"I REMEMBER" BY THE OLD TIMERS

From Mrs. W. H. Hilbert, Cornub, Kansas: Recently we purchased flour in a paper sack. The first paper flour sack I had seen since I left Pennsylvania years ago. It recalled to my mind the flour mills operated by water power and the millers coming to the stores with their products in white covered wagons.

I also remember when the cook stove had a "stove plate" with a deep place underneath where the ashes from the fire were stored. The plate would be removed and the ashes lifted out with a shovel. I recall my mother would chide us and say "if we didn't soon lift the ashes we would have to hang the stove plate."

From Mrs. D. H. Hallenas, Bellville, N. J.: I remember my mother making soft soap for the year. She filled a barrel half full with hemlock branches. On top of that she put sand and ashes. The barrel was put on a bench with a hole at the bottom. She poured water into the barrel. It seeped through and came out of the hole at the bottom. This was lye. When she had enough lye collected, set up an iron kettle on a crossbar. The lye was up in the kettle with fat collected from the kitchen and some water. This was cooked until the mixture thickened. This soft soap was stored in the cellar in a big barrel. It was used to wash dishes, clothes and scrub floors. I have washed many dishes with this kind of soap.

RECORD DAY ON GRANDFATHER MOUNTAIN

An all-time travel record was established at Grandfather Mountain, near the Blue Ridge Parkway in North Carolina, Sunday, October 11. Owner Hugh Morton said that traffic exceeded by at least 500 any day's record in the past, and would have gone higher except that the road to the Mile High Swinging Bridge had to be closed for a time during the afternoon to avoid congestion in the parking lot atop the mountain.
