BURNSVILLE-- "So They Say"

About town: Weather still cool with occasional showers—Dr. Jones underwent appendix operation and is improving—Hope Bailey now secretary to Dad. Virginia to Baltimore—and Margaret Laughrun to Charleston Tuesday—As painter's assistant Leslie is very fine postmaster! Or maybe he forgot to "beware of the ladder." Anyway, he fell, cracked a rib or two and isn't feeling quite up to his usual good humor—Latest arrival: Edwin and Lillian Powell's new daughter—Gus and Hatie Black Laughrun here for brief visit. He's in uniform, is captain, and is reporting for duty in Medical Corps.

Happy group were the 27 campers that Bruce Westall took for an overnight stay at Clear Creek. Young Reece McIntosh entertained group of friends on his first birthday. And it seems he's been walking almost a year.

Maye Robinson is new president of Woman's club. Barbara Jean Russ here for visit.

Happy to hear at last that Pearson Riddle has been located. He's interned by the Japanese in Shanghai. News came six months after Wake Island was attacked. And from our "New Orleans correspondent" comes newspaper story and picture of J. B. Bennett who was member of gun crew of a Panamanian ship that was sunk in the Gulf of Mexico last week. J. B. is safe in port.

If you haven't brought that scrap rubber to the service station, stop right now and do so. It's too easy to put things off but in the present emergency we can't be so negligent. The campaign is now nearly a week old and so far we certainly have not seen much rubber piled up. Bring it in!

And in the morning early, the group of men will leave for camp. Be on hand to wish them well.

AAA PROGRAM

Y. Floyd, state AAA executive assistant at Raleigh, shows that during the past year 94.9 per cent of all the cropland in the state was operated under the AAA conservation program. This is a gain of 4.9 per cent under the program in the 1936-1939 period.

Farmers of Yancey County placed 90.3 per cent of their cropland under the program last year, as compared with 88.0 per cent for 1940 and 75.2 per cent for the 1936-1939 period.

Among soil building practices listed, the report showed that Yancey County farmers grew 6,841 acres of legumes and grasses last year as compared with 12,024 acres in 1940 and an average of 6,816 acres each year in the previous 4-year period. In addition, there were 1,961 acres of green manure crops in the county last year as compared with 2,202 acres in 1940 and 2,559 acres in the 1936-1939 period. The total for the entire state last year was 1,266,608 acres of legumes and grasses, and 1,785,828 acres of green manure crops.

Use of soil building materials in the county as shown by the report included 5,985 tons of ground limestone and 707.0 tons of 16 percent superphosphate last year. In the previous year, 4,250 tons of limestone and 1,090.0 tons of superphosphate were spread in the county, and 1,013 tons of limestone and 246.6 tons of superphosphate were listed for the 1936-1939 average. Figures for the state show farmers used 372,919 tons of limestone and 30,598 tons of superphosphate last year.

Chairman Hannum pointed out that both limestone and phosphate are available to farmers of the county through the AAA as grant-of-aid materials without an immediate outlay of cash. Costs of the materials may be deducted from any conservation payments due the farmer at the close of the program year.

Praising the conservation work carried out in the past few years, Mr. Hannum said "the value of these practices will be demonstrated more than ever now that farmers are engaged in a race to produce the crops needed for the nation's war effort. This is our biggest job, and the fertility we have stored in the soil and the soil we have saved will show its worth."

The report also showed that 162.0 acres of land were planted in forest trees last year, and the stands of trees on 0 were improved. In the previous year, 254.0 acres were planted to forest trees and the stands of 5.0 acres were improved. The state's total of forest trees planted last year was 2,147 acres and 4,288 acres were improved, as compared with an average of 893 acres planted and 1,894 acres improved in the 1936-1939 period.
