It will soon be safe to plant many of the warm season vegetable crops in most sections of the state east of the mountains. Tomatoes, eggplant, and pepper plants should be hardened before transplanting to the field. This can be done by withholding the water supply; that is, by keeping them on the dry side for a few days.

You may be interested in trying some of the more recently introduced snap bean varieties. Wade, Contender, and Seminole are varieties which are almost immune to bean mosaic, which sometimes reduces the yield of such varieties as Tendergreen. Improved Stringless Blue Lake is an excellent pole bean and especially good for canning and freezing. The old standby, Kentucky Wonder, is still good.

The production of sweet corn in the home garden is increasing each year because of its popularity for fresh use, freezing and canning. There are a few gardeners who still like to plant early varieties of field corn for roasting ears because the ears are large and perhaps the corn ear worm injury is a little less on these varieties. However, once you have given real sweet corn a fair trial, you will not be satisfied again with field corn. There is no comparison in edible quality. Recommended varieties for both fresh use and for processing are Seneca Chief, Golden Cross Bantam, and Ioana. These are all yellow varieties and are widely adapted.

being placed on ice box size watermelons. The New Hampshire Midget variety has become quite popular in the home garden. Hills can be spaced as close as five feet and the melon does not grow much larger than a cantaloupe. This variety becomes overripe very quickly, and this should be remembered. Perhaps the best variety of the ice box type is the Japanese or Hybrid Seedless. It will average from 8 to 12 lbs. in weight, and is of excellent quality. The seeds are undeveloped to the extent that they are not objectionable when eating the melon. You will find seed of this variety a little more expensive than some of the others.
