AROUND THE DISTRICT

By George Vitas, U. S. Forest Ranger

To protect the Mt. Mitchell District from forest fires requires plenty of cooperation, not only from folks who use the woods or pass through, but from the weather man as well. The other day, Frank Hood, who heads up the Weather Bureau in Asheville and his Assistant, Ernest Rodney stopped in. During fire season, it's Mr. Hood and his staff that keeps us supplied with special daily forest fire weather forecasts. With these forecasts to go by, we are in a position to plan our fire protection work more accurately. This means better fire protection at less cost. Mr. Hood's office has been working closely with U. S. Forest Service research units for 15 years in producing better and more accurate fire weather forecasts.

In the early 1800's there were 900,000,000 acres of commercial and non-commercial forest land in the United States. The country's population then numbered around 884,000. In succeeding decades, much of this land was cleared for farming, cities and home sites.

Today we have about 630,000,000 acres of forest land but our population has sky-rocketed to somewhere around 155,000,000 people!

We did a little calculating with these figures and came up with the following: In the early 1800's there was an average of about 1,000 acres of forest land for every American. Today, we have an average of only 4 acres of woodland per person!

With our population still rising, Forest Conservation becomes vitally important. To continue to meet our national needs for wood it looks like we're going to have to take better care of the forest land we now have.

Gambling in the home doesn't pay—and that's putting it mildly, home canning specialists of the U.S. Department say. They explain that any housewife who is going to the trouble and time of canning should make sure that all equipment is in best condition, that she uses fresh food of good quality and follows the most up-to-date directions.

Housewives some times are tempted to save a penny here and there by using imperfect jars or lids. That's hazardous. Any jar with the slightest crack or chip should be discarded because these defects may prevent an air tight seal and thus lead to spoilage. The same is true of lids with dented or warped edges, or masonry type caps with loose or defective linings.

The flat lids of two-piece metal tops cannot be reused so should be discarded when the jar of food is opened. Generally it is safest to buy these lids new each year, even if some unused are left from the year before.

The pressure gage of a canner should be checked for accuracy each year, as most canning housewives know.

The specialist demands housewives that canning cannot improve any food and therefore that putting up poor quality food does not pay. They advise using only fresh, firm, sound fruits and young tender vegetables, and canning them as soon as possible after harvest.

Mrs. Ann Poling, 609 Delaware St., Indianapolis, Indiana, who was suffering from deficiencies of Vitamins B, B, Iron, and Niacin, smiles as she pours herself another cup of coffee. Mrs. Poling says her life lately is like it used to be years ago... "that is, of course, since I've been taking HADACOL." She can't get over what a difference HADACOL has made in her outlook on life.

Mrs. Poling says: "Three months ago a good friend of mine told me about HADACOL—she knew how much stomach distress I have had. Any type of food that was fried or that had acid in it I just couldn't eat. It affected my sleep, too. In fact, I couldn't have been in a worse condition. When I ate what I wanted to I felt miserable and when I didn't eat these things—I didn't have a proper diet and still felt bad. Then, when I started taking HADACOL, I felt better immediately. I've got a bottle in the house now—and will continue to keep HADACOL from now on. I have told many folks about HADACOL—and they all thank me for telling them about HADACOL. They all have gotten wonderful results from HADACOL like I have. Now I eat anything I want and get a good night's sleep. I can't praise HADACOL enough."

HADACOL Can Help You, Too! as it has helped thousands of others whose systems lacked Vitamins B, B, Iron and Niacin. Yes, even hundreds of doctors have recommended HADACOL to their patients. The HADACOL formula is so effective for stomachic distress, nervousness, insomnia, constipation, aches and pains of neuritis, and a general run-down condition caused by such deficiencies.

Make Up Your Mind to give HADACOL a chance to help you, as it has helped countless thousands of others. Remember, there are no substitutes for HADACOL. Always insist on the genuine HADACOL. No risk involved. Buy a bottle of HADACOL, either the trial size, $1.25, or the large family or hospital size, $3.50, and if HADACOL does not help you your money will be refunded.
