Most mystery stories which we hear on the radio or read in books and magazines deal with critics and gangsters. We have one for you that's different—no gangsters, no bright lights, no screaming women—just a simple woodland mystery. Let's call it, "The Case of the Vanishing Trout." It's a true story which happened on the Mt. Mitchell Wildlife Management Area.

Here are the facts: Back in September Lee Boone, Refuge Manager, noticed that the rainbow trout out of one of his two rearing pools on Neals Creek were disappearing. In one of the pools he kept the 6 to 8 inch fish and in the other the larger ones, some as big as 13 inches. To deepen the mystery, whatever was making off with the fish was not interested in the big ones, only the 6 to 8 inch class was vanishing.

For weeks Mr. Boone kept a watchful eye on the ponds without finding the slightest clew. Since he had a good fence around each of the pools, he was certain that neither mink nor coons were the culprits. Not only that, but the fences had gates that were kept under padlock. Besides, he failed to find any signs of man being around. Still, the smaller fish continued to vanish until the original trout population of 500 in the pool dwindled down to about 250.

Then Mr. Boone began to notice that the fish were becoming extremely shy and cautious. Before the disappearing act set in, the fish would gather in droves when he approached the pool with food for them. But now, they would wildly dart into the shadows and deeper water the moment that he appeared. They acted as if they were deathly afraid of anything that loomed above them.

One day, a few weeks ago, Mr. Boone picked up a dead floating fish out of the little fish pool. Upon examination, he noted that the back of the

SPARKS TAKES PART IN CONVOY CRUISE

The "know how" of successful wartime merchant shipping was recently learned by Fred M. Sparks, aviation electronicsman, second class, USN son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Sparks of Route 2, Burnsville, N. C. Members of Patrol Squadron 34 recently completed major convoy exercises in the Atlantic between Long Island and Panama.

The maneuvers, known as "Convoy Exercises 3", were realistic in that Navy transports, tankers and cargo ships sailed from New York, Norfolk, and other East Coast ports in the same manner as did Allied convoys of World War II.

Opposing them, and attempting to close sea lanes, were "enemy" forces of submarines, surface raiders and land-based patrol bombers.

BLUE RIDGE PARKWAY OPENED APRIL 1

The three sections of the Blue Ridge Parkway that have been closed to travel throughout the winter season because of persistent hazardous driving conditions opened April 1, it was announced by Superintendent Sam E. Weems. These are the Peaks of Otter, Craggy Gardens and Soco Gap sections. All other sections of the Parkway have been open throughout the winter except during periods of ice and snow.

The April visitor will be able to travel the Parkway from its northern entrance near Waynesboro, Va. to Asheville, N. C. over a paved surface except for five short and directional by-passes by primary state highways.

The only section of the Parkway west of Asheville opened on April 1 is that from Soco Gap to Mile High Overlook. This most recently opened section affords new and spectacular views of the Great Smokies.

In announcing the opening of the Parkway motor road, Mr. Weems emphasized the recreation areas and visitor accommodations would not become available until May 1. He also pointed out that during April fire danger is usually at its worst and requested visitors not to build fires and to use ash trays when disposing of their cigarets and matches.

HIGHWAY FATALITIES BELOW LAST YEAR

Raleigh—Fatalities on the streets and highways of the state are continuing to average 15-20 behind last year, officials of the Department of Motor Vehicles happily announced this week.

The reports are collected from every part of the state daily by the Highway Patrol radio system and are relayed to Raleigh and recorded. Since January 1, highway safety officials have been eagerly watching the day-by-day reports. During the first three months of the year, they noted, fatality and injury reports have run consistently behind last year. The safety officials hope it will develop into a definite trend towards fewer accidents and fatalities in 1952.

While looking forward optimistically towards a reduction in traffic mishaps statisticians of the Department came up with a set of significant figures.

James E. Civils, chief of the Accident Reporting Section, said that one fatality from highway accidents is occurring every eight and one-half hours in North Carolina; one injury every 35 minutes; and an accident every 14 minutes.

MISS NEILL NAMED TO HEAD CANCER CRUSADE

Miss Mary Helen Neill has been named as a campaign chairman of the 1952 Cancer Crusade which opened here on April 1.

Yancey County has been asked to raise $425 as part of the national goal of sixteen million dollars which will be used for programs of research services to patients, and public education.

"A strenuous effort will be made during the Crusade to reach every family with our educational message," Miss Neill said. Knowledge of the symptoms of cancer is a highly important weapon in fighting the disease since improved cure rates depend on people going to their doctors early as possible.

Seven danger signals of the dread disease mentioned by the chairman as (1) Any sore that does not heal; (2) A lump or thickening of the tissues; (3) Unusual bleeding or discharge; (4) Any change in a wart or mole; (5) Persistent hoarseness or cough; (6) Persistent indigestion or difficulty in swallowing; and (7) Any change in normal bowel habits.

