday. Polls will be open from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Mr. Scruggs invites all voters to the rally.

Defendant Told Monday to See Psychiatrist

Psychiatric examination was recommended Monday for a defendant who appeared in Morehead City recorder's court charged with assault on a female. The defendant was Thomas W. Barrington, Morehead City.

Barrington was charged with beating a woman with a leather belt, choking her with a bath robe and threatening her with a gun. He was given a 30-day jail sentence, suspended on payment of $10 and costs and the recommendation that he be sent by the Coast Guard to a US Public Health hospital to undergo psychiatric evaluation.

Assault cases against five other defendants were also heard Monday. Jesse Amos Holland and Cramer Hewitt, Morehead City, appeared before Judge Herbert O. Phillips charged with assault on a female and disorderly conduct. In both cases the prosecuting witnesses were ordered to pay court costs for malicious prosecution.

The same was ruled in the case against Elijah Lewis, Morehead City, charged with assaulting Robert Claypool.

Earl Nance, Morehead City, paid $25 and costs for assault on Johnnie Stewart and Stewart, also of Morehead City, was acquitted of charges of assault on Nance. In another case Nance was made to pay court costs for not having a horn on his car.

A Newport man, Russell Ward, was found guilty of fighting and disturbing the peace in Dudley's place, Morehead City, and was given a 30-day jail sentence, suspended on payment of $10 and costs. Ward was also restricted from Dudley's for one year.

The court ordered two defendants, convicted of issuing worthless checks, to pay court costs and to honor the checks. They were W. C. Rice of Weaverville and Kenneth W. Bridgers of Kenly, N. C.

Joseph Honeycutt, Albemarle, paid $10 and costs for speeding and Bonnie Jones, Jacksonville, paid the same for making an improper left turn. The court decided not to prosecute Ervin Ris-

Wages Rise in County in '60

Carteret is one of 82 counties in the state in which wage payments increased in 1960, according to the recent annual report issued by the Employment Security commission.

Average weekly earnings also increased slightly, from $52.65 to $52.92. The ESC points out that the average weekly wage payment does not represent the weekly wage scale, but is a fair indicator of wage trends.

Total wage payments in the county (firms and companies covered by the employment security law) were $7,193,898, up from the 1959 total of $6,935,363. (These figures do not include wages paid to federal employees, of whom there are many in the county, nor do they include wages to farm workers, servants in homes, religious and charitable employees, interstate railroad employees, family workers and the self-employed.)

The data is estimated to represent about 75 per cent of total non-agricultural employment.

Last year there were 199 firms in Carteret covered by employment insurance, three more than in 1959. Average number of insured workers rose from 2,533 to 2,614, an increase of 3.2 per cent.

(Establishments with fewer than four workers do not come under the employment security law unless they elect to do so, nor do businesses which operate less than 20 weeks a year.)

Of total wages paid in the county in 1960, $5,948,767 was taxable by employment security. (After $3,000 annual salary is reached, employment security "tax" is no longer required. Paid to the employment security commission was $116,940, or 1.97 per cent of the taxable payroll. The statewide contribution rate is 1.60 per cent of the taxable payroll.)

Employees covered by the employment security law in 1960 in this state totaled 906,953.

The ESC report states, "Following the seasonal downturn in the first quarter, insured employment reached the 900,000 mark in April and remained above that level for the remaining months, peaking at 932,254 in September."

The insured workers earned wages totaling $3,245,189,233, an increase of 5.6 per cent over 1959 earnings. The average weekly earning of $68.81 was $1.68 or 2.5 per cent more than the 1959 average.

The weekly average earnings of insured workers has increased by $22.04 or nearly 47 per cent between 1950 and 1960. During this 10-year period, the overall payroll increased 102 per cent, while insured employment rose 37 per cent.

Employment security is the program whereby the employer pays "insurance premiums" which entitle an employee, under certain conditions, to benefits should he be thrown out of work. The "employment insurance" program is a federal program, administered through state and local offices.

