North Carolina Little Symphony Comes to Burnsville Friday

Two Concerts Will Be Given

The Little Symphony of the North Carolina Symphony Orchestra will appear in Burnsville on March 14 with programs for both children and adults. By the time they have reached Burnsville, the players will have given 31 concerts in the State. And there will remain yet 24 concerts to go between March 14 and the close of the Little Symphony season on April 3rd.

There will not be much rest for the musicians, however, for rehearsals for the Full Symphony begin the following day, April 4th. After several days of intensive rehearsing, the large orchestra will launch its tour with a concert in Reidsville on April 9th.

The Little Symphony, with all its luggage and unwieldy instruments, is able to travel in one bus with two dozen people, including Director Swalin and his wife. The members play in all sections of the State from Morehead City and New Bern to Murphy in the mountains.

The size of this group is ideal for such music as it plays in the thirty-two communities it visits this spring. The 19th Century Strauss waltz 'Wine, Women, and Song', the modern 'Jamaican Rumba' by Benjamin, and an 18th Century Mozart Symphony are equally effective and seem to be tailor-made for this group.

The Symphony Society especially appreciates the interest and enthusiasm for good music in Burnsville and feels this to be a splendid example that forward looking people have set for the rest of North Carolina.

With 88th Division

T. Sgt. Roy Mulcahey whose wife, Mrs. Alma Mulcahey, resides at Mica-ville has joined the 88 Blue Devil Division and is now serving with the S-2 office of the 752nd Tank Bn.

BURNSVILLE— "So They Say"

The weather: A very welcome touch of sunshine for several days, with forecast now for warmer and rain. Still some snow in drifts here and there but it's mostly cleared away. And next Friday is the beginning of Spring!

About town: News of the week is the coming of the Little Symphony on Friday concert for school children at 2:30 and evening concert at 8:30. Please try to attend! Burnsville was included in the schedule, although we did not raise the full quota of funds, and it will certainly be an enjoyable occasion for all who hear the concert.

... Can't keep up with all the changing around! Cheadle house sold to Doc Bennett, Josh Banks house to Hershel Holcombe, Max Penland and Bill Bailey have bought the Burnsville dry cleaning firm, and yesterday Chick Butner was buying one of those cute little Jeep station wagons! Vera Dellinger now working in the King Beauty Shop and Myrna Banks in the drug store. ... Cecil Angel must have liked his stay in the hospital. He went back Sunday to have additional treatment. ... Jo Jo Wray is missing. Be sure to let Rush know if you see him anywhere. ...
