MORE ABOUT — PLAYHOUSE

Virginia Moomaw of the Woman's College faculty will head the dance department, and William DeVeney, head of the voice department, Woman's College, returns to head the music department here.

Creative writing courses will be handled by Lettie Hamlet Rodgers, author of the recent novel, "South of Heaven," and W. C. Jackson, retiring chancellor of the Woman's College, will head the department of education.

Fred Koch Jr., son of the founder of the Carolina Playmakers and himself famous as the founder of the University of Miami theaters, will be on hand as guest director for the production of Casey's original comedy, "The Clear-glass Door". He will also teach the Playhouse course in acting.

In addition to Koch, Taylor, and Casey, the Playhouse staff will include: Gordon R. Bennett, University of Miami Drama Department, as technical director; Claude H. Rayborn, Footlight Players of Charleston, S. C., as assistant director; Mark R. Sumner, former publicity director of the Carolina Playmakers, as an assistant director; Ruth Hubbard Groce, Salisbury, as costume designer; Anna Graham, Raleigh Little Theater, as assistant technical director, and Tommy Rezzutto, Asheville, as shop foreman. Florabel H.

LEGION MEETING

At a joint meeting of members of the American Legion Post and the Auxiliary Tuesday night reports were heard from delegates to Boys' and Girls' State.

Barbara Simmons and Margaret Wilson who attended Girls' State in Greensboro reported on the numerous classes and activities, and their visit to places of interest. Tommy Tilson gave a report for the 10 boys who attended Boys' State at the University.

Wolff, Asheville, will be office manager.

The education department staff will include: Dr. Franklin McNutt, associate dean of the Graduate School, Woman's College; Mrs. Mary Hunter, Miss Ruth Gunter, and Miss Jessie Peden, all members of the college faculty.

Duane Kline of the Woman's College music department will return to help with the music courses, and Mrs. W. E. Braswell, Art Supervisor of Greensboro City Schools will teach the course in painting.

Season ticket books, covering all seven productions of the Playhouse and School are available by mail order from the Playhouse cent in 1935 to over 85 per cent in 1950.

HEALTH DEPARTMENT

More About — FRENCH BROAD

One of the largest crowds ever assembled in Marshall witnessed other carefully planned events. Local merchants went all out to provide attractive, interesting displays of the latest word in electrical and other farm equipment. The ladies of the order of the Eastern Star served a variety of refreshments.

The championship Mars Hill Square Dance team drew round after round of applause with a sparkling exhibition of folk dancing.

Miss Loretta Hensley of Ramseytown, read her prize winning essay to the assembled members and received the $25.00 first prize offered in the co-op contest. Other winners were Barbara Proffitt, Aileen Jones, Inez Pate and Charles Buchanan.
