SOCIAL ITEMS FROM CEDAR CRICK, U. S. A. Written by Uncle Josh.

Wa-al folks, here I be. In fac I ain't ben nowhere's 'cept around town, an a-sittin in my ole rockin cheer, a-watchin the worl go by. An b'lieve me a heap of hit has gone by since I last got a chancet to write enythin fer the papers. Trouble is my ritin pardner got so uppity he wouldn't let me git in a word edgeways. He figgered, I reckon, as how they wern't nothin fitten, 'cept what happened in an around Burnsville. Wal, I'll jus leave hit fer you-uns to judge o' that, atter you lissen to what's ben a-goin on down here in Cedar Crick, U. S. A.

First, an primarily, as you mout say, a lot of church folks in our parts has ben Sunday picknicks an vacshuns endurin the hot weather. Consequently the rever-rant Samuel preaching here lately to them as wern't in the meetin house. Says he this last past Sunday, "Hit's a-gettin powerful com mon these days fer some church members to pack their religion in a lunch basket along with tatre salad, fried chicken, an bananer puddin, an make a bee line fer the river bank sommers on Sunday mornin' an not git back 'til bed time that night." The way rever-rant Samuel sized hit up, in most cases these folk can put their religion in the bottom of the basket an still have plenty room fer at least two square meals fer the whole family packed in on top.

A most onusual weddin failed to take place in our nayborhood a couple of wees ago recently, betwixt the promising parties of the first an second parts. They'uns were a-gettin on jus plumb beautiful with the ceremony when the parson axed the usualquestion of th-bridge-to-be, er, that is, the bride-what-was-about-to-be, "Do-ye, Tilly Ann, promise to honor an obey yore husband?" They were a moment of silence so still you cud a-heard a pin fall, an then Tilly Ann busted out a-cryin. Betwixt sobs she said, Th' Bible says, children obey your parents an if I promise to obey Sam, I'll be dis-obeying my maw, who t'ld me never to promise I'd I'd mind any man alive!" And sir, before you could a sed Jack Robinson thet gal jerked loose from Sam an run outen the house like a skeered rabbit. Then o'course they wern't nothin left to do but postpone the weddin. The last account is that Sam has decided to list fer furrin duty in Germany or sommers. So, I reckon the weddin's ben postponed fer the duration.

Me, I don't recolect if the parson axed Sallie, my wife, iffen she'd promise to obey me or not. But I do know thet I've

STATURE

I saw the hatred in a midget's face Who could not join the human race; His mind was fettered in a tiny shape, Like genius gibbering an ape. Yet he might look at any withered man And feel the humor of life's span; And he might laugh to see young pilots try To wing some fragrant of the sky. The only stature worth a passing tear Is of a soul too tall for fear.

Manfrey Carter (Poetry for this corner should be sent direct to Edith Deaderick Erskine, Weaver ville, N. C.)

done my part of the obeyin fer the last past forty years. A fellow gits to knowin a woman purty well after livin with her a spell. So, after several trials an errors, I got to where I cud tell by a sartin glint in Sallie's eyes when hit were my time to do the obeyin. Trouble is, now thet Sallie's a-gittin old, seems like thet glint in her eye don't go away. But anyway, after forty years practice in doing what I'm told, I reckon hit won't bother me none to keep in practice a few years longer! As il allus says, enything to keep peace in the family.

Wal, folks, if my ritin partner gives me half a chancet, ye'll see my name in print again before long. They's a heap more Social news what I cud rite, but I've nigh about used up my paper, an jus then Sallie cum through, a-mumblin somethin 'bout plantin a late corn patch. She weren't talking loud, but I seed that ole familiar glint in her eye. So, —'Nuff Sed.

BRIDAL COUPLE HONORED WITH PARTIES

A party was given Friday night by Mr. and Mrs. Kemp Maurice Estep after the wedding rehearsal of Miss Llewellyn Ray and their son, Roger Wagoner Estep, for members of the wedding party and close friends in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Troy Ray, parents of the bride.

The house was decorated with summer flowers and candles. The table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake.

MEMBERSHIP CARD '55' CLUB. This is to certify that... is a member of the '55' Club of Harnett County by reason of his being convicted of a speeding violation on the highways of the State and by reason of the fact that he has, since that conviction, promised to assist in the fight against speeding in Harnett County and in North Carolina.

Raleigh — Harnett County citizens who run afoul of the speed law get some of the edge taken off their court appearances when they are invited to join the "55" Club organized by State Highway Patrol Corporal Romie F. Williamson of Dunn.

The idea behind the unique project is to consolidate those persons who manfully own up to speeding charges into an exclusive traffic safety club. It's members are pledged to go forth and spread the "Slow Down and Live" theme to others. According to the Dunn Dispatch some of the most prominent persons of the county are members.

Ed Scheidt, who is leading the current "Slow Down and Live" campaign for safer highways, was intrigued with the idea. Said Scheidt: "We would like to see '55' Clubs established in other communities. Personnel of the Motor Vehicles Department will be glad to assist civic organizations and similar groups who will undertake to get a '55' Club started in their localities. The idea is sound. We would like to see it spread."

The agency chief said interested persons may write the Public Relations Office, Department of Motor Vehicles, Raleigh for information and material.

More and more feeders are deciding that it is the results obtained from a bag of feed rather than the price that is important. They are learning to figure the cost of the milk, meat, or eggs rather than the cost tag on the feed. Willie J. Allen who looks after Mrs. Sallie Blankenships Dairy switched their dairy cows to Purina from a much cheaper feed. One week later the cows were producing 30 lbs. more milk per day and they were feeding seven bags of Purina rather than nine of the other feed. This was a daily saving on feed of approximately 50c in addition to the increased income of $1.50 from 30 lbs extra milk. This amounts to $2.00 more income per day on purina than on the competitive feed. It doesn't take an accountant to figure which produces milk the cheapest. Watch pasture condition for key to profits. What is a pasture? It's a place where grass is so good that a cow can fill her stomach in two hours or less, then lie down in the shade and rest. While she's resting, she's working for the farmer. If she has to spend all day getting enough food, the cow is working for herself, not for you. A permanent pasture should be convenient to the barn, should have a supply of clean water, and should be fertilized regularly. The better the soil, the better the pasture. Allow at least one acre per cow, if possible. Divide pasture into several paddocks and graze in rotation. Electric fencing makes this easy. Avoid overgrazing at all times. Feed on Pasture. Even when turned out into the finest spring pasture, cows need some grain ration and hay each day. When pastures become less lush, it's a good idea to feed a gallon of Purina Bulky-Las night and morning with the regular ration to hold cow condition. Remember, it's cow condition that makes milk—and profits! AT THE CRY OF "FIRE" would you know where to put your hands on a ladder, a bucket or hose? It's a good idea to set up "fire stations" at danger points in house and barn to aid fast action in case of fire. Free Culling Service.
