TOBACCO BEDS

There are seven important questions that any tobacco grower should ask himself in regard to producing plants for next year

1. Have you already given serious thought to the care you will take in producing next years crop—or will you delay and take chances of starting the crop with poor plants?
2. Did you know it is very dangerous not to produce your own plants?
3. Do you have good seed to start with?
4. Have you selected appropriate varieties?
5. Are you going to locate your bed in the woods or in well drained spot in the open protected from cold winds
6. Are you going to let weeds and disease take your bed—or will you use recommended chemical soil treatment for weed and disease control?
7. Will you let bluemold take your bed next summer?

How to Control Weeds & Diseases in Plantbed Soil

A mixture of Uramon and cyanamid has proved to be very effective in controlling weeds and soil borne diseases. The treatment will save many hours of hand weeding and reduce chances of many diseases appearing in the bed. If you have never used the chemicals, it is recommended that you try it on only part of your beds and see how it works in your own soil.

1. The combination of Uramon and cyanamid gives more effective weed and disease control than either chemical used separately.
2. Early growth of plants was better.
3. In tests, it took 6 times as much labor to weed an untreated bed as it did a treated one.

When and how to apply—Should be as near 90 days before seeding as possible.

1. In October thoroughly pulverize soil.
2. Broadcast 2-3 of the Uramon-Cyanamid mixture evenly over the bed and mix thoroughly with the upper 3 inches of soil with drag harrow, garden rake etc.
3. Broadcast 1-3 of the mixture and rake lightly into upper 1 inch of soil.
4. Mix well but not too deeply.
5. If soil is dry, wet the bed thoroughly. Uramon and cyanamid require moisture to become active.

The production of burley tobacco in North Carolina is estimated at 15,000,000 pounds.

Oil Soaked Trash Burns in a Flash!

EXPOSED oily waste is a day and night fire hazard. Chemical action alone causes heat and flame. Avoid fire by keeping all waste in closed metal containers.

STATE'S 4-H CLUB MEMBERS TO OBSERVE ACHIEVEMENT WEEK

North Carolina's approximately 100,000 4-H Club members will observe National 4-H Achievement Week November 1-9, according to L. R. Harrill, State 4-H Club leader for the State College Extension Service.

The theme for this year's activities, which has been the aim of these rural youth throughout the year, will be "Working Together for a Better Home and World Community." The results of efforts in carrying out this theme will be highlighted during National 4-H Club Week. Locally, 4-H Clubs throughout North Carolina will recognize members who have done outstanding work in the projects they have carried out this year.

Production of eggs on North Carolina farms totaled 73 million during August.