Ignorance of the danger signals of cancer usually delays diagnosis until the disease has reached an advanced, incurable stage, she pointed out.

Mrs. Troy Ray is County Commander of the Crusade. Dr. C. F. McRae is medical spokesman and Mrs. Juanita Masters is treasurer.

I hereby announce myself as candidate as a Member of the Board of County Commissioners of Yancey County, subject to the will of the Democratic Convention, April 19. If I am nominated and elected, it is my aim to discharge the duties of this office in a manner befitting a servant of the people.

A TRIMMING (TONSORIAL) FOR TAFT—Waukesha, Wis., barber George Vrakas does what Gen. Eisenhower and a number of other Republican candidates failed to do in the Wisconsin and Nebraska Presidential Primaries this week—give Sen. Robert A. Taft a trimming. Taft led his nearest opponent by more than 50,000 votes in the Badger State.

Sen. Kefauver, the "crime buster" from Tennessee, led the Democratic ticket over his opponents in both states, also. Pro-Truman candidates lost ground when the President announced himself out of the race.

Annual Food Handlers School To Be Held Here

Jake F. Buckner, District Sanitarian with the State Board of Health, announced this week that the annual school for food handlers will be conducted in the courthouse here next week. The sessions will be held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and will run each of these days from 9 a. m. to 11 a. m. and from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. The same information will be repeated in the afternoon sessions as was used in the morning in order that owners and managers of establishments may divide their personnel and send some to each session.

This school is conducted by the District Health Department in cooperation with the State Board of Health.

The program will be changed each day, the sanitarian said, and the theme will center on germs encountered in food handling, recommended food handling practices, and proper washing and sterilizing of dishes.

Well qualified personnel will discuss each subject using films of the different phases of food handling throughout the school.

Attendance at these schools has not yet been made compulsory, Buckner said; however, it is expected that not only the owners and managers of all restaurants, hotels, tourist courts, meat markets, summer camps, school lunchrooms, and other types of food handling establishments are expected to attend, but all workers in these places are expected to attend.

The Health Department hopes

HOWELL CONSTRUCTING STORE-APARTMENT BUILDING

Construction of a new store and apartment building is under way on Main Street. J. Walter Howell has begun construction on a two-story building beside the two story buildings he recently purchased from his brother, Frank Howell.

The building will be constructed on approximately the same plans as the adjoining store buildings, except that it will have apartment space on a second floor. Construction is of brick and cinder block and will be thirty by sixty feet.

The two buildings completed several months ago contain Robinson's Grocery Store and a hardware and appliance store operated by J. W. Howell and Son Company. It was not learned what kind of business will be housed in the building now under construction.

es that many housewives and domestic workers will be able to attend the school, because the sessions will be of interest to these people. The general public has also been given an invitation to attend the school.

Workers attending one session each day will be given a certificate of attendance to be used as a pocket card which will be helpful in securing employment. Also, owners and managers of establishments having 100 percent attendance will be issued merit awards which may be posted in their places of business.

FEDERATION STOCKHOLDERS MEET IN ASHEVILLE

James G. K. McClure, president of Farmers Federation, told stockholders at their annual meeting in Asheville last Saturday that the cooperative organization will pay to farmers of Western North Carolina over five million dollars for their produce, and went on to explain that a majority of this will be for poultry and poultry products.

The executive explained that it is the policy of the Federation to take a crop or an animal unit and develop markets for them, and used the development of the poultry industry in Western North Carolina as an example.

Another official told stockholders that hatching eggs are now being sold in four southern states and Cuba.

In speaking of marketing products for farmers in this section of the state, Max Roberts, Education Director, stated that the three floors operated by the tobacco division of the Federation sold over two million pounds of tobacco this season, and that the average price received by farmers selling on the Asheville market was 54 cents a pound.

Directors named by stockholders in this county at a recent meeting were Wilson Edwards and Tom Ray.

BUYING AGENCY RUMORS SPUR MINERS TO ACTION

With rumors floating that a mica buying agency will be set up in Spruce Pine by the middle of May, miners and would-be miners of Yancey County are getting into "high gear", either mining for the precious mineral or searching for a mine.

Miners who have located new prospects or who are operating old proven mines are going ahead on their operations, trying to get as much mica as possible by the time a buying agency is established. Most of them admit, however, that it is going to be more difficult to get the highest price of $70 for mica than is probably thought. However, a good deposit of ruby mica of minimum cut and of the lowest grade specified by the Government will represent a good amount of cash, even at $3 per pound.

Some operators, in both new and old mines, have been reporting from 50 to 150 pounds daily of the rum-colored mineral.
