

Planners View Proposed Rules For Zoning

County planning commission members reviewed proposed zoning laws for two areas of the county when they met Monday night at the courthouse, Beaufort.

The areas are Bogue banks and the section west and north of Morehead City.

Dexter Smith, with the state division of community planning, showed maps and went over the proposed regulations.

The proposals will be presented to the county board in January with a view to having a public hearing in February. Names of persons who would serve on zoning advisory committees, for each section, were suggested.

Serving on the committee for Bogue banks area are J. A. DuBois, R. T. Frost and A. B. Cooper. Others suggested were John Baker and Shelby Freeman.

Serving on the Morehead City area committee are Dr. D. J. Eure and Hugh Styron. Others mentioned as possibly serving on it are George Stovall, Jack H. Byrum, and George King.

Those proposed for committee membership are to be contacted by the planning commission secretary, W. C. Carlton.

Dr. L. J. Dupree, chairman, presided. Members present were Clayton Fulcher Jr., C. H. (Dick) Locke, Mrs. E. H. Piper, M. G. Coyle, Wallace Conner and Mr. Carlton.

Smyrna Will Hear of Plans

Smyrna PTA received an invitation Monday night to go to Beaufort school Monday, Jan. 14, to talk with A. R. Davis, architect, on plans for the East Carteret school. The letter of invitation was read by Walter Thompson, president of the PTA.

Members were informed that Mr. Davis, who is architect for the West Carteret school, would show slides of the proposed school building and answer questions. Fred Bartholomew, faculty member, suggested the possibility of a fall-out shelter being included in the new school. The group voted to attend the meeting.

A motion was made to get two lights installed in front of the school and the PTA pay for them. The motion was approved.

Marshallberg community was in charge of the Christmas program which included a reading by Mrs. Anne Salter, faculty member, Is There a Santa Claus?

The rooms of Miss Josie Pigott, elementary teacher, and Charles McLeod Jr., high school teacher, won the attendance awards for having the most parents present.

After the program, refreshments were served in the school cafeteria.

Kenova, W.Va., gets its name from Kentucky, Ohio and West Virginia. It is located on a point where the three states converge.

Jimmy Wheatley Honored by Who's Who, Offered UNC Assistantship

Jimmy Wheatley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Wheatley, Beaufort, has been named to the new edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges."

Mr. Wheatley will be listed in the 1962 edition of the collegiate "Who's Who." A senior at East Carolina College, Greenville, he has recently been awarded a $2,000 graduate assistantship for nine months in the botany department, University of North Carolina.

The grant, for 1963-64, will enable Mr. Wheatley to work on his master's at UNC should he decide to go there.

Mr. Wheatley, a graduate of Beaufort high school, is the national second vice-president of Chi Beta Theta, the national honorary science fraternity, president of the ECC chapter and a past treasurer of the chapter. He is also a member of Phi Sigma Pi, the ECC scholastic honor fraternity.

A vice-president of the North Carolina Collegiate Academy of Science, he was a recipient of a resource scholarship at East Carolina and was a National Science Foundation trainee in marine botany at the Marine Biological Laboratory, Woods Hole, Mass., during a recent summer.

He has also been active in the YMCA and the Interreligious Council.

Until he enrolled at ECC, Mr. Wheatley was employed at the radiobiological laboratory, US Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, Pivers Island.

which have very tight centers and freeze quicker than other types.

He said there is probably nothing a camellia fancier can do at this point. Even some of the plants he took Wednesday into his plastic house suffered damage.

The bushes or plants themselves have not been hurt, Mr. Copeland said.

When buds are very tight, they're most susceptible to cold damage. In a professional grower's camellia garden in Florida, Mr. Copeland said, the overhead irrigation system is turned on when it is believed the temperature will drop below freezing. Ice then forms on all the buds and protects them.

Mr. Copeland said the temperature never drops below 32 under the ice.

R. M. Williams, county agricultural agent, reported that collards have been frozen stiff and are probably severely damaged.

Morehead City Firemen Put Out Blaze in Car

Morehead City firemen answered a call this week to a burning automobile on S. 26th street. The car, a 1957 Oldsmobile belonging to Marvin Moore, caught fire due to a flooded carburetor, causing about $75 damage.

The fire occurred at about 8:45 a.m. Tuesday.

Leaf Growers to Meet At Newport Wednesday

Tobacco growers of the county will attend a meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Newport school auditorium.

R. M. Williams, agricultural agent, says agriculture specialists from Raleigh, R. R. Rich and Fernie Todd, will be present to give research information on tobacco.

They will discuss varieties and latest developments in insect and disease control.

Mr. Williams predicts that tobacco growers will find the meeting helpful if they attend.

Neuse Agricultural Committee Meets

Preliminary work on a recommended agriculture program for the Neuse valley area was done at New Bern Wednesday night.

Attending were representatives of all phases of agriculture in the area covered by the Neuse Development association. From this county were Bob Oglesby, Crab Point; swine; Bill Williams, Beaufort, forestry; Kerney Merrill Jr., Beaufort RFD, fruits and vegetables; Henry Davis, Harlowe, beef cattle; R. M. Williams, county farm agent, and Glenn Taylor, assistant farm agent.

Reviewed were commodity reports from the eight counties in the area. A final agricultural prospectus will be drafted at another meeting in New Bern Jan. 9.

The committee meets in the First-Citizens drive-in bank building.

for his many years of outstanding service to the state.

The cancellation of the bond for Mr. Mason, former town clerk, was discussed. Mayor Potter commented that Mr. Mason had asked that his bond be retained until the auditor had completed the audit on last year's books and books for this fiscal year to date. The board expressed agreement.

Gerald Woolard, recently-elected fire chief, reported that mayor Potter had received a letter from the commanding general at Cherry Point telling how to apply for Marine Corps assistance in an emergency.

Mr. Woolard said the Corps has asked that only one call be made to the base, in an effort to stop confusion there. The fire chief said the general was advised that calls for help will come from the town clerk's office and that the clerk or civil defense director will place the call.

The chief said he had received a call from Lt. A. K. Manthous, executive officer at Fort Macon, asking that a similar plan be set up for the Coast Guard. The board expressed its intent to assist the military in any way possible.

The board discussed the purchase of a duplicating machine now in the town hall. The mayor said he understood the machine came to the town on approval while commissioner Farrior said it was his belief the machine was to be purchased.

Departmental reports were heard. Commissioner John Jones Jr. reported that the administrative department spent $997.02 in November and has a bank balance of $13,749.23. Street commissioner Holden Ballou reported that of the $41,701 budgeted for the street department this year, $16,490.25 has been spent; $3,447.88 was spent in November.

of its budget, according to commissioner Glenn Willis Jr. Fire commissioner Farrior reported 8 alarms answered, 5 of which were in town. The department spent $944.59 in November.

Police commissioner Made stated that $1,823.44 was spent in November, but that the major portion was spent on a new police car. The department has a budget of $21,040, of which $10,268 has been spent to date.

Commissioner Willis reported that work is progressing on the Scout building and that the Jaycees now have the new roof on.

Attending the meeting, in addition to the commissioners, clerk and mayor, was attorney Claud Wheatly, police chief Guy Springle, Mr. Woolard and Wardell Fillington, street superintendent.