Drivers Cited After Car Hits Trailer Tuesday

Two motorists were cited by state highway patrolman W. E. Pickard following an accident Tuesday at 11:55 a.m. on the Morehead City bridge.

They were Bobby Dail, Swansboro, charged with failing to give a proper signal, and Richard A. Ballance, Kenly, charged with following too closely.

According to the patrolman, Ballance, in a 1957 Ford, was headed west and hit a trailer being towed by Dail, who was in a 1957 Ford truck. The trailer, for carrying a small bulldozer, had $25 damage.

Damage to the car was estimated at $350. No one was hurt.

Theater to Present Four One-Act Plays at 8 Tuesday

Four one-act plays will be presented Tuesday night at the Morehead City recreation center by the Carteret Community theatre. No admission will be charged.

Mrs. Tressa Vickers, theatre president, says everyone is welcome. Curtain time is 8 o'clock.

The first play, a suspense drama entitled The Record, features the following cast: Peggy Holt as Joyce, Bob Wood as Romeo, Marie Blanchard as Diane; Lester Willis, detective Brent; Tom Willis, detective Jackson, and officer O'Malley, Thomas Respass.

Appearing in a tragedy, Don't Spend It All, will be Carol Willis as Cathy, Joyce Lewis as Mary, and Thomas Respass as the policeman.

In the cast of the melodrama, Red as the Blushing Rose or Who Blew Up the Gas House? are Tressa Vickers as Fanny; Bob Boyd as Honest Harry; Lesta Willis, Roscoe Villandell, and Tom Willis as the fireman.

Appearing in the comedy, If You Can't Lick 'Em, Join 'Em, are Maxine Jones as Sue, Peggy Holt as Ann, Bob Boyd as Sam, Lesta Willis as Bill, Bob Wood as Mr. Williamson, and Lillian Frances Giddens as Miss Witherspoon.

The following Brownies and Cubs will also take part: Shirley Barnum, Carol Ann Bullock, Joanne Cannon, Sally Davis, Ginger Fulcher, Beth Guthrie.

Mary Jane Moran, Deborah Morton, Bobbie Purifoy, Dorothy Robinson, Phyllis Thorne, Wilma Willis, Louise Mizelle, Beverly Smith.

Branton Hall Jr., Bennie Willis, Dempster Wheeler, John Gillikin, David Fuller, Wayne Hardison, Douglas Howard, and Ralph Wade Jr.

All plays except the melodrama were written by Mrs. Vickers, who is also directing. The melodrama was written by Miss Ruth Peeling.

'Here We Are!'

If you're the average homeowner, a scene like this faced you many times Tuesday night as Trick or Treaters came to your door demanding tribute. Behind these disguises are Melanie Noe (the Witch's Cat), Douglas Faircloth (the Littlest Ghost), Don Matthews (Chief Sitting Bull) and Kathy Faircloth (Laugh Clown Laugh). These characters live in Morehead City!

McQueen Termed 'Out' For Traditional Battle

The curtain on the 1961 regular football season rings down tonight when both the Beaufort Seadogs and the Morehead City Eagles close out their schedules, clashing head-on in the traditional battle for the Mullet Bucket.

Last year it was the Eagles who put on a spectacular passing display to score a 14-7 win in the classic at Morehead City and this year the Seadogs will be out to try and bring the prized trophy back to Beaufort.

The two teams present a variety of contrasts. The Eagles, currently fourth-ranked 2-A team in the state, are undefeated in eight contests and have been scored on only once this year. David O'Neal passes to James Nolan, Ernest Lewis, Bernard Leary and Ludvik Pospisil have been the Big Red offensive trade mark.

The Seadogs, on the other hand, playing their first year in 2-A ball, have dropped five of eight contests while compiling a 2-1 conference record. Offensively the Big Green has featured the running of Ray Hassell, Gene Mason and Bill Harris. Through the air the Seadogs have been less than impressive.

A big factor in the outcome of the game could very well be the status of Eagle halfback Danny McQueen. The official word from Dr. Milt Morey and coach Norman Clark Wednesday was that the fiery McQueen will not be able to play in tonight's game.

