This show is very interesting to small children, stressing in an interesting manner the necessity of daily care of the teeth and periodic dental examinations. Of course it is entirely free of charge.

New ODT Truck Regulations

Numerous truck operators are violating the new ODT delivery restrictions which went into effect on October 11, Robt. G. Carter District ODT manager, warned Wednesday.

Many of the violations were unintentional, he pointed out, in urging all truck operators and the general public as well to familiarize themselves with the new regulations.

A spot check in numerous communities disclosed violations were particularly prevalent on Sunday, Mr. Carter said.

Virtually no Sunday deliveries are permitted, Mr. Carter emphasized, except ice trucks and certain other carriers who have been exempted by general or special permits.

A recent check by ODT representatives, however, disclosed that many truck operators were found to be hauling members of their families to visit relatives,

BOYS WIN AT FAT STOCK SHOW

Ron Wilson and Philip Banks Take Prizes

At the Western North Carolina Fat Stock Show held in Asheville on November 3, two Yancey county 4-H Club boys were among the winners.

In the individual class of fat hogs, Ron Wilson of the Bald Creek 4-H club won 4th place and Philip Banks of Burnsville 4-H club won 3rd place.

This is the first time boys from our county have entered this contest and we are justly proud of them. Sears, Roebuck & Co. entertained the boys entering the contest at a banquet at the George Vanderbilt Hotel last night.

Prizes for the contest were made possible by the North Carolina Bankers Association and the Asheville Chamber of Commerce.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Rev. C. S. Smith of the Southside Baptist church, Elizabethton, Tenn. will preach at the morning service Sunday, November 7.

Rudolph Glatly is in Burnsville for a few days on business.

NURSING

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 28—Five of the seven states in the Fourth Service Command already have exceeded their 1943 quotas in enrollment of nurses for the military services, it was announced by Lieutenant Colonel Mary Garvin, superintendent of nurses, Army Nurse Corps, Fourth Service Command.

Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, Tennessee and South Carolina, have furnished the Army, Navy and Air Corps more than their allotted numbers, while North Carolina and Florida, according to latest reports, have not quite attained their goals, although information is they will do so before December 31, Colonel Gavin said.

The Army Nurse Corps superintendent was proud of the record, in the light of latest reports she had received that as of September 1, nurse recruiting in the United States was short of the 1943 quota.

Success of the recruiting campaign is particularly significant in view of the high professional qualifications required for Army Nurses, narrowing the field to a limited number of prospects.

Recruiting of nurses in all seven states will continue, even in those states which have exceeded this year's quota, Colonel Gavin said, with nurses desiring to enroll in the military services making application through the American Red Cross, the official recruiting agency.

National Pulpwood Drive Is Launched for Nov. 11 to Dec. 11

Cut-a-Cord of Pulpwood for Every Local Boy in Service.

This is the slogan and goal of a new national drive announced this week by Walter M. Dear, chairman of the Newspaper Pulpwood Committee, as a climax to the Victory Pulpwood Campaign which newspapers throughout the pulpwood area have been supporting.

The new drive begins on Armistice Day, next Thursday, and runs until December 11 when the Newspaper Pulpwood Committee hopes to see the threatened 2,500,000-cord pulpwood shortage for 1943 averted.

This community has approximately 1500 boys in the Army, Navy, Marines or Coast Guard. That means our goal of extra cords of industry as a result of the pulpwood to be cut between November 11 and December 11 is 1500 cords.

More than 1200 local pulpwood committees organized as part of the newspaper Victory Pulpwood Campaign are expected to enlist in the new drive which will cover pulpwood producing areas in 27 states of the Northeast, South, Appalachian and Lake States.

The idea for the new drive was suggested by one of the newspapers participating in the Victory Pulpwood Campaign. It was the Jackson Herald, of Ripley, W. Va., of which Sattis Simmons is publisher. So enthusiastic was the response of the people of Ripley and Jackson county that the quota of 1700 cords for as many local boys in the service was passed in a few weeks.

To date, Ripley has cut more than 2200 cords of pulpwood, or better than a cord and a quarter for every boy in service and has sold on the stump and pledged to cut an additional 3,200 cords. Moreover, the town has developed a new goal of extra cords of industry as a result of the local drive.

The new drive aimed at cutting a cord for every local boy in the service, if successful, will put the Victory Pulpwood Campaign over the top and definitely avert the 2,500,000 cord shortage which threatens military and essential civilian requirements.
