More about — FEDERATION

for breeding purposes, in a program that has been predicted to double the milk production per cow in Western North Carolina within the next ten years.

Mr. Clarke also pointed out that the new poultry department of the federation is now in operation with facilities to kill and dress more than 600 chickens per hour, most of the work being automatic.

The federation also has opened four new freezer-locker plants: one in Spruce Pine, Marion, Brevard and Spindale.

Max M. Roberts, educational director of the federation, next extended an invitation for all those present to attend the general meeting in Asheville on March 27. He announced that a tour will be conducted on that day for all members to see the various federation activities in and about Asheville. Lunch will be served.

Mack Ray, supervisor of the FHA for Yancey county, was introduced and spoke briefly. Mr. Ray said that "we have gone through four or five 'do' years, and are now beginning a period of 'don't' years. In the past, he pointed out, we were able to plant almost anything with the knowledge that it would sell. Now, however, it is better not to depend on just one crop or item for an income. 'Let's not put all our eggs in one basket,' he said.

Ewart M. Ball, editor of the Farmers Federation News was introduced and spoke briefly.

Next on the program was Mrs. C. E. Dameron, public relations director for the federation. Mrs. Dameron spoke briefly on the plans for a feed mill in Western North Carolina and announced that a dinner will be held in Yancey county in the near future to announce further details on the project.

Music was furnished by the Farmers Federation String band, and refreshments were served. Baby chicks were awarded to Buster and Bill Deyton and Rama McKinney.

BURNSVILLE — "So They Say"

The weather: We asked Dr. Robertson who is our most reliable weatherman what kind of winter our Saturday's blizzard was and he said "Just March". Maybe that explains all—most disagreeable one day, perfect spring the next. Can't decide which enjoy the good days most—the farmers and gardeners who wish to plow or the fishermen who wish to try their luck.

About town: Overheard on the street corner: Frank Howell was introducing several local citizens to two visitors in town when Daniel Boone came by. So the introduction: "And this is Daniel Boone, in person"... "Daniel Boone? Well where is your coonskin cap?" and Daniel replied, right neatly we thought: "I wear it only in winter. This is spring"... Like a bird out of a cage is the way J. E. Huskins feels.

He sold his store this week to E. N. Stamey, and is taking life easy after 35 years in store business... Helen Goodman and young daughter and Nelle Styles and young son all home from hospital... Lucille Gillespie also home in Tampa and recuperation after very serious operation... Young Janice Griffith very ill for few days because of ruptured appendix but better... The Kiffen Hennessee's young son also very ill of throat infection but now improving... Mark Bennett says the Legion Post members will meet in Legion building this month. Down to look it over and repairs going forward on the west building (old dining hall). Old plaster off and new going on so it shouldn't be too long before it is ready for meetings... New folders for Summer Art Classes received this week, and we hear that inquiries are more numerous than last year...

Time to bring up the same old subject about which we talk so much and do so little—clean up. Surely this spring we can start earlier and do better. One place on east Main street where part of a building was torn down certainly looks terrible. Can't the civic clubs, town officials and private individuals get together on some definite continuing program for the summer months?

FOR SALE: 4 year old Mare. 2 Mules coming 2 years old. Very large for age. Good set of harness. One Chattanooga Hillside Plow. One Syracuse Level Land Plow. See Ted Wilson, Hampton Branch, Day Book, N. C.

FOR SALE: 1 wood range and heatrola. One all wool rug 9x12. Also other furniture. Good condition. Reasonable. Children's clothing. Skirts 8-10. One all wool black coat and one tan coat, sizes 12 and 14. Practically new. Phone 2033. Mrs. Taft Allen. M18
