CAN YOU ANSWER THE FOLLOWING QUESTIONS?

- 1—How can newly married couples avoid mother-in-law troubles? Mother didn't tell me before I was married, and Bill and I have been having difficulty placating our mothers.
- 2—What should a mother (or father) tell her children about the different races and religions in the world so they will grow up with prejudice toward none and tolerance for all?
- 3—What is the most important fact you have learned from marriage that you would tell your children if they were about to take the vows?
- 4—Is there anything special you wish your mother had told you when you were young, which might have saved you a great deal of trouble later in life?
- 5—How much influence should a mother have on her married daughter's home? Should she step in with advice when she knows by experience that a mistake is about to be made?
- 6—How much of what your mother told you about marriage has turned out to be true even though you were skeptical at first?
- 7—Should the modern mother dominate her home so that her children cannot say later in life that MOTHER DIDN'T TELL ME?
- 8—What would you do about the other woman (short of murder?)
- 9—How do you find the gleam (behind the blush?)

If you want to know all the Hilarious Answers Don't Miss "MOTHER DIDN'T TELL ME" Coming to the YANCEY THEATRE Wednesday and Thursday, February 14th & 15th.