McQueen broke a collarbone in the Eagles' game with Wallace three weeks ago. Dr. Morey said Wednesday that x-rays show that the bone has not healed yet.

"Not being able to use McQueen is definitely going to hurt us both offensively and defensively," said Clark. Tonight Clark will shift end Bernard Leary to Danny's half-back slot on offense and will probably utilize James Davis on defense to try and fill the gap.

The Eagle mentor also reported Wednesday that junior varsity defensive end Eddie Morton has been promoted to the varsity and will see action on defense.

"Eddie has played some fine ball for the junior varsity this year and we feel that he can help us," said Clark.

In the Seadog camp coaches Curt Lancaster and Tom Hewitt report spirits low as the Seadogs prep for their arch rivals.

The biggest switch in the Big Green lineup has been the moving of All-Eastern gridders Bill Harris from fullback back to his original tackle position. Bill started at tackle last week against Ayden and Lancaster praised his work in opening holes for Seadog ball carriers.

Junior Mahlon Williams will again handle the fullback position for the Lancaster men if a bruised leg heals in time.

Besides Williams on the ailing list, the Seadogs have Chuck Lewis and Rus Struyk listed as doubtful starters. Both of the gridders received injuries in practice Monday and it won't be known until

County, State Town Offices To Close Tuesday

● Voters Will Decide On Borrowing Money

● Polls to Open 6:30 Tuesday Morning

The courthouse and all state and municipal agencies will be closed Tuesday when voters will decide on borrowing money for 10 state projects.

The ballot will list the 10 issues:

- $2,858,000 for buildings in the capitol area at Raleigh
- $1,110,000 for improvements at state correctional schools
- $31,008,000 for the state educational institutions
- $1,483,000 for community college improvements
- $2,560,000 for new building to house department of archives and history and the state library
- $13,500,000 for improvement of state ports
- $7,396,000 for improvement at state mental institutions
- $500,000 for Medical Care Commission funds for hospital construction
- $961,000 for improvement of state parks and forest protection
- $289,000 for improvements at state agriculture research stations

Each issue must be voted on separately. When a voter is finished marking his ballot, he should have 10 marks on it, either for or against each issue. He may vote for some, he may vote against some.

Polls will be open in all the county's precincts from 6:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m.

