IN MEMORY OF CARL LEE McINTOSH

On his 21st Birthday, June 14th

A precious one from us is gone
A voice from us is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

No one knows how we miss you
We think of you each day and night,
Though we know you wait for us
Where there's love and peace and light.

You shall never be forgotten
Your memory is too precious to fade,
Our fondest love will always linger
On the spot where you are laid.

In loving memory of our dear son and brother:
Mr. and Mrs. Carl McIntosh, Nealy, Grace and Clyde.

(The memorial decoration will be held Sunday, June 16th at Wilson cemetery.)

LESPEDEZA CLIMBS
HIGH IN CROP SCALE

Lespedeza has climbed like a meteor in the North Carolina crop scale and now ranks second only to corn in total acreage, it was reported by Edgecombe County's Assistant Farm Agent C. H. Lockhart of the State College Extension Service.

Reminding that 25 years ago this crop was unknown in the state except as a wild growth, Lockhart said that its popularity with farmers has been gained through its merit as a hay, grazing, soil-improving and erosion-preventing crop.

The farm agent said that lespedeza produces from one to three tons of cured hay per acre under average conditions. The hay is fine-stemmed, palatable to cattle, leafy and easily cured to a bright, green color. It ranks "almost as high as alfalfa for feeding stock," Lockhart said. He added:

"Like other legumes, lespedeza stores nitrogen from the air in its stems and leaves. A heavy growth adds large quantities of nitrogen and organic matter to the soil when the crop is plowed under. Records show that corn yields have been increased from eight to 60 bushels per acre by consistently turning under lespedeza. Test show an increase of 20 bushels per acre of corn by plowing in a single crop of the legume. Similar results have been obtained with cotton, small grains and other crops. A few years ago we thought that lespedeza stubble would provide enough nitrogen and organic matter to build up our soils, but continued removal of the hay crop has proved less beneficial than had originally been expected. The plowing under of an occasional crop will help out immensely with fertilization," the agent concluded.

The new upward adjustment of dairy prices by OPA favors the production of milk as opposed to the manufacture of milk products.

Grains saved in the 30 per cent reduction in brewer's allotment will be used as feed in this country, releasing wheat for foreign shipment.

FARM NOTES

Question: Are there any new vegetables recently developed for use in this state?

Answer: Yes. The Wando garden pea is new and, although it comes in late, outbears the old standby, Early Alaska peas. The Wando variety is exceptionally sweet and superior in quality to the Early Alaska strain. Some growers this year found that while the Wando was just coming

MT. MITCHELL PEAK

(Bobbie Ruth and Eugene Banks visited their brother who is employed on Mt. Mitchell. They report a wonderful visit, beautiful scenery with the laurel in bloom, and wrote the following poem:)

Saturday we will be leaving this hill
And Gene's so excited he can't keep still.
But I like it here if I do have to cook
A few meals without using a book.
The Purple Laurels are blooming on the Scenic,
And are they pretty, I really mean it.
But I think its silly to put up signs
Saying you can't pull these because they're mine.
Of course that's the government talking that way
And you have to listen to what they say,
Or brother you'll have to go the other way,
But you won't go without having to pay.
