North Carolina In News

Raleigh, N. C.—North Carolina again is in the Saturday Evening Post. In a "Report to the Editor," Harold Martin tells about Crossnore school and the Sloops who founded and operated it.

The State Advertising Division said this was a "by-product" of a larger piece. When John Hemmer and Carl Sink, Advertising division employees, were taking Harold Martin around for a bear-hunt story, they stopped for an hour at Crossnore for a chat with the Sloops. The bear-hunt story will appear in an early edition of the POST.

The division said it would be the fifth North Carolina article to appear in the POST this year.

BERKELEY NIPS
BURNSVILLE IN
43-42 THRILLER

Valley Springs—The Berkeley Mills quintet edged the Burnsville Legion entry 43-42 Tuesday night at the Valley Springs high school gym as the second round of the First Annual Valley Springs Independent basketball tournament was completed thus moving the event toward the quarter-finals.

The curtain raiser also proved to be the hair-raiser as the Berkeley Mills cagers put on a rally late in the fourth period to tie the ball game up at 37-all as the final whistle marked the end of the official game. In the three minutes overtime which followed again it was the Berkeley cagers led by Peek who rallied to pull the game out of the fire with a