Back Bay to Open To Oystermen Monday, Nov. 6

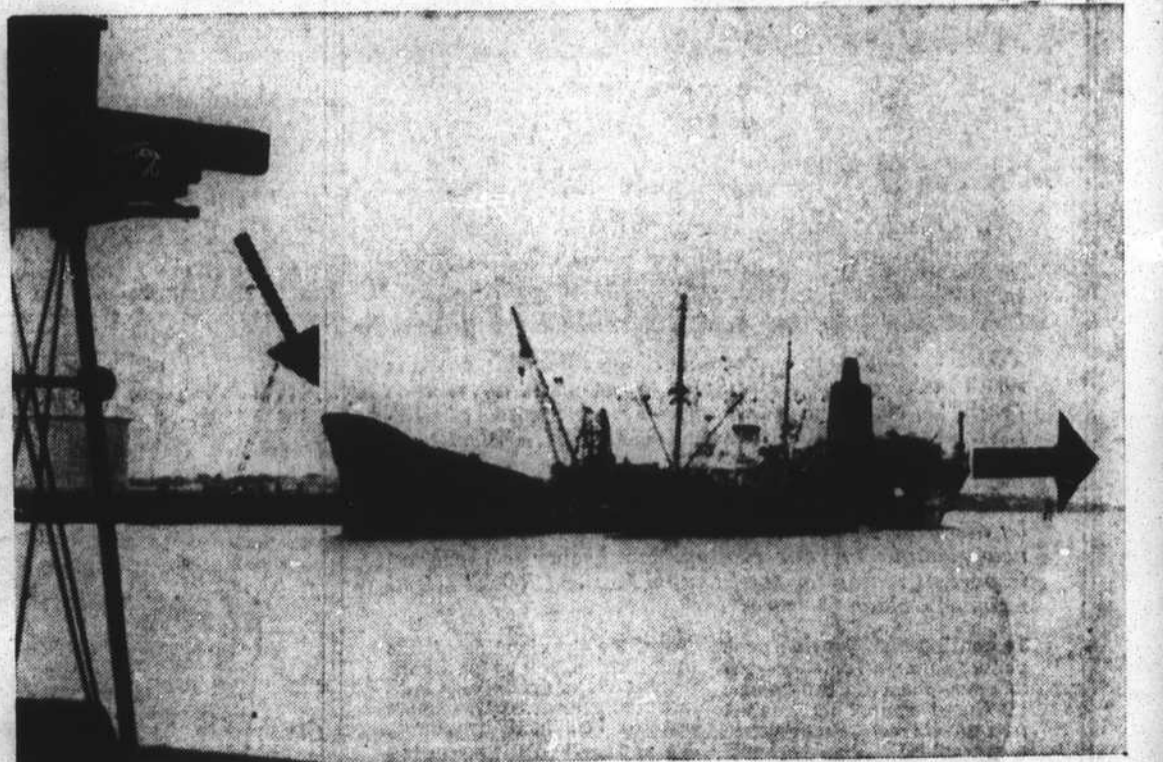

Back Bay in this county will be open for oystering Monday, Nov. 6.

The bay was closed until oysters planted by the state reached marketable size. Permission to open the area was given yesterday by Hargrove Bowles Jr., director of the Department of Conservation and Development.

The area was opened at the suggestion of C. G. Holland, commercial fisheries commissioner and Dr. A. F. Chestnut, director of the Institute of Fisheries Research, UNC.

Commissioner Holland said the oysters must be culled where caught. The cull law, he added, will be strictly enforced.

Potomac Moved from 'Coffin'

By Wednesday afternoon the bow of the Potomac, arrow at left, was headed north toward the Morehead City bridge. Arrow at right shows direction in which bow was pointed immediately after the devastating fire of Sept. 26.

By today the berth at Aviation Fuel Terminals, Radio Island, which has been blocked since Sept. 26 by the fire-damaged tanker Potomac, is expected to be clear.

More than a month of work by salvage crews put the Potomac in condition Wednesday to be moved. Water was pumped out and with breaching gear and windlasses the scorched hull of the multi-million dollar Navy tanker was nudged northward.

The Potomac will be beached on Radio Island, just north of where she burned. There it will be pumped out and a complete investigation made. After that investigation, the Navy and salvagers will make a decision as to further disposition of the ship.

G. L. Bennett, superintendent of Aviation Fuel Terminals, says that the dock, badly damaged by the fire, was taken down and a new one is now in its place.

The terminal expects its first tanker between Nov. 10 and 13. The tankers bring in jet fuel for military aircraft in eastern Carolina. The fuel is stored in tanks at the terminal and then moved overland to air bases.

The Potomac blazed up at about 6:45 p.m. Tuesday, Sept. 26. The crew abandoned ship. One man died and another, whose body has never been found, is presumed dead.

The Coast Guard conducted an inquiry last month into the cause of the blaze. Its findings are expected to be released in several months. Damage caused by the fire is estimated in excess of $10 million.

Six Appear Before Mayor

Six defendants received judgments in Atlantic Beach mayor's court recently.

Appearing before mayor A. B. Cooper Tuesday night were Adrian S. Warren and Donald Harrelson, both of Morehead City, and Fred Douglas, Hillsboro. All paid costs.

Warren was found guilty of using loud and profane language in public and resisting arrest. He was restricted from the town for three years. Harrelson was charged with fighting and disturbing the peace and Douglas with public drunkenness.

Paying costs in court last week were Lawrence G. Humphrey and James Flanagan Jr., Cherry Point, both charged with public drunkenness, Neal Adkins, Cherry Point, charged with reckless driving and speeding in a 20-mile zone, paid $10 and costs.

Club to Meet

The Gloucester community club will meet Tuesday night at 8 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Henderson. Because of the revival at Straits Methodist church next week, the meeting is being held a week early, according to Mrs. Bill Pigott, publicity chairman.
