THE SCHOOLS BEGIN
 On Monday morning the doors of the school buildings throughout the county opened, and the children literally poured through. To those who visited a school on that morning it was an amazing sight—more students than have ever been enrolled.

And along with every community, every college and university, and perhaps most of the schools in the nation, the schools of this county are faced with inadequate housing facilities. It is impossible, with the present space, to take care of the increasing numbers, as they should be taken care of.

It is impossible also, to remedy this situation in the immediate future. The building, begun some weeks ago at Micaville, which will take care of two extra classes could easily have been ready in time if all materials could have been secured.

Now is the time, it seems to us, that every citizen of the county, should be thinking and planning for the future needs of the schools. And certainly it is the time when every citizen, whether or not he is the parent of a school child, should give all cooperation to the scho-

TO THE VETERANS
 Today so many appeals are directed to the veterans that it is difficult for them always to decide what is the best course to pursue.

On Friday evening, every veteran in the county is invited to attend a county wide meeting in the court house. Matters of importance to every ex-service man will be discussed; perhaps a program of activities can be launched that will be of benefit to all.

Veterans, come to the meeting. Perhaps the plans which will be discussed at this meeting will prove of mutual benefit both to the veterans and to the county.

YOUTH RALLY
 The Baptist Youth Rally will be held at the Jacks Creek Baptist church on Saturday evening, Aug. 17 at 6:30. Picnic supper will be served.

The speaker for the meeting will be Mrs. Margaret Sparks Knob, state Intermediate Training Union leader.

The theme of the meeting is: "Living in the Shadow of The Cross".

FORMER OFFICER-SPECIALISTS MAY REQUEST ACTIVE DUTY IN AAF

Former Army Air Forces officer-specialists may request recall to active duty. The Army Air Forces Military Personnel Division said today, since demobilization has progressed so far that the Army Air Forces does not have sufficient volunteers to fill its requirements in certain specialized and technical fields.

The announcement said new shortages had arisen in the following military occupational specialties: Chaplain, aviation ordnance officer, passenger and freight transportation officer, weather officer pilot, sanitary engineer, cryptographic security officer, military intelligence officer, and intelligence staff officers.

The Army Air Forces has previously announced vacancies in the following general fields: engineering, medical, finance, legal, weather, communications, radar, statistical control, ordnance, armament, aircraft warning, foods service, photo mapping and interpretation, automotive maintenance and repair, and chemical.

To be accepted, former officers must have an efficiency index of 40.0 (excellent) and higher, be physically qualified for overseas duty, and be within these age limits: Lieutenants and captains, 38 years or less; major, 40 or less; lieutenant colonel, 43 or less; and colonel, 46 or less.

In the event an officer on inactive status, desiring active duty, does not have a Reserve or National Guard commission, he may apply for active duty provided he has applied for a Reserve commission. Qualified applicants may be recalled pending action on appointment in the Officers' Reserve Corps. However, non-acceptance within ten days of the appointment in the Officers' Reserve Corps when tendered, will be cause for relief from active duty. WD AGO Form 170-1 is the application form for appointment in the Officers' Reserve Corps and may be obtained in the same manner as that stated for application for extended active duty forms.

Presents Claims
 More than 20,000 powers of attorney are granted the American Red Cross each month by servicemen who want the Red Cross to present their claims to the Veterans Administration rating board.

Mrs. Byrd plans to buy a pressure cooker and was very interested in the many ways the cooker could be used. Time saving equipment was an important topic that was discussed during the meeting.

Miss Edwards stressed the importance of sterilization of the jars, lids and rubber as it is very important to keep them in boiling water and take them out one by one to fill. In this way there will be no germs to seal.
