R.E.A. Employs Home Economist

Miss Irene Edwards Will Serve

Miss Irene Edwards of Burnsville, N. C., has been employed as Home Economist by the French Broad Electric Membership Corporation to work in the area served by the Co-op. The territory consists of Madison, Mitchell, Yancey and a portion of Buncombe county in North Carolina as well as a section of Unicoi county in Tennessee. The Co-operative has at present approximately 4500 connected members that will be advised by Miss Edwards as to the use of Home Appliances and proper lighting of homes.

Her duties will consist of advising members as to how to make the most profitable use of electric current. Work will also be done with prospective members that will receive electric service in the future on the planned new extensions that are now in the process

Burnsville Home Demonstration Club Visits Penland

Eleven members of the Burnsville Home Demonstration club visited the handicraft school at Penland on Tuesday.

In the morning, a demonstration of silk screen painting was given by Miss Frances Barr, an instructor at the school. Cork mats, Christmas cards and stationery and numerous other articles can be painted in this way, and these uses were demonstrated.

In the afternoon, a metal work demonstration was given, and each of the club members attending made articles of copper and aluminum in the metal shop.

The Record To Make Pictures of Local Business Men and Leading Citizens

The Record has made arrangements with a professional photographer to make photographs of local business men and leading citizens of the county on Monday, September 22 at the Nu-Wray Hotel, from 11 a. m. to 6 p. m.

Each individual will collect his own proofs after they are finished. The Record will then have a picture made for the files to be used later in news stories or social events.

The cooperation of citizens of the county will be appreciated, and the pictures will be made with no cost to the individuals. You will be under no obligation whatsoever. However, if you like the proofs, additional copies of the photographs may be ordered for a reasonable price.
